U.N. Seeking Space Study Compromise

Diplomats Strive To Reconcile U.S. And Soviet Plans

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —U.N. diplomats sought Wednesday to bridge the gap between Soviet and U.S. proposals on launching an international study on exploration of outer space for peaceful purposes.

The makeup of the study group appeared to be the major obstacle to agreement. Most diplomats were hopeful of achieving a compromise that would win unanimous U.N. approval.

The diplomats consulted privately on how to reconcile a new Soviet resolution with one sponsored by the United States, Britain and 18 other nations.

In the new proposal the Soviets dropped demands for abolition of U.S. bases overseas and a ban on military space missiles.

U. S. To Call Sponsors' Meeting

The United States awaited word from Washington on the Soviet proposal before calling a meeting of the 20 sponsors.

The Soviet Union proposed an 11-nation study group. It would be made up of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France plus India, the United Arab Republic and Sweden as neutrals, Argentina from the Latin-American group and Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia from the Communist bloc.

The United States was understood to feel that such a geographic distribution was weighted in favor of the Soviet Union.

The United States was said to object to only one Latin-American nation being represented. Brazil and Mexico were mentioned as additional nominees.

Lodge Suggests 9-Nation Group

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge suggested a nine-nation group to the U.N. Political Committee where both resolutions are under consideration. He did not specify any countries.

Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin indicated the composition of the study group was open to negotiation.

The Soviet Union wants the study group to be instructed to lay the groundwork for a permanent U.N. committee on exploration of outer space.

The United States wants the group to undertake a wide survey of all aspects of exploration of outer space. It has made no commitment on a permanent U.N. organ of any kind.

New Anti-TB Vaccine Tested

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Development of a new anti-tuberculosis vaccine was announced Wednesday by officials of the North Carolina Sanatorium System.

Scientists who made and tested the new vaccine called R1, said they believe it will prove a safe, effective vaccine needed to prevent TB among high risk groups.

Dr. Stuart Willis of Chapel Hill, chief investigator on the project, said safety of the R1 vaccine has been proved through "extensive testing in 6,000 animals for seven years."

Dr. Willis added, "At the present time, 1,600 people have been included in human studies evaluating R1, confirming the findings in animals as to its safety."

Dr. H. Mac Vandiviere, research director, said no active TB cases have been found among the people vaccinated with R1 in 1954. The group has received tuberculin tests and chest X-ray twice a year. However, Dr. Vandiviere said a minimum of 10 years checking must follow before the effectiveness of R1 in the group can be scientifically evaluated.

Capital Airlines And Machinists Reach Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capital Airlines and the Machinists Union reached a settlement Wednesday to end a five-week mechanics strike, first system-wide labor shutdown in the airline's history.

The agreement is subject to a vote scheduled Friday among the 2,474 strikers, most of them located here. Meanwhile the walkout continues. But an okay seemed assured.

A Capital spokesman said most of the line's operations will be resumed at 11 a.m. EST next Sunday if the agreement is accepted by employes. Full restoration of operations is expected by Wednesday, he said.

Details of the pact were withheld pending outcome of the employe ballot. It was reported to parallel closely the settlement terms worked out Tuesday between the Machinists Union and Northwest Airlines providing a 41-cent pay package spread over three years from Oct. 1, 1957.

Careful Study Pledged Ike's Spending Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) promised Wednesday that the heavily Democratic new Congress will give careful study to President Eisenhower's spending proposals.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass) predicted Eisenhower will veto any bills which Congress sends him and which he thinks entail excessive spending.

Johnson is Democratic leader in the Senate. Martin is Republican leader in the House. Both spoke with reporters after talks with Eisenhower — Johnson Tuesday night and Martin Wednesday morning.

Martin said Eisenhower has laid down a general policy aimed at cutting federal spending wherever possible, adding: "We're going to try to make substantial savings."

Johnson said he did not discuss with Eisenhower the President's campaign accusations that many Democratic candidates were "radical" spenders who could not be counted upon to protect the integrity of the dollar.

Johnson did say he had cited figures on appropriations bills passed by the current Democratic-controlled Congress in its two years. He said these showed that Eisenhower's budget requests had actually been trimmed by more than 5½ billion dollars.

During the campaign Eisenhower and other GOP speakers contended that Congress would have pushed spending five billion dollars higher than the current level but for vetoes by Eisenhower and other administration actions.

Sen. McClellan's Father Succumbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D - Ark.), whose life has been marked by a series of family tragedies, was informed Wednesday that his father had died in Arkansas.

The senator was notified of the death shortly before 5 p.m. e.s.t. during a meeting of his Senate Rackets Committee. His father, Isaac Stock McClellan, succumbed in a hospital at Pine Bluff, Ark.

McClellan's last surviving son, James, was killed in an airplane crash in Arkansas only last summer. Another son was killed in service. Still another was killed in an automobile accident while en route to funeral services for the first.

Russia Prepares To Put Squeeze On West Allies In Divided Berlin

East Germany To Get Control Of Supply Lines

BERLIN (AP) — A responsible Soviet source said Wednesday night the Soviet Union intends to give Communist East Germany control over all Western Allies supply lines to Berlin—air, rail and highway.

It was a confirmation of East German hints and Western expectations in a pattern building up since Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev called Nov. 10 for an end to the four-power occupation.

The Soviet informant said transfer of control of the supply lines was the meaning behind Khrushchev's speech.

Khrushchev proposed that the United States, Britain and France, with city garrisons totaling 10,000 troops, get out of West Berlin.

He said the Soviet Union would hand over its occupation rights in the old German capital to East Germany.

Must Deal With E. Germany

He did not spell out, however, whether he would risk a new East-West crisis by also transferring to Premier Otto Grotewohl's Red regime the supervision of traffic between West Berlin and West Germany, divided by 110 miles of Communist German territory.

The Western Big Three — and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Bonn government—do not recognize Grotewohl's regime and have refused to have any formal dealings with it.

But the pressure is on. Refusal of the United States, Britain and France to yield to East German controls might lead to a blockade of their West Berlin garrisons.

If left no choice, experts here believe the three nations would yield to controls while making it clear that this does not constitute recognition of the East German government. They would officially regard East Germans manning the checkpoints as simply agents of the Soviet Union.

Could Lead To Blockade

The Soviet source, however, contended they would have to settle any disputes directly with East Germany.

Under postwar Big Four accords, Allied military traffic became subject only to Soviet supervision.

However, West Berlin civilian traffic is already under East German police and customs controls. The 2,200,000 West Berliners would not be affected immediately and directly by a controls dispute.

Teacher Admits Shooting Rival, Burning Body

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — A 40 - year - old school teacher Wednesday described how she shot her lover's estranged wife to death and then set fire to the body to destroy the evidence.

Mrs. Edythe Klumpp, a mother of four who taught home economics, broke down and confessed to police that she killed Mrs. Louise Bergen, 32, as the two wrestled for a gun in her car parked in Caldwell Park here.

The confession came after a voluntary lie detector test, results of which police termed "questionable."

Mrs. Bergen was reported missing Oct. 31. Two days later her body, burned beyond recognition, was found by two duck hunters at Lake Cowan in neighboring Clinton County. The body was identified through jewelry.

Mrs. Klumpp claimed the shooting was accidental. She said, however, that she took the gun with her when she went to meet Mrs. Bergen to talk. The gun belonged to William Bergen and Mrs. Klumpp had borrowed it for target practice.

The blonde divorcee said she decided to burn the body "not so much to destroy it, but because I was afraid of fingerprints or some other evidence that might point to me."

The woman said she put Mrs. Bergen's body in the trunk of her car, then drove to her home economics class at Norwood High School.

The next morning, Mrs. Klumpp said, she drove, with three of her children, to Lake Cowan, stopping on the way to get a can of gasoline.

She told police she rolled the Bergen woman's body down to the lake edge, poured gasoline over it and bloody rags used to clean the car, then ignited it.

Mrs. Klumpp's students said she was about 15 minutes late for class claiming she had car trouble.

Work To Start On World's Largest Radio Telescope

CHICAGO (AP)—University of Illinois trustees issued a go-ahead Wednesday to planned construction of the world's largest radio telescope.

In approving an expenditure of $15,880 for the purchase of two land tracts south of Danville, the board pledged Illinois' contribution to a space age project that will cost about a quarter million dollars.

Trains Ram

Plane Derails Train By Crashing In Path

EL TORO, Calif. (AP)—A Marine jet fighter plane crashed onto a railroad track Wednesday, was struck by the locomotive and cartwheeled back between the fourth and fifth cars of the passenger train.

Miraculously, no one was injured, although one diesel unit and five cars of the seven-car train were derailed. About 80 passengers were aboard.

The pilot of the Skyray fighter, 2nd Lt. Phillip M. Schmidt, 23, was pulled from the burning plane by the brakeman of the Santa Fe's southbound San Diegan, Pat A. Schamber, of East Whittier, Calif.

Schamber said the plane exploded and spewed burning gasoline over a wide area. The pilot, apparently unhurt, was taken to El Toro Marine Air Base Hospital for observation.

Schmidt, practicing take-offs and landings at El Toro was unable to gain altitude on takeoff and attempted to land on the airstrip. The jet bounced over the fence and came down in an arc in front of the train.

Tom Keevil, editor of the Costa Mesa Globe-Herald, was aboard the train en route to the Sigma Delta Chi professional journalism fraternity convention at San Diego.

"The train started to slow down about a half mile before the crash," said Keevil. "Then the club car porter called out: 'Hold on, everybody,' and the train hit."

Because the plane bounced back onto the train it was first throught the jet had hit the train broadside.

Army's Draft Calls Slashed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy slashed Army draft calls Wednesday and ordered the armed forces to cut their total manpower by 71,282 men by next June 30.

Taking into account reductions already made in the current fiscal year, the total cut for the year ending next June 30 will be 75,581. This would put the armed forces at their lowest manpower level since the outset of the Korean War.

The cuts will reduce the armed forces to a total of 2,525,000 men, compared with 2,596,282 at the start of this month.

McElroy ordered the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force to carry out scheduled reductions that had been delayed through the first half of the current fiscal year.

He also set the January draft call for the Army at 9,000 men, 2,000 fewer than the monthly call for September through December. It was the lowest since the October-December period of 1957 when 7,000 men were called into the Army each month.

Defense officials said overall manpower reductions and improvements in Army re - enlistment rates were the reasons for the draft cut. The other services depend on voluntary enlistments.

Russia Rejects West Proposal On A-Test Ban

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia slammed the door Wednesday on a Western compromise plan to get the deadlocked nuclear conference down to negotiating a controlled ban on nuclear weapons tests.

Soviet Chief Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin formally rejected the Western proposal to begin concurrent talks on a test suspension and a system of built-in controls to police it. He stood firm on the Russian demand that agreement in principle on a permanent test ban must precede any discussion of a control scheme.

The Soviets also blocked new Western efforts to ease the stalemate in the parallel Geneva talks on prevention of surprise attacks.

The West, following up its inventory of possible surprise attack weapons submitted to the conference Tuesday, Wednesday offered a detailed list of techniques and devices which modern science could make available for observing and reporting surprise attacks.

The Soviets brushed aside both lists and repeated their demands for political agreements. This stand clashed head-on with the Western demand that the surprise attack talks be restricted to technical exchanges.

Both conferences were just as far from any agreement as they were when they began. The nuclear talks opened Oct. 31; the surprise attack conference a week later.

The United States and Britain introduced their compromise proposal to the nuclear conference informally Tuesday at a secret meeting of chief delegates. Designed to get the talks at least off the ground, the plan was a major concession for the West which previously had insisted on an accord for a police system before discussing a nuclear test ban. The compromise was put before the conference formally Wednesday.

Cereal-Drinking Woman Motorist Proves Downfall

DENVER (AP) — The 40-year perfect driving record of Henry Schwartz is at an end.

Schwartz, 59, charged with taking the right of way, Wednesday told Municipal Court Judge Sherman Finesilver this story:

"I braked my car for a stop sign, looked both ways and it was clear. And then I saw Her."

He was referring to Donna Doss, 24, driving a tiny foreign-made sedan.

"Her car seemed to be starting and stopping and I thought she was going to stop," Schwartz continued. "I started through the stop but she hit me.

"I ran to the woman's car. She had breakfast cereal all over her face and clothes and the car."

Yes, Miss Doss told officers, she was drinking a cup of cereal.

Demos Won But Still Owe $700,000; GOP Bills Paid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic party is flush with victory, but in debt to the tune of more than $700,000. Republicans, down in the mouth over their Nov. 4 election drubbings, had all bills paid as of Nov. 1.

At first glance this might indicate that it takes a great deal more money to finance a victorious campaign than a losing one. But the fact is that $600,000 of the Democrats' deficit is a hangover from the 1956 presidential campaign they lost.

The rest is made up of bills incurred since then. One party official said Wednesday the national committee still owes sizable printing bills.

What's going to be done about this big debt? For one thing, the Democrats may soon be looking for 700 of their better-heeled partisans to donate $1,000 each to erase the red ink marks.

Kenneth M. Birkhead, finance director of the Democratic National Committee, told a reporter the idea of a "700 Club" probably will be put up to the national committee for approval at its Dec. 6 meeting.

A nationwide committee then would be set up probably under the direction of Roger Stevens, New York businessman who is now chairman of the national committee's Executive Finance Committee.

State leaders would be appointed to get in touch with the prospective $1,000 contributors. The emphasis probably would be made on those states where the party made its biggest gains in the recent election.

Inducements to be offered contributors: A certificate or card showing membership in the "700 Club" and two tickets to the party's 1960 national convention.

British Kill EOKA Leader On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — British troops Wednesday cornered and killed Kyriakos Matsis, reputed EOKA underground leader of all of northern Cyprus, in a grenade attack at the village of Dhikimo.

Matsis was the most wanted member of the Greek Cypriot anti - British underground after EOKA leader Col. George Grivas himself.

Bazooka Inventor Dies

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Col. Gregory J. Kessenich, 62, inventor of the Bazooka which was used to good effect as an easily portable anti-tank weapon in World War II, died in a hospital Wednesday.

He was a native of Madison, Wis., and came to Florida three years ago after he retired. For more than 30 years he had been chief of the patent section of the Army Ordnance Department in Washington.

Observers For U.N. Will Leave Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Secretary general Dag Hammarskjold said Wednesday he is pulling U.N. observers out of Lebanon because they are no longer needed. No date was set.

There are 591 observers under the June 11 resolution of the Security Council to see that there was no illegal infiltration into Lebanon from President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

The observation group told the Council its observers had detected no infiltration for some time and recommended withdrawal.

Sliding Tax Rates Pegged To Economy Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP)—A system of sliding tax rates to vary automatically with the ups and downs of the economy was proposed Wednesday by economist Arthur F. Burns.

Dr. Burns, former chairman of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers, is now president of the National Bureau of Economic Research, New York.

He called for major reforms in the national policy for dealing with business slumps and inflations. Two of his major recommendations proposed more liberal unemployment compensation and congressional action establishing stable prices as one of the country's primary economic goals.

Burns gave his views in an address prepared for the Joint Council on Economic Education, an organization of schoolmen, businessmen and economists devoted to improving economic teaching. It is supported by several large foundations.

He suggested that tax reduction as an anti - recession measure would avoid some of the inflationary problems raised by a spending program.

It would be more likely to stimulate private spending quickly, he said, without producing the delayed effect of a rise in government spending just at the moment "when special stimulation is no longer desirable."

"At another point Burns observed: "Our situation would be better still if we could devise a politically acceptable means of automatically varying tax rates with the ups and downs of economic activity."

The economist is generally recognized as among the foremost authorities on the business cycle.

33 Others On Vessel Given Up For Dead

Pair Taken Ashore Following Rescue From Wooden Raft

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP) — Two exhausted survivors of one of the Great Lakes' worst shipping disasters arrived at this Lake Michigan port Wednesday night aboard a Coast Guard cutter that brought the bodies of eight of their fellow crew members. Twenty-five other men also perished in the sinking of the freighter Carl D. Bradley.

Nine other bodies will be brought to Charlevoix later.

A search continued in the storm tossed lake for the still missing crewmen but was halted again at dark.

Chances of others surviving are regarded as impossible.

First Mate, Deckman Survive

The only survivors were the first mate, Elmer Fleming, 43, and deckman Frank Mays, 26, both of Rogers City, Mich., home port of the Bradley.

Lt. Cmdr. Harold Muth, skipper of the Coast Guard cutter Sun Dew which landed the survivors, said Fleming and Mays told him there were four men aboard their raft at one time.

But the wooden raft, mounted on oil drums, flipped over three times in the 20-foot waves that churned the lake during the night.

Fleming and Mays told Muth they jumped from the sinking Bradley and found themselves by the raft. Others were in the water around them but disappeared in the inky blackness.

Fleming and Mays were suffering from extreme exposure. They were conscious when found. Upon arrival here they were rushed to the local hospital.

Search To Be Resumed

Fleming and Mays were rescued about 8:45 a.m. Hopes lifted in midafternoon when the German freighter Transontario reported pulling a body aboard "with maybe a breath of life in it." But the man, later identified as Gary Strzelecki of Rogers City, was dead before aid could be given.

Thirty of the seamen were from the little Lake Huron port town of Rogers City, Mich.

The search will resume at daybreak Thursday with at least three Coast Guard vessels and four airplanes.

What caused the huge vessel—the length of two football fields—to break up—remained unknown. Apparently there was no explosion nor was any of the many treacherous reefs near the top of the lake involved in the accident.

Duel To Death In Lighthouse

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Coast Guardsmen waged a dramatic duel with hammer and knife in a lighthouse by the sea Tuesday night. Wednesday one of the men died of a slashed throat and the other was arrested.

Officials disclosed only scanty details about the fight in the residential quarters of one of the nation's most important beacons—the Coast Guard's Fort Wadsworth Lighthouse, which lights the entrance to New York Harbor.

Authorities investigated a report that the two men had feuded because one feared his wife was receiving too much attention from the other.

Engineman 1-C Thomas Somogyi, 28, Cecil, Pa., was killed and Boatswain's Mate Jacob A. Hughes, 30, Orangeburg, S.C., was arrested.

Hughes, according to reports, thought his wife, Marion, was receiving too much attention from Somogyi.

Prince Rainier, Grace Fly To U.S. Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American World Airways said Wednesday Prince Ranier and his Princess, former actress Grace Kelly, have booked passage on a transatlantic flight that arrives here Sunday from Rome.

Their two children are not expected to accompany the couple.

The woman said she put Mrs. Bergen's body in the trunk of her car, then drove to her home economics class at Norwood High School.

The next morning, Mrs. Klumpp said, she drove, with three of her children, to Lake Cowan, stopping on the way to get a can of gasoline.

She told police she rolled the Bergen woman's body down to the lake edge, poured gasoline over it and bloody rags used to clean the car, then ignited it.

Mrs. Klumpp's students said she was about 15 minutes late for class claiming she had car trouble.

Plane Derails Train By Crashing In Path

EL TORO, Calif. (AP)—A Marine jet fighter plane crashed onto a railroad track Wednesday, was struck by the locomotive and cartwheeled back between the fourth and fifth cars of the passenger train.

Miraculously, no one was injured, although one diesel unit and five cars of the seven-car train were derailed. About 80 passengers were aboard.

The pilot of the Skyray fighter, 2nd Lt. Phillip M. Schmidt, 23, was pulled from the burning plane by the brakeman of the Santa Fe's southbound San Diegan, Pat A. Schamber, of East Whittier, Calif.

Schamber said the plane exploded and spewed burning gasoline over a wide area. The pilot, apparently unhurt, was taken to El Toro Marine Air Base Hospital for observation.

Schmidt, practicing take-offs and landings at El Toro was unable to gain altitude on takeoff and attempted to land on the airstrip. The jet bounced over the fence and came down in an arc in front of the train.

Tom Keevil, editor of the Costa Mesa Globe-Herald, was aboard the train en route to the Sigma Delta Chi professional journalism fraternity convention at San Diego.

"The train started to slow down about a half mile before the crash," said Keevil. "Then the club car porter called out: 'Hold on, everybody,' and the train hit."

Because the plane bounced back onto the train it was first throught the jet had hit the train broadside.

Army's Draft Calls Slashed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy slashed Army draft calls Wednesday and ordered the armed forces to cut their total manpower by 71,282 men by next June 30.

Taking into account reductions already made in the current fiscal year, the total cut for the year ending next June 30 will be 75,581. This would put the armed forces at their lowest manpower level since the outset of the Korean War.

The cuts will reduce the armed forces to a total of 2,525,000 men, compared with 2,596,282 at the start of this month.

McElroy ordered the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force to carry out scheduled reductions that had been delayed through the first half of the current fiscal year.

He also set the January draft call for the Army at 9,000 men, 2,000 fewer than the monthly call for September through December. It was the lowest since the October-December period of 1957 when 7,000 men were called into the Army each month.

Defense officials said overall manpower reductions and improvements in Army re - enlistment rates were the reasons for the draft cut. The other services depend on voluntary enlistments.

Russia Rejects West Proposal On A-Test Ban

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia slammed the door Wednesday on a Western compromise plan to get the deadlocked nuclear conference down to negotiating a controlled ban on nuclear weapons tests.

Soviet Chief Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin formally rejected the Western proposal to begin concurrent talks on a test suspension and a system of built-in controls to police it. He stood firm on the Russian demand that agreement in principle on a permanent test ban must precede any discussion of a control scheme.

The Soviets also blocked new Western efforts to ease the stalemate in the parallel Geneva talks on prevention of surprise attacks.

The West, following up its inventory of possible surprise attack weapons submitted to the conference Tuesday, Wednesday offered a detailed list of techniques and devices which modern science could make available for observing and reporting surprise attacks.

The Soviets brushed aside both lists and repeated their demands for political agreements. This stand clashed head-on with the Western demand that the surprise attack talks be restricted to technical exchanges.

Both conferences were just as far from any agreement as they were when they began. The nuclear talks opened Oct. 31; the surprise attack conference a week later.

The United States and Britain introduced their compromise proposal to the nuclear conference informally Tuesday at a secret meeting of chief delegates. Designed to get the talks at least off the ground, the plan was a major concession for the West which previously had insisted on an accord for a police system before discussing a nuclear test ban. The compromise was put before the conference formally Wednesday.

Cereal-Drinking Woman Motorist Proves Downfall

DENVER (AP) — The 40-year perfect driving record of Henry Schwartz is at an end.

Schwartz, 59, charged with taking the right of way, Wednesday told Municipal Court Judge Sherman Finesilver this story:

"I braked my car for a stop sign, looked both ways and it was clear. And then I saw Her."

He was referring to Donna Doss, 24, driving a tiny foreign-made sedan.

"Her car seemed to be starting and stopping and I thought she was going to stop," Schwartz continued. "I started through the stop but she hit me.

"I ran to the woman's car. She had breakfast cereal all over her face and clothes and the car."

Yes, Miss Doss told officers, she was drinking a cup of cereal.

Schwartz pleaded guilty to taking the right of way and paid a $12 fine. Miss Doss will appear in court Dec. 9 on a charge of careless driving.

CHICAGO (AP)—University of Illinois trustees issued a go-ahead Wednesday to planned construction of the world's largest radio telescope.

In approving an expenditure of $15,880 for the purchase of two land tracts south of Danville, the board pledged Illinois' contribution to a space age project that will cost about a quarter million dollars.

DACCA, Pakistan (UPI) — At least 16 persons were feared killed and 37 injured Wednesday when a fast mail train rammed into a standing train at Laksham, 100 miles north of here.

British Kill EOKA Leader On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — British troops Wednesday cornered and killed Kyriakos Matsis, reputed EOKA underground leader of all of northern Cyprus, in a grenade attack at the village of Dhikimo.

Matsis was the most wanted member of the Greek Cypriot anti - British underground after EOKA leader Col. George Grivas himself.

Bazooka Inventor Dies

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Col. Gregory J. Kessenich, 62, inventor of the Bazooka which was used to good effect as an easily portable anti-tank weapon in World War II, died in a hospital Wednesday.

He was a native of Madison, Wis., and came to Florida three years ago after he retired. For more than 30 years he had been chief of the patent section of the Army Ordnance Department in Washington.

Observers For U.N. Will Leave Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Secretary general Dag Hammarskjold said Wednesday he is pulling U.N. observers out of Lebanon because they are no longer needed. No date was set.

There are 591 observers under the June 11 resolution of the Security Council to see that there was no illegal infiltration into Lebanon from President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

The observation group told the Council its observers had detected no infiltration for some time and recommended withdrawal.

Sliding Tax Rates Pegged To Economy Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP)—A system of sliding tax rates to vary automatically with the ups and downs of the economy was proposed Wednesday by economist Arthur F. Burns.

Dr. Burns, former chairman of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers, is now president of the National Bureau of Economic Research, New York.

He called for major reforms in the national policy for dealing with business slumps and inflations. Two of his major recommendations proposed more liberal unemployment compensation and congressional action establishing stable prices as one of the country's primary economic goals.

Burns gave his views in an address prepared for the Joint Council on Economic Education, an organization of schoolmen, businessmen and economists devoted to improving economic teaching. It is supported by several large foundations.

He suggested that tax reduction as an anti - recession measure would avoid some of the inflationary problems raised by a spending program.

It would be more likely to stimulate private spending quickly, he said, without producing the delayed effect of a rise in government spending just at the moment "when special stimulation is no longer desirable."

"At another point Burns observed: "Our situation would be better still if we could devise a politically acceptable means of automatically varying tax rates with the ups and downs of economic activity."

The economist is generally recognized as among the foremost authorities on the business cycle.

Demos Won But Still Owe $700,000; GOP Bills Paid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic party is flush with victory, but in debt to the tune of more than $700,000. Republicans, down in the mouth over their Nov. 4 election drubbings, had all bills paid as of Nov. 1.

At first glance this might indicate that it takes a great deal more money to finance a victorious campaign than a losing one. But the fact is that $600,000 of the Democrats' deficit is a hangover from the 1956 presidential campaign they lost.

The rest is made up of bills incurred since then. One party official said Wednesday the national committee still owes sizable printing bills.

What's going to be done about this big debt? For one thing, the Democrats may soon be looking for 700 of their better-heeled partisans to donate $1,000 each to erase the red ink marks.

Kenneth M. Birkhead, finance director of the Democratic National Committee, told a reporter the idea of a "700 Club" probably will be put up to the national committee for approval at its Dec. 6 meeting.

A nationwide committee then would be set up probably under the direction of Roger Stevens, New York businessman who is now chairman of the national committee's Executive Finance Committee.

State leaders would be appointed to get in touch with the prospective $1,000 contributors. The emphasis probably would be made on those states where the party made its biggest gains in the recent election.

Inducements to be offered contributors: A certificate or card showing membership in the "700 Club" and two tickets to the party's 1960 national convention.

33 Others On Vessel Given Up For Dead

Pair Taken Ashore Following Rescue From Wooden Raft

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP) — Two exhausted survivors of one of the Great Lakes' worst shipping disasters arrived at this Lake Michigan port Wednesday night aboard a Coast Guard cutter that brought the bodies of eight of their fellow crew members. Twenty-five other men also perished in the sinking of the freighter Carl D. Bradley.

Nine other bodies will be brought to Charlevoix later.

First Mate, Deckman Survive

The only survivors were the first mate, Elmer Fleming, 43, and deckman Frank Mays, 26, both of Rogers City, Mich., home port of the Bradley.

Lt. Cmdr. Harold Muth, skipper of the Coast Guard cutter Sun Dew which landed the survivors, said Fleming and Mays told him there were four men aboard their raft at one time.

But the wooden raft, mounted on oil drums, flipped over three times in the 20-foot waves that churned the lake during the night.

Fleming and Mays told Muth they jumped from the sinking Bradley and found themselves by the raft. Others were in the water around them but disappeared in the inky blackness.

Fleming and Mays were suffering from extreme exposure. They were conscious when found. Upon arrival here they were rushed to the local hospital.

Search To Be Resumed

Fleming and Mays were rescued about 8:45 a.m. Hopes lifted in midafternoon when the German freighter Transontario reported pulling a body aboard "with maybe a breath of life in it." But the man, later identified as Gary Strzelecki of Rogers City, was dead before aid could be given.

Thirty of the seamen were from the little Lake Huron port town of Rogers City, Mich.

The search will resume at daybreak Thursday with at least three Coast Guard vessels and four airplanes.

What caused the huge vessel—the length of two football fields—to break up—remained unknown. Apparently there was no explosion nor was any of the many treacherous reefs near the top of the lake involved in the accident.

Duel To Death In Lighthouse

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Coast Guardsmen waged a dramatic duel with hammer and knife in a lighthouse by the sea Tuesday night. Wednesday one of the men died of a slashed throat and the other was arrested.

Officials disclosed only scanty details about the fight in the residential quarters of one of the nation's most important beacons—the Coast Guard's Fort Wadsworth Lighthouse, which lights the entrance to New York Harbor.

Authorities investigated a report that the two men had feuded because one feared his wife was receiving too much attention from the other.

Engineman 1-C Thomas Somogyi, 28, Cecil, Pa., was killed and Boatswain's Mate Jacob A. Hughes, 30, Orangeburg, S.C., was arrested.

Soviet Interference In German Affairs Denounced By U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The United States accused Russia Wednesday of massive interference in German affairs by maintaining a puppet East German Communist regime through military force.

The State Department blasted the Soviet role in East Germany in the face of mounting Communist pressure aimed at driving the Western Allies from divided Berlin.

Department spokesman Lincoln White said the Kremlin was guilty of "massive interference in German affairs" because of "its efforts to maintain by armed force domination over a large part of the German people."

At the same time, he rejected as ridiculous Soviet charges that this country was using West Germany and West Berlin as bases for espionage against the Soviet bloc.

White said this accusation, made at a Soviet Embassy news conference in East Berlin Tuesday, was a "lead balloon which appropriately sinks to the bottom of the waters it hopes to muddy."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles warned at the outset of the Soviet campaign to take over Red-encircled West Berlin that this country would fight, if necessary, to hold its position in the former German capital.

White said the new Soviet charges were not likely to "succeed in convincing anyone" that the West, rather than Russia, was guilty of interference and subversion in Germany.

He said Russia, at a meeting of world Communist leaders in Moscow in November 1957, "made clear its determination to use Communist and 'workers' parties throughout the world in attempts to install the 'dictatorship of the proletariat' in all countries."

White said that in view of the Soviet record of subversion, it was unlikely that world opinion could be fooled on which side was really guilty of interference in German affairs.

White declined to comment on East German charges the Western powers had violated the Berlin access agreement by sending civilian as well as military traffic along air, highway and rail corridors to West Germany.

Meanwhile, other officials said the United States, Britain and France had standing plans to deal with the situation if the Russians made good their threat to pull out of East Berlin and turn over control of the access corridors to their East German puppets.

Phil Harris Slightly Hurt In Auto Crash

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Entertainer Phil Harris suffered minor injuries in an auto accident Wednesday, but a "premonition" may have helped him guard against more serious harm.

Harris, 51, well-known for radio, movie and television appearances, received shoulder and ankle bruises when the taxicab in which he was a passenger collided with a car.

"I had a feeling, a premonition, that something was going to happen," said Harris. "So when I saw the crash coming I just put both feet up on the back of the front seat."

Harris, husband of actress Alice Faye, was not hospitalized.

Congregation Votes To Move With Pastor

MILWAUKEE (AP)—When the Rev. Bennie Morris starts a new church in Arizona, he won't be leaving his flock behind. The congregation has voted to sell its church and move to Phoenix with the pastor.

"We're all thrilled about it," said Mrs. Florence Cornish, who has sold her home and plans to leave later this week for Phoenix.

She said, "It's like one big family; Mr. Morris has been like a shepherd to us. I have the greatest faith in him."

Some of the 90 parishoners already have left for Phoenix. Most of the parishoners hope to be there for the opening service on Thanksgiving Day. They will be guests at an existing church there.

The Rev. Mr. Morris said Wednesday that by Jan. 1 all 90 probably will be in Phoenix. He knew of only one parishoner who is staying here, a woman whose husband is not a member of the congregation.

The clergyman has been pastor of the Gospel Chapel congregation here for the past 15 years. Several months ago he received a call to start a new church in Phoenix.

The parishoners here, faced with finding a successor, decided to sell the church, sell their homes, give up their jobs and move to Arizona with the Rev. Mr. Morris.

"We've been with Mr. Morris 14 years," said Charles Copple. "The congregation has grown to love him."

The church building here is being sold to Rudolph Kuper and Associates, who are planning a shopping center.

Ty Power's Body Flown To California

BOSTON (UPI) — The body of actor Tyrone Power was flown to California Wednesday for a final tribute by the movie colony where he gained fame as a swashbuckling screen hero and matinee idol.

Power's widow, Deborah, and his business manager and agent, Bill Gallagher, accompanied the body on the non-stop flight from here, final leg of the trip from Madrid, Spain, where the 44-year-old actor died last Saturday of a heart attack.

The widow, in an interview here, said she hoped Power's death and funeral would not be turned into an instrument of publicity "for anybody." She said also that she would prefer that his two daughters did not attend the services.

Mrs. Power, the actor's third wife, is expecting their first child early next year.

Baltimore Woman Perishes In Fire

BALTIMORE (AP) — A middle-aged woman fell to her death from a third-floor window Wednesday as fire swept through an East Baltimore rowhouse.

The victim, dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital, was identified as Mrs. Mary Williams, Negro.

Police said three neighbor men caught two small children who were dropped from the second floor and broke the fall of their mother. The mother, Mrs. Marion Barrett, 34, also Negro, was in fair condition in the same hospital with a possible fractured ankle.

The two-alarm fire broke out about 5:25 p. m. and firemen had it under control by 6 o'clock.

Bored Little Girl Flooded With What-To-Do Ideas

CORYDON, Ind. (AP)—You're 9 years old and bored with life. What do you do?

Mary Kraft asked a national magazine (Saturday Evening Post) for help.

"I would wish that you would have an article that tells things for children to do, outside and in," Mary wrote.

"After going to school three years I run out of things to do. I know things to do, but I did them so often that I am tired of them. I would like to do something new."

A week later the Kraft mailbox, seven miles from here, was spilling over with letters from 20 states and Canada.

"Make museum mummies or a glass xylophone," an Ohio woman suggested.

From Oregon came this advice: "Pick some wild Indiana flowers, dry and press them, send them to me. Then I will send you some wild Oregon flowers."

One writer, apparently with tongue in cheek, asked:

"How long has it been since you helped your mother with the dishes?"

Mary always helps with the farm chores but has no one to play with after school and during summer vacations.

That's the big reason she wearied of reading, playing the piano and dressing her dolls.

Mary says one of the letters she liked best was from a Berkeley, Calif., woman who recommended:

"Ask God to please put a spark plug in your imagination."

Strangely enough, most of the writers were elderly persons. Only a few were near Mary's age.

Smithsonian Given Jupiter Nose Cone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has given the Smithsonian Institution the first man-made object to soar into the fringers of space and be recovered undamaged. It is the Jupiter-C missile nose cone salvaged from the sea after a 1,321-mile flight that carried it 270 miles high.

Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker described the 2½-foot high cone, in a formal, floodlighted presentation ceremony Wednesday, as "one of the outstanding firsts in the history of American scientific progress."

The cone is the one that President Eisenhower showed to a television audience shortly after its recovery in August 1957.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Claude B. Hellmann, who goes out of office as Maryland Secretary of State in January, will go down in history as the secretary who issued a state catalog in which his own name is misspelled.

The 1957-58 Maryland Manual lists it on Page 28 as "Hellman."

Court Considers Liability Of Church Groups In Fire

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals Wednesday considered one of the 82 damage suits filed in connection with a 1956 fire which took 11 lives at a church oyster roast.

The question put to the state's highest court was a technical one. Can the church groups involved plead charitable immunity from liability in this case?

The fire involved is the Arundel Park blaze which occurred Jan. 29, 1956. Nine death actions and 73 personal injury suits involving the fire are pending in the Baltimore courts.

Wednesday's arguments involved the dismissal of claims against the church defendants in a damage suit brought by the surviving children and mother of Mrs. Stella A. Cavanaugh, a Baltimore woman who died in the fire.

Judge E. Paul Mason ruled out any liability by the church groups in the Cavanaugh case on technical grounds. But in all the other suits the church organizations are still involved.

The Cavanaugh suit, seeking $260,000 damages, was brought against the Arundel Park Corp., operators of the building destroyed by the fire; St. Rose of Lima Roman Catholic Church, sponsor of the oyster roast; the Rt. Rev. Leonard J. Ripple, pastor of St. Rose of Lima, and the Archbishop of Baltimore.

The Court of Appeals took the arguments under advisement.

Ike To Participate

Seek Record Thief

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — Police Wednesday were looking for the thieves who stole 1,400 jazz and other popular musical records from an automobile during the night. The records were valued at an estimated $32,000 by the owner.

HAPPY REUNION — In a case stranger than fiction, John Mark (left) and his wife (right) have been reunited after 10 years with their daughter, Faylene (center). The parents, who had moved to Miami, Fla., sought their daughter in New York. Faylene, meantime, had married Frederick Helmcamp, Jr. They came to Miami and, by chance, found her parents. Bored Little Girl Flooded With What-To-Do Ideas

CORYDON, Ind. (AP)—You're 9 years old and bored with life. What do you do?

Mary Kraft asked a national magazine (Saturday Evening Post) for help.

"I would wish that you would have an article that tells things for children to do, outside and in," Mary wrote.

"After going to school three years I run out of things to do. I know things to do, but I did them so often that I am tired of them. I would like to do something new."

A week later the Kraft mailbox, seven miles from here, was spilling over with letters from 20 states and Canada.

"Make museum mummies or a glass xylophone," an Ohio woman suggested.

From Oregon came this advice: "Pick some wild Indiana flowers, dry and press them, send them to me. Then I will send you some wild Oregon flowers."

One writer, apparently with tongue in cheek, asked:

"How long has it been since you helped your mother with the dishes?"

Mary always helps with the farm chores but has no one to play with after school and during summer vacations.

That's the big reason she wearied of reading, playing the piano and dressing her dolls.

Mary says one of the letters she liked best was from a Berkeley, Calif., woman who recommended:

"Ask God to please put a spark plug in your imagination."

Strangely enough, most of the writers were elderly persons. Only a few were near Mary's age.

Smithsonian Given Jupiter Nose Cone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has given the Smithsonian Institution the first man-made object to soar into the fringers of space and be recovered undamaged. It is the Jupiter-C missile nose cone salvaged from the sea after a 1,321-mile flight that carried it 270 miles high.

Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker described the 2½-foot high cone, in a formal, floodlighted presentation ceremony Wednesday, as "one of the outstanding firsts in the history of American scientific progress."

The cone is the one that President Eisenhower showed to a television audience shortly after its recovery in August 1957.

It Really Happened

BALTIMORE (AP) — Claude B. Hellmann, who goes out of office as Maryland Secretary of State in January, will go down in history as the secretary who issued a state catalog in which his own name is misspelled.

The 1957-58 Maryland Manual lists it on Page 28 as "Hellman."

Court Considers Liability Of Church Groups In Fire

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals Wednesday considered one of the 82 damage suits filed in connection with a 1956 fire which took 11 lives at a church oyster roast.

The question put to the state's highest court was a technical one. Can the church groups involved plead charitable immunity from liability in this case?

The fire involved is the Arundel Park blaze which occurred Jan. 29, 1956. Nine death actions and 73 personal injury suits involving the fire are pending in the Baltimore courts.

Wednesday's arguments involved the dismissal of claims against the church defendants in a damage suit brought by the surviving children and mother of Mrs. Stella A. Cavanaugh, a Baltimore woman who died in the fire.

Judge E. Paul Mason ruled out any liability by the church groups in the Cavanaugh case on technical grounds. But in all the other suits the church organizations are still involved.

The Cavanaugh suit, seeking $260,000 damages, was brought against the Arundel Park Corp., operators of the building destroyed by the fire; St. Rose of Lima Roman Catholic Church, sponsor of the oyster roast; the Rt. Rev. Leonard J. Ripple, pastor of St. Rose of Lima, and the Archbishop of Baltimore.

The Court of Appeals took the arguments under advisement.

Ike To Participate

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower will participate in the first graduation ceremonies at the U. S. Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs next June, it was announced Wednesday by Thayer Tutt, chairman of Colorado's Centennial Commission.

Cook Sentenced To Death For Slaying Of Policeman

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Johnnie Brown, 37-year-old cook, displayed no outer emotion Wednesday as he heard himself sentenced to die for the slaying of a Salisbury policeman.

The patrolman, Henry T. Stephens, was shot to death as he was taking Brown in to headquarters on a forgery charge. Brown contended throughout the policeman was shot when his gun fired accidentally while he was trying to get rid of it.

A jury of seven women and five men deliberated two hours before bringing in a first degree murder verdict without a recommendation of mercy.

Chief Judge W. Laird Henry Jr. deliberated about 10 minutes between death and life in prison before sentencing Brown to die in the gas chamber at the Maryland Penitentiary.

"The officer who was arresting you was performing his legal duties," Judge Henry told Brown. "He had arrested you for forgery. You claim the shooting of this man was an accident. The court is not impressed with that. The special agent of the FBI proved that it was not possible to fire that gun without (hand) pressure. That rules out the argument that the shooting was an accident."

The trial had been transferred here from Wicomico County, where the shooting took place, on request of Brown's attorneys.

Wicomico's state's attorney, Hamilton Fox, told the court before sentencing that "never in the eight years since I have been state's attorney for Wicomico County have I asked for the death penalty. Today I'm departing from that practice and requesting capital punishment."

Fox said the prosecution had used restraint in presenting its case.

"We have raised no bloody shirts, we have not paraded the family of the victim before you," he said. "He committed one of the most serious crimes directed at the roots of society. He has been given a fair trial.

"We know he possesed a criminal mind. He carried a gun, ready to shoot. And while walking along with this officer who was doing his duty, he pulled out the gun and shot him. The main point in this case is the needless, heedless, reckless taking of life.

"He showed no mercy, and he is entitled to no mercy."

Patrolman Stephens was shot through the neck.

Baltimoreans Facing Big Hikes In Tax, Water Bills

BALTIMORE (AP) — A whopping 49-cent boost in the Baltimore property tax rate and a hike of 50 per cent in water bills to pay for sewer service was recommended Wednesday by the budget committee of the Board of Estimates.

The committee said the boosts were needed to help foot Baltimore's biggest budget ever, proposed $332,075,335 and up 100 million over the 1958 budget.

The Baltimore property tax would go to $3.47 per each $100 valuation under the committee proposal.

The city needs to raise about $19,600,000 in revenues. The sewer service charge plus an expanded taxable basis would provide about six million and the property tax hike the balance.

In trimming $18,800,000 from the 350 million dollars in departmental requests, the committee cut more than 6 million from education funds, including $5,800,000 asked for salary and wage boosts. This was the biggest cut in general funds. Gov.-Elect J. Millard Tawes has promised to work for a statewide teacher pay boost.

The committee also cut about $6,800,000 proposed for expansion of Friendship International Airport.

Under the committee proposal salary increases would go only to internes at City Hospitals.

Champion Steer Brings $4,511

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Ten-year-old Gegory Artz, who wants to be a cowboy, has already learned the art of corraling cold cash.

His grand champion Aberdeen-Angus steer brought $4,511.25 Wednesday at the Eastern National Livestock Show. That's $4.01 a pound, compared to the day's general market price of 27-28 cents.

Duke, a 1,125-pounder went to the Schuluderberg-Kurdle Co. of Baltimore.

Although young Gregory, a fifth grader at Cecilton, Md., says he wants to be a cowboy, his father, Kenneth Artz, said that before Gregory climbs into the saddle—if he does — he's going to college. Artz said the $4,511 to which Duke so royally treated them, is going in the bank for Gregory's education.

The $4.01 a pound Duke brought was shy by $1.09 a pound of the record sale price at the Eastern National.

Duke was judged the best Aberdeen-Angus exhibited, went on to grab honors in the 4-H-FFA division and capped all this by winning grand champion honors.

Emergency Vehicles May Crash Red Light If Intersection Clear

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — A judge ruled Wednesday that emergency vehicles can't crash red lights without first making certain there is no other traffic within the intersection.

Judge William B. Kreykenbohm's ruling came in a case involving a collision between an ambulance and a car. The judge acquitted the driver of the auto, Joseph B. Harris, 31, of failing to give right of way.

Judge Kreykenbohm ruled that emergency vehicles can take the right of way only if there is no risk of striking another vehicle at an intersection. He said also they can't proceed without warning.

In the collision involving Harris' car and an ambulance en route to an accident, both vehicles were severely damaged but no one was hurt.

Europeans Trading With Soviets Aren't Finding Expected Profits

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Europeans trying to do business with the Soviet Union under recently relaxed trade regulations aren't finding the profits they had expected.

They are finding the Soviet purchase pattern spotty.

There is evidence that the Reds are more interested in purchasing production models which can be copied than in buying to meet consumer consumption directly.

This is an old Soviet habit. Long before World War II the Reds were frequently more interested in blueprints even than in production models.

They bought blueprints for machines and for tanks and, incidentally, made more from the latter than did the United States.

In those days the Soviet spy was more likely to be interested in an American industrial process or a German chemical process than in military secrets.

This effort to compress the world's industrial revolution into a brief period for Soviet purposes has now become a major factor in the cold war.

Adlai Stevenson reports from his latest visit that Soviet engineers are doing a real job of replacing lend-lease and other Western machinery acquired years ago with modern models of their own.

There is much kinship, then, between what the Reds are doing now and what the Japanese did after realizing their industrial backwardness years ago. They copied the West, raced toward industrialization, and began to compete with the countries which were ahead of them in the industrial revolution.

They finally tried to take over a vast area with a billion people as their private trading preserve, and got themselves into a disastrous war.

The Soviet "spot" buying is an additional clue to the methods by which she intends to prosecute the cold war.

She already is selling at a loss and buying at a premium when it suits her political purposes. To do so, her dictatorship can withhold food and products from the internal economy almost at will in order to establish entangling trade relations abroad.

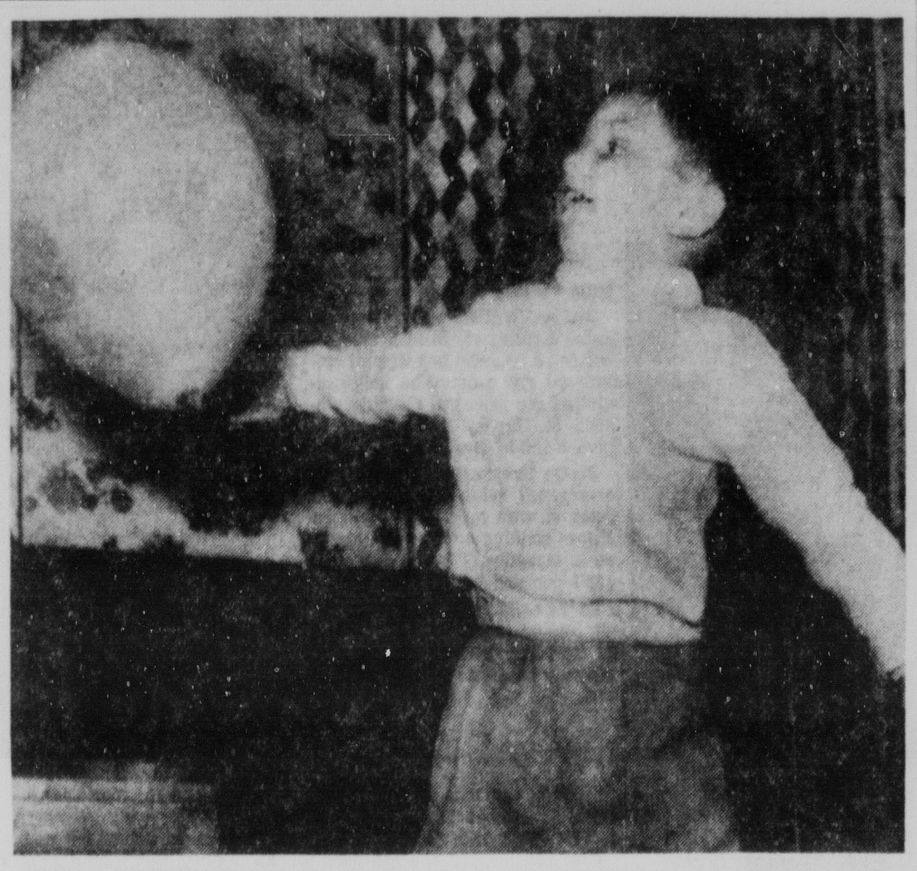
In addition, she is producing actual surpluses, such as pig iron, which will soon be used the same way. She can dump surpluses to disturb world markets—disturbance always being one of her chief stocks in trade. Or she can start supplying underdeveloped countries and then cut them off if they refuse to swallow her political program.

All this enhances the problems of an already unstable world, in which the transition from colonialism to the independence of underdeveloped nations would be a sufficient problem in itself.

It faces both governments and private enterprise with problems with which they are not familiar, in a type of warfare in which neither old-fashioned gunboats or new-fangled bombs are of value.

Airline Sells Horse

WARSAW (UPI) — Progress report: The Polish National Airlines (Lot) Tuesday advertised "for sale, one horse, one wagon." The company was asking $400 at the tourist rate of exchange.



WHO'S AFRAID OF THE DOCTOR? — You'd never guess this lively five-year-old has a hole in his heart. Stephen Smith, whose parents brought him from their London suburb home to the U.S. for surgery they hope will give him a chance for a normal life, plays with a balloon aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth on arrival in New York yesterday. The parents, railroad worker Frederick Smith and his wife Kathleen, said they had received offers of free medical treatment from Moscow but chose to bring the boy to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. A hometown group raised funds for the trip from Britain and operation costs. (AP Photofax)

Drunkenness Was Virtue To Early Iroquois

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the early Iroquois Indians, drunkenness wasn't a vice, but a virtue.

He even had a word for it, "gannontiouaratonseri." And when an Iroquois went on a ganntiouaratonseri, that meant he was really loaded.

The early Indian guzzling habits were up for discussion Tuesday at the 6th annual American Indian Ethnohistoric Conference at the Smithsonian Institution.

For the white man is a peculiar character. Having completely destroyed the Indian way of life, he now has the itch to find out what it was he destroyed.

Edmund Carpenter of the University of Toronto had a look at Indian drinking, in some ways as puzzling to us now as it was shocking to the Jesuits who first reported on it.

"Unlike the Jesuits," Carpenter said, "the Iroquois didn't regard the temporary loss of mental control as sacrilegious—but, on the contrary, believed that by getting outside the ordinary human order, they would get inside a higher spiritual order, and thereby more intimately in touch with reality."

To these Indians, simple social drinking was a horrible waste of firewater.

Their religious rites called for ecstasy and frenzy. And when the good fathers tried to ration their brandy, the redskins nobly pooled their shares so that at least one among them could have a glorious binge.

Since the Indians deliberately courted drunkenness—"good, good my head is reeling!" an Indian would cry as the brandy grabbed hold—the results still are frightening after all these years.

Here's the way Francois Vachon de Belmont, a missionary who worked near Montreal, described the scene:

"Once inebriated, they throw off their clothing, or let it drop, and running about the town naked, beat one another. They bite each other's noses and ears so that there are few whole, entire visages remaining.

"They run about howling with knives in their hands; they delight in seeing their women and children fleeing before them, as if they were masters of the world."

Well, eventually soberer times came for the Iroquois. In 1800, their prophet, Handsome Lake, preached a new doctrine. Alcohol, he said, was the work of the devil.

Ironic note: Although the red man long ago gave up gannontiouaratonseri and settled down, apparently his views still must be expressed largely by white men. Of a score or more scholars appearing at the two-day meeting, not one is an Indian.

TO VISIT CYPRUS

LONDON (UPI) — Gen. Sir Francis Festing, chief of the imperiod general staff, will visit Cyprus soon. A war office spokesman said Wednesday the visit to the strife-torn island colony will be routine.

New Aluminum Bridge Will Be Put On Market

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. Tuesday announced establishment of a new company, American Aluminum Structures Inc., to develop and market the Fairchild aluminum bridge.

At the same time Fairchild announced the abolition of its Kinetics Division, in New York and said the new company will occupy the former Kinetics Division headquarters.

The announcement said the new company is jointly owned by Fairchild and by former members of the management of the Kinetics Division.

Alfred A. Gassner, former Kinetics Division general manager, is president of the new company. Harry J. Kahn is vice president, Rober Davis is comptroller-treasurer, and Paul S. Cleaveland, secretary. Cleaveland also is secretary of Fairchild.

Richard S. Boutelle, Fairchild president, said recent tests of a joint program for development of the new lightweight, easily constructed aluminum bridge led to formation of the new company.

Boutelle said Fairchild "retains a sizable interest" in the new company.

Benson Appeal Rejected By Grange Convention

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)— The National Grange convention Tuesday rejected an appeal by Secretary of Agriculture Benson that it join him in seeking an agriculture free of controls and price fixing.

The convention voted unanimously to stand pat on its previously endorsed "self-help" producer-managed farm program opposed by the Eisenhower administration.

Grange leaders, closing their convention, said the convention apparently was influenced in its decision by recent elections giving Democrats major victories in farming areas.

The 10-day convention said in effect that agriculture must have management to keep overproduction from ruining farmers prices and incomes.

It said farmers should be given authority to manage production and marketing under government guidance. Such management, it said, should assure consumers abundance but prevent the overproduction now plaguing producers with depressed prices.

Benson, who spoke to convention delegates, contended farm prosperity is not to be found in controls but in freedom to produce and market large quantities at what he calls competitive prices. The grange, in direct reply, said this would not work.

The farm organization reaffirmed its support for a dual-price plan for wheat. Wheat sold for food would be priced higher than that sold for export and other uses.

Vanguard Launching Put Off To Next Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Tuesday abandoned its promise to hurl a fully-instrumented basketball-size earth satellite into orbit with a Vanguard rocket before the end of the year.

The National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA) announced that it would postpone launching the last of the hard-luck Vanguards until after the International Geophysical Year (IGY) ends Dec. 31.

Navaho Missile Explodes In Sky

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A silver-colored Air Force Navaho missile exploded in the sky over the Atlantic Ocean Tuesday 60 seconds after it left its launching pad.

The 70-foot long missile blasted off at 4:03 p. m. with a tremendous roar. For the first minute of its rapid climb into a blue sky, it appeared to be following a normal course.

Then, seconds after it blew apart with a tremendous burst of fire and smoke.

Remnants of the missile flew on for a few seconds, then began a long arc-like plunge toward the Atlantic, leaving a thin trail of smoke across the sky.

The Air Force said the launching was normal but that the missile began to wobble and destroyed itself.

The Navaho was beamed toward the outer edge of the earth's atmosphere on another high altitude research mission. Its job was to gather performance data for long range supersonic aircraft of the future.

Minister Blames Gas

SALISBURY, England (UPI)—The Rev. John Wansey paid an $8.40 fine for speeding Tuesday with an explanation that it was all the fault of high-test gasoline. "A premium motor fuel had been put into the tank, not by me, and I was unaccustomed to its unique power," the minister said in a letter to the court.

HELD IN TORCH SLAYING — Mrs. Edyth Klumpp, 40, mother of four children, has been charged with murder by the Ohio Highway patrol and held for investigation by Cincinnati police in connection with the torch slaying of Mrs. Martha Louise Bergen, 32, Cincinnati. Mrs. Klumpp is shown at police headquarters yesterday after being returned from the slaying scene. Det. Wilbur Stagenhorst (right) and another Cincinnati detective took Mrs. Klumpp to the shore of Lake Cowan, 45 miles from Cincinnati, where the charred body of Mrs. Bergen was found earlier this month. Some Potomac Slots Come To Roost On Dry Land

LA PLATA, Md. (AP) — Some of the Potomac River slot machines which have occupied the lawmakers and courts of Virginia and Maryland for the past two years have come to roost on dry land.

Delbert and Dennis Conner, brothers who operated more than 400 slots at Little Reno and the Jackpot in Colonial Beach, Va., have now shifted business to a new casino at Newburg, on U. S. 30 12 miles south of La Plata.

The Conner brothers were forced to close their Maryland-licensed gambling piers on the Potomac after Maryland's Court of Appeals upheld a new state law which outlaws gambling from points which cannot be reached by foot from the Maryland shore.

The new casino in Newburg offers dancing, drinks, food and 22 slot machines.

The brothers would not confirm whether they plan to transfer their entire slot operation here after nine successful years on the Virginia shore of the Maryland-owned Potomac.

Although gambling and liquor by the drink are illegal in Virginia, the Colonial Beach casinos operated under licenses issued by Charles County, Md., directly across the river. Since Maryland owns the river up to the low water mark on the Virginia shore, the piers were under Charles County jurisdiction and therefore legal until the new law was passed last January.

An appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court is still a possibility. Meanwhile, the Conners are operating on Maryland land which definitely can be reached by foot.

Bing Crosby's Ranch Sold For Over Million

ELKO, Nev. (AP)—Sale of Bing Crosby's 19,000-acre ranch 52 miles north of here was announced Tuesday. The price was reported in excess of one million dollars.

The new owners are Edward Johnson and Earl Presnell of Modesto, Calif., and William Johnson of Escalon, Calif.

Crosby's 3,700 head of cattle are included in the sale.

TO INCREASE PRICES

Young Sailor Is Subdued After 2-State Rampage

BOSTON (AP) — A 22-year-old sailor went on a two-state rampage Tuesday, terrorizing half a dozen shipmates, kidnaping two crewmen and shooting one during a wild auto ride before finally being subdued in Providence, R.I., 50 miles away.

The sailor, fireman Raymond J. Lizzotte of Poplar, Mont., was felled by a Providence patrolman's fist after breaking into a lodging house there where he took civilian clothing from a young father at gunpoint.

The Navy said Lizzotte, a full-blooded Indian, went on the warpath aboard the radar picket ship USS Investigator about 1 a.m. He had been scheduled for a court-martial later Tuesday on charges of being absent without leave.

Lizzotte was restricted to the ship but not confined to quarters.

A Navy spokesman told the story this way:

Lizzotte first fired two wild shots from a .22 caliber pistol at a group of crewmen below decks. He then raced topside where he forced three 19-year-old seamen —Terrence Thompson, Janesville, Wis., Donald Hicks, Atlanta, Ga., and Jackie Ryan, Winchester, Va.—to accompany him to Hicks' car parked nearby. Thompson fled as they approached the auto.

Lizzotte ordered Hicks to drive and Ryan to sit beside him. When Hicks failed to comply with his orders to go down a one-way street, Lizzotte shot him in the jaw. Hicks was reported in good condition at Chelsea Naval Hospital.

After ordering his two captives from the car near the Chelsea hospital, Lizzotte sped off to Providence where he invaded the home of Edmund J. Dutra, 24. He took clothing from Dutra, but did not harm him or his wife and three children.

Patrol George Gilbert captured Lizzotte about a half a block away. Gilbert said he knocked the sailor out with a punch to the nose when Lizzotte went for his gun.

Navaho Missile Explodes In Sky

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A silver-colored Air Force Navaho missile exploded in the sky over the Atlantic Ocean Tuesday 60 seconds after it left its launching pad.

The 70-foot long missile blasted off at 4:03 p. m. with a tremendous roar. For the first minute of its rapid climb into a blue sky, it appeared to be following a normal course.

Then, seconds after it blew apart with a tremendous burst of fire and smoke.

Remnants of the missile flew on for a few seconds, then began a long arc-like plunge toward the Atlantic, leaving a thin trail of smoke across the sky.

The Air Force said the launching was normal but that the missile began to wobble and destroyed itself.

The Navaho was beamed toward the outer edge of the earth's atmosphere on another high altitude research mission. Its job was to gather performance data for long range supersonic aircraft of the future.

Minister Blames Gas

SALISBURY, England (UPI)—The Rev. John Wansey paid an $8.40 fine for speeding Tuesday with an explanation that it was all the fault of high-test gasoline. "A premium motor fuel had been put into the tank, not by me, and I was unaccustomed to its unique power," the minister said in a letter to the court.

Some Potomac Slots Come To Roost On Dry Land

LA PLATA, Md. (AP) — Some of the Potomac River slot machines which have occupied the lawmakers and courts of Virginia and Maryland for the past two years have come to roost on dry land.

Delbert and Dennis Conner, brothers who operated more than 400 slots at Little Reno and the Jackpot in Colonial Beach, Va., have now shifted business to a new casino at Newburg, on U. S. 30 12 miles south of La Plata.

The Conner brothers were forced to close their Maryland-licensed gambling piers on the Potomac after Maryland's Court of Appeals upheld a new state law which outlaws gambling from points which cannot be reached by foot from the Maryland shore.

The new casino in Newburg offers dancing, drinks, food and 22 slot machines.

The brothers would not confirm whether they plan to transfer their entire slot operation here after nine successful years on the Virginia shore of the Maryland-owned Potomac.

Although gambling and liquor by the drink are illegal in Virginia, the Colonial Beach casinos operated under licenses issued by Charles County, Md., directly across the river. Since Maryland owns the river up to the low water mark on the Virginia shore, the piers were under Charles County jurisdiction and therefore legal until the new law was passed last January.

An appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court is still a possibility. Meanwhile, the Conners are operating on Maryland land which definitely can be reached by foot.

Crosby's 3,700 head of cattle are included in the sale.

Young Sailor Is Subdued After 2-State Rampage

BOSTON (AP) — A 22-year-old sailor went on a two-state rampage Tuesday, terrorizing half a dozen shipmates, kidnaping two crewmen and shooting one during a wild auto ride before finally being subdued in Providence, R.I., 50 miles away.

The sailor, fireman Raymond J. Lizzotte of Poplar, Mont., was felled by a Providence patrolman's fist after breaking into a lodging house there where he took civilian clothing from a young father at gunpoint.

The Navy said Lizzotte, a full-blooded Indian, went on the warpath aboard the radar picket ship USS Investigator about 1 a.m. He had been scheduled for a court-martial later Tuesday on charges of being absent without leave.

Lizzotte was restricted to the ship but not confined to quarters.

A Navy spokesman told the story this way:

Lizzotte first fired two wild shots from a .22 caliber pistol at a group of crewmen below decks. He then raced topside where he forced three 19-year-old seamen —Terrence Thompson, Janesville, Wis., Donald Hicks, Atlanta, Ga., and Jackie Ryan, Winchester, Va.—to accompany him to Hicks' car parked nearby. Thompson fled as they approached the auto.

Lizzotte ordered Hicks to drive and Ryan to sit beside him. When Hicks failed to comply with his orders to go down a one-way street, Lizzotte shot him in the jaw. Hicks was reported in good condition at Chelsea Naval Hospital.

After ordering his two captives from the car near the Chelsea hospital, Lizzotte sped off to Providence where he invaded the home of Edmund J. Dutra, 24. He took clothing from Dutra, but did not harm him or his wife and three children.

Patrol George Gilbert captured Lizzotte about a half a block away. Gilbert said he knocked the sailor out with a punch to the nose when Lizzotte went for his gun.

Probers Order NLRB Explain Long Vote Count

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An incredulous Senate Rackets Committee Wednesday ordered the National Labor Relations Board to explain Thursday why it took three months to count seven votes in a labor election.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D - Ark.) telephoned the order to NLRB Chairman Boyd Leedom after Tom Coffey, a former Nebraska trucker, swore that a boycott by the Teamsters Union forced him to sell his business before the NLRB handed down a decision in his case.

The NLRB said its solicitor, James V. Constantine, would appear to explain the delay. However, NLRB records showed the board was barred from counting the votes by two federal court restraining orders obtained by the Teamsters.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.), who was not aware of this, contended that a "moron" could have handled the case in half an hour.

He told Coffey that "you starved to death while justice was traveling on leaden feet."

Coffey, former owner of the Coffey Transport Co. of Alma, Neb., said an NLRB election covering seven drivers at his Lincoln, Neb., terminal was held in January, 1956.

He said this was several months after he requested the election to determine whether his employes wanted to be represented by the Teamsters. In the meantime, he said, his business dropped off to zero because the union got other truckers to refuse to handle his cargoes.

Coffey, now state purchasing agent of Nebraska, said the NLRB did not notify him until April that the vote was 4-0 against the union with three votes challenged. By that time, he said, he had been forced to sell his company at a loss of more than $50,000.

Technically, the choice of McCusker's successor rests with Tawes, who will continue as state comptroller until he is sworn in as governor Jan. 14.

However, Tawes said he will confer with Goldstein, who is giving up his post as president of the State Senate to take over the state's top financial post. Both are Democrats.

Missiles Soon Might Scoop Up Fuel From Air

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (UPI)—The Air Force disclosed that it is working on a missile which would fly on fuel scooped from the atmosphere. It would be propelled by atomic oxygen.

The service released a report, made available to science and industry, which detailed results of 1957 research into the feasibility of such a missile. Called the Hare, it would fly about 900 miles an hour at an altitude of about 60 miles.

The Air Force disclosure came as the Navy unveiled three new research rockets which it plans to use in connection with development of the Polaris 1,500-mile range ballistic missile.

Simultaneously the Army assigned two major atomic missile forces to duty with the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC), a new global trouble-shooting force. The forces are the third STRAC missile command at Fort Bragg, N.C., and the second command at Fort Hood, Tex.

The fuel for the Air Force's Hare missile would be oxygen which had been broken down by ultraviolet radiation into individual atoms.

The normal oxygen molecule consists of two atoms. When they are separated they have a powerful urge to recombine into molecular form with great release of energy. At altitudes where they exist, however, the atoms need a catalytic agent to speed their recombination.

The atmosphere would be scooped into the rocket, heated as oxygen atoms recombined on the catalytic surface provided for that purpose, and then rush out the tail, driving the missile forward.

The Air Force report said gold was the most promising catalytic agent. Aluminum and mica were suggested as materials to be used in construction of the rocket.

The Navy's three new research rockets for the Polaris program are the Arcon, the Iris, and the Arcas.

The Arcon, which already has been fired successfully, is designed to carry 40 pounds of instruments to a height of 70 miles or 10 pounds to 100 miles. It is expected to help scientists predict the type of vibrations which the Polaris will encounter in flight.

The Iris will carry a 100-pound instrument package 200 miles high. The third rocket, the Arcas, will be used both in ballistic missile research and for routine weather data collection flights.

A dispatch from Washington says Hawaii may be admitted to the Union early in the next Congress. Guess maybe we better hold up on redesigning that flag.

Missiles Soon Might Scoop Up Fuel From Air

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (UPI)—The Air Force disclosed that it is working on a missile which would fly on fuel scooped from the atmosphere. It would be propelled by atomic oxygen.

The service released a report, made available to science and industry, which detailed results of 1957 research into the feasibility of such a missile. Called the Hare, it would fly about 900 miles an hour at an altitude of about 60 miles.

The Air Force disclosure came as the Navy unveiled three new research rockets which it plans to use in connection with development of the Polaris 1,500-mile range ballistic missile.

Simultaneously the Army assigned two major atomic missile forces to duty with the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC), a new global trouble-shooting force. The forces are the third STRAC missile command at Fort Bragg, N.C., and the second command at Fort Hood, Tex.

The fuel for the Air Force's Hare missile would be oxygen which had been broken down by ultraviolet radiation into individual atoms.

The normal oxygen molecule consists of two atoms. When they are separated they have a powerful urge to recombine into molecular form with great release of energy. At altitudes where they exist, however, the atoms need a catalytic agent to speed their recombination.

The atmosphere would be scooped into the rocket, heated as oxygen atoms recombined on the catalytic surface provided for that purpose, and then rush out the tail, driving the missile forward.

The Air Force report said gold was the most promising catalytic agent. Aluminum and mica were suggested as materials to be used in construction of the rocket.

The Navy's three new research rockets for the Polaris program are the Arcon, the Iris, and the Arcas.

The Arcon, which already has been fired successfully, is designed to carry 40 pounds of instruments to a height of 70 miles or 10 pounds to 100 miles. It is expected to help scientists predict the type of vibrations which the Polaris will encounter in flight.

The Iris will carry a 100-pound instrument package 200 miles high. The third rocket, the Arcas, will be used both in ballistic missile research and for routine weather data collection flights.

A dispatch from Washington says Hawaii may be admitted to the Union early in the next Congress. Guess maybe we better hold up on redesigning that flag.

Mt. Savage Man Is Facing Several Charges In Maryland And Pennsylvania

A Mt. Savage man, Robert H. Witt, 29, is in trouble "up to his neck" with authorities in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Silent, watchful waiting in the stakeout of a stolen car have paid off for Bedford police when they arrested Witt who has been arrested and convicted nine times since March 2, 1949 and who is on parole with the Maryland House of Correction.

The young Mt. Savage man was nabbed in Bedford as he attempted to start a stolen car that had eluded police there earlier last week.

Police Chief Earl McGill of Bedford said Witt has a record "a mile long" and is wanted in Bedford, Johnstown, by the FBI and by Maryland State Police at Cumberland.

Local police want the Mt. Savage man for questioning in connection with a breaking and entering at a gasoline station near Corriganville Sunday, November 9. He has already admitted to Bedford police that he broke into the service station and stole five automobile tires, a half box of cigars, two cans of oil and $6.84.

Witt, who has spent more than three years in the Maryland House of Correction, led Bedford police on a merry chase before being arrested last Thursday.

The myriad of events began early last week when State Trooper F. R. Palmeri became suspicious of a car parked in front of his residence in Bedford.

While police checked the registration number to find out if the car was stolen, the vehicle disappeared. It was discovered the vehicle was stolen from Eugene Reffner, of RD 2, Johnstown.

The car reappeared in front of the trooper's home the next day and Bedford police began a 24-hour vigil on the vehicle.

Early the following day Trooper Palmeri nabbed Witt as he attempted to start the car. He later admitted stealing the vehicle.

The Mt. Savage man also admitted to Bedford authorities that he broke into and burglarized the House of God Church in Hagerstown, the same church whose leaders begged for Witt's parole in a Maryland court. He then joined the church, according to informed sources.

Witt has been charged with breaking into the office of the church on October 27, burglarizing the place and driving off in the truck belonging to the church.

The truck was driven by Witt to Harrisburg, a violation of the Dyer Act, which resulted in the FBI issuing a pickup on the Mt. Savage man.

Further investigation revealed that Witt previously served time in an Ohio prison for transporting a stolen car across state lines. At that time Witt was picked up in Columbus, Ohio, under the alias name of Frederick Clarence Schrechengost Jr., and was later paroled after serving part of a sentence of two to 20 years.

At the present time the Mt. Savage man is being held by authorities in Johnstown. County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Sgt. William F. Baker of the Maryland State Police plan to go to Johnstown this week to question Witt.

Mt. Savage Man Is Facing Several Charges In Maryland And Pennsylvania

A Mt. Savage man, Robert H. Witt, 29, is in trouble "up to his neck" with authorities in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Silent, watchful waiting in the stakeout of a stolen car have paid off for Bedford police when they arrested Witt who has been arrested and convicted nine times since March 2, 1949 and who is on parole with the Maryland House of Correction.

The young Mt. Savage man was nabbed in Bedford as he attempted to start a stolen car that had eluded police there earlier last week.

Police Chief Earl McGill of Bedford said Witt has a record "a mile long" and is wanted in Bedford, Johnstown, by the FBI and by Maryland State Police at Cumberland.

Local police want the Mt. Savage man for questioning in connection with a breaking and entering at a gasoline station near Corriganville Sunday, November 9. He has already admitted to Bedford police that he broke into the service station and stole five automobile tires, a half box of cigars, two cans of oil and $6.84.

Witt, who has spent more than three years in the Maryland House of Correction, led Bedford police on a merry chase before being arrested last Thursday.

The myriad of events began early last week when State Trooper F. R. Palmeri became suspicious of a car parked in front of his residence in Bedford.

While police checked the registration number to find out if the car was stolen, the vehicle disappeared. It was discovered the vehicle was stolen from Eugene Reffner, of RD 2, Johnstown.

The car reappeared in front of the trooper's home the next day and Bedford police began a 24-hour vigil on the vehicle.

Early the following day Trooper Palmeri nabbed Witt as he attempted to start the car. He later admitted stealing the vehicle.

The Mt. Savage man also admitted to Bedford authorities that he broke into and burglarized the House of God Church in Hagerstown, the same church whose leaders begged for Witt's parole in a Maryland court. He then joined the church, according to informed sources.

Witt has been charged with breaking into the office of the church on October 27, burglarizing the place and driving off in the truck belonging to the church.

The truck was driven by Witt to Harrisburg, a violation of the Dyer Act, which resulted in the FBI issuing a pickup on the Mt. Savage man.

Further investigation revealed that Witt previously served time in an Ohio prison for transporting a stolen car across state lines. At that time Witt was picked up in Columbus, Ohio, under the alias name of Frederick Clarence Schrechengost Jr., and was later paroled after serving part of a sentence of two to 20 years.

At the present time the Mt. Savage man is being held by authorities in Johnstown. County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Sgt. William F. Baker of the Maryland State Police plan to go to Johnstown this week to question Witt.

Ships Of Memory Near Final Port

There must always be a sense of sadness when a ship dies, when it comes, as Joseph Conrad said, "to the end of its laborious days." If it is a famous liner, then all who sailed in her remember happy times — days on sunlit decks, nights under the stars.

And perhaps they recall, with the self-deceiving fondness that is one of the tricks of memory, gales that threw them out of their bunks and made the soup plates jump the fiddles.

With a warship it is not quite the same. The sadness is there, only the memories are different. They are sterner, more intense and intimately entwined with hardships endured and the feeling of youth that has gone beyond recall.

The French Line is considering breaking up the passenger liner Ile de France, the veteran that escaped Hitler's clutches in 1940 and lived on to carry around the Cape of Good Hope many of the troops that knocked the stuffing out of Rommel's Afrika Corps at Alamein.

And now Britain has announced that in one sweep she will break up 110 warships, including six aircraft carriers. Many of them were in the last war; they are indeed ships of memory.

How much of naval history will they carry to the graveyard of ships, these scarred veterans who have sighed away many of the postwar years at quiet moorings? It is all written down somewhere, filed away in Admiralty records—tales of heroism and tedium under grey Atlantic skies or in the brilliant sunshine of the tropics.

Whatever their fate, each of these ships will live on until the last man who served in her goes to his final accounting.

Dynamited Osage, W. Va., School Lost Only One Day Of Classwork

By Drew Pearson

OSAGE, W. Va.—When disaster strikes a community the caliber of that community can be gauged by the vigor with which it stages a comeback. When the Clinton, Tenn., high school was blown up, its school board did not lose a day of school. When the Osage junior high school was dynamited, it lost only one day.

When I visited Osage just three days after the explosion I found Miss Pauline Boone at the nearby Cassville school reading to a 9th grade class from Osage as if nothing had happened. Actually a great deal had happened but both Miss Boone and the students, all transplanted from the gutted school, took it in their stride.

Miss Boone was reading from a book called "Molecules and Atoms."

"Our other books were blown up," she said half apologetically, "so the children can't study their lesson unless I read it to them from this one book. However, they are taking notes and seem to be doing pretty well."

I looked at the book, "Molecules and Atoms." When I was in the 9th grade we had never heard of such things. I looked at the class. They were quietly sitting around two big tables as if nothing had happened, taking notes.

Herman Walker of the Cassville school explained that different classes from the bombed-out Osage school had been squeezed into other neighboring schools around the West Virginia hills. Seventy-five students from the 7th and 8th grades had gone to Seneca, 38 had come to Cassville and the remainder had been shifted to a former all-Negro school in Osage.

Meager Insurance

I took a look at the other schools. Things were a little crowded, but both students and teachers were not letting the hate-monger who blew up the school at Osage stop for one minute the pace of education in this little coal-mining community which had suffered hardship in the past. Mrs. Michaels at Cassville was already working to put her children in the West Virginia Golden Horse Shoe competition for the prize students of the state.

Meanwhile the county school board was meeting to decide what to do about rebuilding the gutted schoolhouse. Insurance on the building totaled $91,000 plus $15,600 for its contents. Total estimated damage: around $200,000.

I went down to take another look at the school and to talk to John Marshall, the Methodist welfare worker who lives just across the street and was the first to reach the scene of the explosion. There had been 93 Negro children in the school with about 220 white children. I asked him whether racial friction had been responsible.

"We have never had any trouble along that line," he said. "When white and Negro miners work beside each other underground, they learn to live together above ground. Their life and safety depends on it. This town has been integrated in spirit long before the Supreme Court decision of 1954."

Integrated City Council

Mayor Stanley Solomon, grocery store owner who has been extending a long line of credit to unemployed miners, paid tribute to racial harmony. His recorder is Mrs. Ann Brown, Negro. Other council members are Mrs. Sadie Thomas and Roosevelt Jackson, Negroes; with Mrs. Margaret Kundrock, Joseph Laslo, a groceryman and Louis Tolka, a miner, all white.

Osage junior high school had been following the dictum of Governor Faubus that a local community has a right to decide its own race relations.

But the school, despite these amicable race relations, lay in a shambles. Here and there among the indescribable debris were cases which the dynamite had left untouched.

In the home economics department, the clock on the Tappan gas range had stopped at exactly 2:14 a. m. after midnight Sunday, marking the time the explosion went off. Chandeliers were blown off the ceiling, china closets blown off the walls, broken dishes scattered everywhere. But on one table in the middle of the room was a plate of biscuits—untouched.

A little girl had baked them on Friday before the hate-monger had come into wreck the building.

In the bookcase remained a book: "Home-making for Teenagers." The teen-agers who were studying home-making would now have a hard time getting a new start.

Abe Lincoln Looks Down

Upstairs in the 3rd grade room (the school was crowded and other grades had been moved in) the class had been getting ready for Thanksgiving. On the wall were tacked drawings of the Puritan fathers carrying their turkeys to celebrate the first Thanksgiving in Massachusetts 300 years ago. I couldn't help but think that the little town of Osage, its miners already out of work, would have a bleak Thanksgiving this year—thanks to hate.

Outside one room was a sign, "Mr. Haller—Social Science and English." Mr. Haller was busy teaching in one of the new makeshift classrooms, but some of the principles he taught remained behind. On a chart was written "Our Heritage of Freedom, Origin of the Common-Law, Petition of Rights." The dynamite blast had left these great principles untouched. They still remained on the wall—at least in name.

Also on the wall was a poster, "Protect Forest Fires — Keep America Green." The students of the Osage school had been trying to be good citizens by preventing forest fires, but they could not prevent the fire of hate that demolished their school.

On the wall was another picture—that of Abraham Lincoln, who once proclaimed a nation "dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." High upon the wall, his picture looked down on the broken plaster, the twisted cinder-block, the glass and dust of a school where children had been studying together as equals.

Will Sudanese Coup Add A Province To Egypt?

By Joseph Alsop

AMMAN, Jordan

Thus far, the outlines of the coup d'etat in Khartoum are extremely blurry from this distance. As these words are written, no one really knows whose interests will be served by the change in the Sudanese government, although the local bettors are backing Gamal Abdel Nasser. Although so much is still unclear, however, certain things are very clear indeed. It is clear, above all, that the troubled Middle East has again entered a period of acute crisis. It now seems clear, too, that the Syrian-Egyptian attempt to kidnap and/or kill young King Hussein of Jordan was the first act in this crisis—but a first act that by no means followed the script written for it.

The reasons behind these conclusions have nothing to do with the events in the Sudan. They have to do, rather, with the same situation left behind by the coup d'etat in Baghdad, the landing of the American and British troops in Lebanon and Jordan, and the compromise settlement in the Lebanon.

The essential point to bear in mind about this situation is that, on balance, and at least for the time being, everybody lost except the Kremlin.

The Western loss was too obvious to need underlining. In Iraq, in the second most important nation in the Arab world, a strongly pro-Western government was replaced by a government dominated by the West's enemies. In the Lebanon, another strongly pro-Western government was replaced by a government that is carefully neutral. Despite the unimpaired survival of King Hussein's government here in Jordan, the net setback to the West and to the West's Arab friends was really appallingly heavy. Gamal Abdel Nasser's loss was less obvious than the West's loss. Yet this loss by Nasser was perhaps the most important result for the long crisis-period. For Nasser, the post-crisis balance sheet may be itemized as follows:

First, another attempt by Nasser's friends in Jordan, to convert King Hussein's government simultaneously with the coup d'etat in Baghdad, was sternly stopped before it got started.

Second, Nasser failed to secure the installation of the puppet government in Beirut, which he had every reason to expect and count on. In order to get the American Marines out without further trouble, the American authorities had positively approved the installation of a Lebanese government entirely composed of Nasserites. But the Christian Lebanese staged their counterstrike, and thus they upset this alleged "compromise," and forced the selection of a truly neutral government.

Third, and most significant, Nasser's apparent victory in Baghdad turned out to be thoroughly hollow. When the Baghdad coup d'etat was staged, there is no doubt at all that Cairo believed the coup was a most glittering triumph. So it looked to the whole world. But in order to be a triumph, the Baghdad coup had to produce a government entirely pliant to Nasser's orders; and this it altogether failed to do.

So far as one can judge from this distance, Nasser's error resulted from a miscalculation of the strength of his agent and underground net in Iraq. In the outcome, the leader of the Baghdad coup d'etat, Brig. Gen. Karim Kassem, turned out to want to rule over an independent Iraq instead of an Iraq made into an Egyptian province. In addition, the Communist agents and underground net turned out to be at least as strong as the Nasserite net, if not rather stronger. And the Communists strongly supported Gen. Kassem's independent policy.

For Nasser, Iraq's continuing independence under Kassem was almost as serious a loss as the Western loss of friends in Baghdad. While King Faisal, the crown prince of Iraq and the aging Nuri Pasha still ruled Iraq, these Western friends made ideal targets for Nasser's propaganda. The notion that Nuri Pasha's Baghdad could act as another magnetic pole in the Arab world was sheerly nonsense. Unless Nuri's government could be replaced by a true-blue Nasserite regime, it was better for Nasser to keep these ideal targets in power.

In the outcome, however, the ideal targets were effaced by an independent, revolutionary regime, strongly supported by the Iraqi Communists and quite capable of acting as another magnetic pole for the Arabs. It happened, furthermore, when Nasser's rule in Syria was running into fairly serious and visible trouble.

In Syria, the ambitious Nasserite program of land reform had to be put off to another season. The merchant and landlord classes are increasingly discontented, and there are signs of disagreement between Nasser and Akram Hourani, the man who made Syria into a province of Egypt. Other signs suggest disagreement between Hourani and his former partner in the Syrian Army, Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj. And the theoretically - outlawed Syrian Communist party led by Ahalid Baqdash has been making important progress, in step with the Communists of Iraq.

Because of the situation in Iraq and Syria, the Nasser bandwagon was slowing down rather dangerously. Hence, the attempt to kidnap or kill King Hussein, which failed so ignominiously. If it also turns out that the new leaders of the Sudan still want real independence for their country, Nasser's prospects will be very badly impaired — without any comparable improvement in the West's prospects, it must be added.

But, if the Sudanese coup adds to Egypt the one province that Egypt wants most, then the Nasser bandwagon will again be rolling down the road at a good clip.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Are You Afraid To Laugh?

Corey Ford, in an interesting piece in "The Saturday Evening Post," asks the very pertinent question: "Are you afraid to laugh?" The question is pertinent because people these days do not really laugh. They grin; they grimace; they snicker; they giggle; but they do not laugh. There is no uproar of laughter. There is no belly laugh.

True noise has become impolite unless it comes out of a machine. It used to be that the purpose of dining was to talk and talk was usually disputative, but never pompous. Nothing is funnier than a pompous person attempting to establish his personality like a heavy hammer banging away at an idea. It is pleasanter to listen to those new hi-fi machines which make so much noise or to a television Late Show. The pompous person realizes that his pomposity covers intellectual insecurity and he must keep the act going to be noticed.

However, that is not the only reason one does not laugh. It used to be that when one went to a public dinner, the speakers permitted themselves wit and humor and some understanding of human nature. But in these days of synthetics, with most speeches written by ghosts, the output is lethal. After-dinner speeches are a cause for the increased consumption of anti-gas powders and other nostrums which are advertised even on television without the burp showing.

The failure of vaudeville ended the real jokesters. Radio and television are afraid of dialects because sponsors are afraid of boycotts. Nevertheless a dialect is wonderful fun and a dialect story, well told, sub rosa perhaps by Harry Hershfield, is always worth a laugh. There used to be humorous magazines and humorous columnists, as Corey Ford points out, but they are all gone unless one is willing to accept some of the extra-pontifical stuff as a form of humor. There used to be humorists like Mark Twain, for that matter, or Will Rogers. Today, there are none although a few mean to be. Why has not the 20th century — the middle of it — produced a Mark Twain? There is so much to laugh about. There is not a single satirist in the English language.

Writing, like everything else, supplies a want and if there is no demand, there is no supply. The would-be humorist is writing "who dun-its" and the satirist, such as Westbrook Pegler might have been, is telling the politicians how to be decent, a most futile task and utterly unappreciated. Pegler's Spelvin stories might have made great literature if they were not confined to the size of a column and probably at times cut to fit. They need room for development and the spread of a virginal humor. Harry Hershfield can regale his coterie of listeners with story after story but in a column they are too purified to be worth-while which is also true of Bennett Cerf who suffers from being an anthologist. Bennett Cerf has the makings of a humorist who will ultimately rebel against his tuxedo and do something that is remarkably good.

Man likes to laugh, just as a dog likes to bark. The sponsor in radio and television is really afraid that the customer might not like to be laughed at, which is undoubtedly true. As everybody is a customer, it is impossible to have any laughter, although Mollie Goldberg achieves both laughter and pathos in dialect and the dialect is authentic. There is no laughter in Westerns which are now popular or in Quiz shows which were all the rage last year. Attempts to introduce the funny in Quiz shows got them into trouble, because it could only be accomplished by exaggerating the improbable, namely, by arranging it so that an obvious ignoramus seemed to be a know-it-all. But nobody laughed at that, any more than one laughed at Barnum's White Elephant. The unusual may be startling, but it need not be funny. The clown could be funny, but the stripteaser can only be surprising. She is never funny and only exciting to the moronic. Clowns are fast disappearing as burlesque is disappearing and the circus has become genteel.

This is an excellent subject for a good argument, particularly among those who still prefer to laugh at the foibles of the human race. After all, we are very funny, aren't we?

The Army now hopes to shoot a rocket past—not right at—the moon. Considering all that space on all sides of our lunar satellite, that shouldn't be too tough a task.

Interest in foreign languages is rapidly increasing among students in New York City schools, a survey shows. The man at the next desk wonders if these include that wonderful old lingo known as Brooklynese.

Amebiasis May Go Unnoticed By Many Patients

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Amebiasis (amebic dysentery) is overlooked frequently because symptoms may be vague and unimpressive. Though the condition is called dysentery, less than half the victims have this symptom.

Many develop abdominal cramps, nausea, gas, and rectal itching. Others are bothered with irregular stools alternating between diarrhea and constipation. Fatigue or an unexplained fever may be present. Headache is traced to the disease occasionally, especially when the causative organisms have a toxic effect on the system.

Amebiasis is suspected also whenever intestinal symptoms develop in a person who has traveled abroad where sanitation is not up to par. Several years ago, a middle-aged woman consulted me because of fatigue and abdominal cramps. She had not recovered from an attack of dysentery acquired during a Latin American trip several months previously. Her ailment proved to be amebiasis, and within 10 days she was on the road to recovery.

It also is surprising how often other members of the family become infected. In some, the infection is acquired from the same source; in other it is passed from one to another through close contact.

Many remedies are available but none is wholly satisfactory. The list includes Milibis, Emetine, Carbarsone, Diodoquin, Fumagillin, and the tetracyclines. No one knows why these drugs eliminate the ameba from the intestine in some persons but not in others.

It is for this reason that physicians usually suggest stool tests at varying intervals after each round of treatment. This is the only way to determine whether the organisms have been eradicated. Otherwise there may be recurrences.

ANTIDIABETIC TABLETS

H. E. writes: How does Orinase work on a diabetic?

REPLY

It is believed that the product stimulates certain cells in the pancreas to manufacture more insulin.

FALLOUT AND TEETH

C. W. writes: With so much dental decay among children, I wonder if the radioactive fallout in the air could be responsible?

REPLY

No, but fallout is being blamed for a lot of things. Dental decay is as old as man and occurred long before the atomic age. Cavities were neglected 100 years ago and decay was allowed to progress until the teeth fell out.

EXERCISE AFTER CORONARY

D. R. writes: You advise that a person who has recovered from an attack of coronary thrombosis should remain physically active. Are there any special exercises he should do?

REPLY

Walking is best. There is no harm in golf, gardening, and swimming in a pool, provided exertion does not lead to shortness of breath, cough, palpitation, and chest pain.

INCOMPATIBLE BLOOD

J. H. writes: Can animal blood be given a human when a transfusion is needed?

REPLY

No. A fatal reaction is likely to occur because animal blood is not compatible with human blood. Sheep blood was used in transfusions in the 17th century but the treatment was prohibited because of adverse reactions. The reason for the incompatibility was not understood until 1900, when Landsteiner discovered blood groups.

TOMORROW: Consolation eating.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Wahgi Valley

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK—If my friend Lewis Cotlow was one to go in for a practice named place - dropping, which is an advanced stage of name-dropping, he could clobber any gas bag bending his ear about a trip to Yellowstone or Yucatan. The New York insurance broker - explorer (twin callings which are not as alien as one might imagine) is fresh back from the Wahgi Valley.

Don't know where the Wahgi Valley is? How gauche! Well, neither did I until Lew straightened out the matter today.

"It's in the northeastern section of New Guinea, the U.N. trusteeship area administered by Australia," Lew said patiently, though confronted by abysmal ignorance. "It's still Stone Age. I wanted to get in there for some film and impressions before the Bronze Age and the rock 'n roll age hit it simultaneously." He stayed four months, came out without a scratch — not even on the emulsion of his new documentary "The Land that Time Forgot," photographed in Eastman's newly perfected Ektakrome.

"The white man did not come to the Wahgi Valley until 1933 when the young Australian explorer, Mick Leahy, who was looking for gold, came upon it like a set in 'Lost Horizon' ", the intrepid broker said. "It was Shangri-La, with certain differences. The customs of the various tribes among the 400,000 people in the valley had not changed in thousands of years. Neither had the people or their appetites. The Bera-Beras and the Kukukukus still prefer human flesh for their protein."

Cotlow got where he wanted in the valley by means of light planes, which landed him on little strips dug out by the peoples of such places as Goroka, Minj, Wabog, Laiegan, Chimbu Menyama and Aimoe, where pygmies almost identical to those he found in Africa several years ago live with no knowledge of their lilliputian brothers across the world. Where the planes could not land him, Cotlow went by Land Rover, dugout or painfully by foot. He saw wonders:

"In most of the areas the natives, especially the men, wear elaborate plumed head - dresses, plucked from birds of paradise, black cockatoos and cassowary," Lew told us. "They embellish themselves further with possum tails, headbands of brilliant green shells, and pig tusks for their pierced noses. Some wear plumes through their noses. The men cover their chests with pearl shell, like to paint their faces red and yellow and smear their bodies with pig fat. Their weapons remain the club, the spear and, here and there, the bow and arrow."

Cotlow returned with a glowing respect for the young Australian patrol officers who police this area, persuading the tribes to cease their eternal wars. Leahy, an alumnus of that corps, particularly impressed him. "He made me feel as if I were listening to Lewis and Clark, or La Salle." Mick is coming to New York late in January to attend the birthday party of a man for whom he once stalked Japanese—Douglas MacArthur.

Rudolph Bozak, the 48-year-old Norwalk, Conn., engineer whose firm makes speakers for high fidelity systems, pinpoints the core of the hi-fi boom:

"The professional man of means—the business executive, lawyer, doctor—is the man most responsible for what has become a $200 million annual business. He's over 40, makes better than $10,000 a year, has good taste. Whether he knows it or not, he derives therapeutic value from his hi-fi. The good music and true tone relaxes him, helps him 'unwind' after a day of business and professional tensions. Some of my devoted customers are doctors, taking the medicine of music they are increasingly recommending to their patients."

Ships Of Memory Near Final Port

There must always be a sense of sadness when a ship dies, when it comes, as Joseph Conrad said, "to the end of its laborious days." If it is a famous liner, then all who sailed in her remember happy times — days on sunlit decks, nights under the stars.

And perhaps they recall, with the self-deceiving fondness that is one of the tricks of memory, gales that threw them out of their bunks and made the soup plates jump the fiddles.

With a warship it is not quite the same. The sadness is there, only the memories are different. They are sterner, more intense and intimately entwined with hardships endured and the feeling of youth that has gone beyond recall.

The French Line is considering breaking up the passenger liner Ile de France, the veteran that escaped Hitler's clutches in 1940 and lived on to carry around the Cape of Good Hope many of the troops that knocked the stuffing out of Rommel's Afrika Corps at Alamein.

And now Britain has announced that in one sweep she will break up 110 warships, including six aircraft carriers. Many of them were in the last war; they are indeed ships of memory.

How much of naval history will they carry to the graveyard of ships, these scarred veterans who have sighed away many of the postwar years at quiet moorings? It is all written down somewhere, filed away in Admiralty records—tales of heroism and tedium under grey Atlantic skies or in the brilliant sunshine of the tropics.

Whatever their fate, each of these ships will live on until the last man who served in her goes to his final accounting.

Dynamited Osage, W. Va., School Lost Only One Day Of Classwork

By Drew Pearson

OSAGE, W. Va.—When disaster strikes a community the caliber of that community can be gauged by the vigor with which it stages a comeback. When the Clinton, Tenn., high school was blown up, its school board did not lose a day of school. When the Osage junior high school was dynamited, it lost only one day.

When I visited Osage just three days after the explosion I found Miss Pauline Boone at the nearby Cassville school reading to a 9th grade class from Osage as if nothing had happened. Actually a great deal had happened but both Miss Boone and the students, all transplanted from the gutted school, took it in their stride.

Miss Boone was reading from a book called "Molecules and Atoms."

"Our other books were blown up," she said half apologetically, "so the children can't study their lesson unless I read it to them from this one book. However, they are taking notes and seem to be doing pretty well."

I looked at the book, "Molecules and Atoms." When I was in the 9th grade we had never heard of such things. I looked at the class. They were quietly sitting around two big tables as if nothing had happened, taking notes.

Herman Walker of the Cassville school explained that different classes from the bombed-out Osage school had been squeezed into other neighboring schools around the West Virginia hills. Seventy-five students from the 7th and 8th grades had gone to Seneca, 38 had come to Cassville and the remainder had been shifted to a former all-Negro school in Osage.

Meager Insurance

I took a look at the other schools. Things were a little crowded, but both students and teachers were not letting the hate-monger who blew up the school at Osage stop for one minute the pace of education in this little coal-mining community which had suffered hardship in the past. Mrs. Michaels at Cassville was already working to put her children in the West Virginia Golden Horse Shoe competition for the prize students of the state.

Meanwhile the county school board was meeting to decide what to do about rebuilding the gutted schoolhouse. Insurance on the building totaled $91,000 plus $15,600 for its contents. Total estimated damage: around $200,000.

I went down to take another look at the school and to talk to John Marshall, the Methodist welfare worker who lives just across the street and was the first to reach the scene of the explosion. There had been 93 Negro children in the school with about 220 white children. I asked him whether racial friction had been responsible.

"We have never had any trouble along that line," he said. "When white and Negro miners work beside each other underground, they learn to live together above ground. Their life and safety depends on it. This town has been integrated in spirit long before the Supreme Court decision of 1954."

Integrated City Council

Mayor Stanley Solomon, grocery store owner who has been extending a long line of credit to unemployed miners, paid tribute to racial harmony. His recorder is Mrs. Ann Brown, Negro. Other council members are Mrs. Sadie Thomas and Roosevelt Jackson, Negroes; with Mrs. Margaret Kundrock, Joseph Laslo, a groceryman and Louis Tolka, a miner, all white.

Osage junior high school had been following the dictum of Governor Faubus that a local community has a right to decide its own race relations.

But the school, despite these amicable race relations, lay in a shambles. Here and there among the indescribable debris were cases which the dynamite had left untouched.

In the home economics department, the clock on the Tappan gas range had stopped at exactly 2:14 a. m. after midnight Sunday, marking the time the explosion went off. Chandeliers were blown off the ceiling, china closets blown off the walls, broken dishes scattered everywhere. But on one table in the middle of the room was a plate of biscuits—untouched.

A little girl had baked them on Friday before the hate-monger had come into wreck the building.

Abe Lincoln Looks Down

Upstairs in the 3rd grade room (the school was crowded and other grades had been moved in) the class had been getting ready for Thanksgiving. On the wall were tacked drawings of the Puritan fathers carrying their turkeys to celebrate the first Thanksgiving in Massachusetts 300 years ago. I couldn't help but think that the little town of Osage, its miners already out of work, would have a bleak Thanksgiving this year—thanks to hate.

Outside one room was a sign, "Mr. Haller—Social Science and English." Mr. Haller was busy teaching in one of the new makeshift classrooms, but some of the principles he taught remained behind. On a chart was written "Our Heritage of Freedom, Origin of the Common-Law, Petition of Rights." The dynamite blast had left these great principles untouched. They still remained on the wall—at least in name.

Also on the wall was a poster, "Protect Forest Fires — Keep America Green." The students of the Osage school had been trying to be good citizens by preventing forest fires, but they could not prevent the fire of hate that demolished their school.

On the wall was another picture—that of Abraham Lincoln, who once proclaimed a nation "dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." High upon the wall, his picture looked down on the broken plaster, the twisted cinder-block, the glass and dust of a school where children had been studying together as equals.

Will Sudanese Coup Add A Province To Egypt?

By Joseph Alsop

AMMAN, Jordan

Thus far, the outlines of the coup d'etat in Khartoum are extremely blurry from this distance. As these words are written, no one really knows whose interests will be served by the change in the Sudanese government, although the local bettors are backing Gamal Abdel Nasser. Although so much is still unclear, however, certain things are very clear indeed. It is clear, above all, that the troubled Middle East has again entered a period of acute crisis. It now seems clear, too, that the Syrian-Egyptian attempt to kidnap and/or kill young King Hussein of Jordan was the first act in this crisis—but a first act that by no means followed the script written for it.

The reasons behind these conclusions have nothing to do with the events in the Sudan. They have to do, rather, with the same situation left behind by the coup d'etat in Baghdad, the landing of the American and British troops in Lebanon and Jordan, and the compromise settlement in the Lebanon.

The essential point to bear in mind about this situation is that, on balance, and at least for the time being, everybody lost except the Kremlin.

The Western loss was too obvious to need underlining. In Iraq, in the second most important nation in the Arab world, a strongly pro-Western government was replaced by a government dominated by the West's enemies. In the Lebanon, another strongly pro-Western government was replaced by a government that is carefully neutral. Despite the unimpaired survival of King Hussein's government here in Jordan, the net setback to the West and to the West's Arab friends was really appallingly heavy. Gamal Abdel Nasser's loss was less obvious than the West's loss. Yet this loss by Nasser was perhaps the most important result for the long crisis-period. For Nasser, the post-crisis balance sheet may be itemized as follows:

First, another attempt by Nasser's friends in Jordan, to convert King Hussein's government simultaneously with the coup d'etat in Baghdad, was sternly stopped before it got started.

Second, Nasser failed to secure the installation of the puppet government in Beirut, which he had every reason to expect and count on. In order to get the American Marines out without further trouble, the American authorities had positively approved the installation of a Lebanese government entirely composed of Nasserites. But the Christian Lebanese staged their counterstrike, and thus they upset this alleged "compromise," and forced the selection of a truly neutral government.

Third, and most significant, Nasser's apparent victory in Baghdad turned out to be thoroughly hollow. When the Baghdad coup d'etat was staged, there is no doubt at all that Cairo believed the coup was a most glittering triumph. So it looked to the whole world. But in order to be a triumph, the Baghdad coup had to produce a government entirely pliant to Nasser's orders; and this it altogether failed to do.

So far as one can judge from this distance, Nasser's error resulted from a miscalculation of the strength of his agent and underground net in Iraq. In the outcome, the leader of the Baghdad coup d'etat, Brig. Gen. Karim Kassem, turned out to want to rule over an independent Iraq instead of an Iraq made into an Egyptian province. In addition, the Communist agents and underground net turned out to be at least as strong as the Nasserite net, if not rather stronger. And the Communists strongly supported Gen. Kassem's independent policy.

For Nasser, Iraq's continuing independence under Kassem was almost as serious a loss as the Western loss of friends in Baghdad. While King Faisal, the crown prince of Iraq and the aging Nuri Pasha still ruled Iraq, these Western friends made ideal targets for Nasser's propaganda. The notion that Nuri Pasha's Baghdad could act as another magnetic pole in the Arab world was sheerly nonsense. Unless Nuri's government could be replaced by a true-blue Nasserite regime, it was better for Nasser to keep these ideal targets in power.

In the outcome, however, the ideal targets were effaced by an independent, revolutionary regime, strongly supported by the Iraqi Communists and quite capable of acting as another magnetic pole for the Arabs. It happened, furthermore, when Nasser's rule in Syria was running into fairly serious and visible trouble.

In Syria, the ambitious Nasserite program of land reform had to be put off to another season. The merchant and landlord classes are increasingly discontented, and there are signs of disagreement between Nasser and Akram Hourani, the man who made Syria into a province of Egypt. Other signs suggest disagreement between Hourani and his former partner in the Syrian Army, Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj. And the theoretically - outlawed Syrian Communist party led by Ahalid Baqdash has been making important progress, in step with the Communists of Iraq.

Because of the situation in Iraq and Syria, the Nasser bandwagon was slowing down rather dangerously. Hence, the attempt to kidnap or kill King Hussein, which failed so ignominiously. If it also turns out that the new leaders of the Sudan still want real independence for their country, Nasser's prospects will be very badly impaired — without any comparable improvement in the West's prospects, it must be added.

But, if the Sudanese coup adds to Egypt the one province that Egypt wants most, then the Nasser bandwagon will again be rolling down the road at a good clip.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Are You Afraid To Laugh?

Corey Ford, in an interesting piece in "The Saturday Evening Post," asks the very pertinent question: "Are you afraid to laugh?" The question is pertinent because people these days do not really laugh. They grin; they grimace; they snicker; they giggle; but they do not laugh. There is no uproar of laughter. There is no belly laugh.

True noise has become impolite unless it comes out of a machine. It used to be that the purpose of dining was to talk and talk was usually disputative, but never pompous. Nothing is funnier than a pompous person attempting to establish his personality like a heavy hammer banging away at an idea. It is pleasanter to listen to those new hi-fi machines which make so much noise or to a television Late Show. The pompous person realizes that his pomposity covers intellectual insecurity and he must keep the act going to be noticed.

However, that is not the only reason one does not laugh. It used to be that when one went to a public dinner, the speakers permitted themselves wit and humor and some understanding of human nature. But in these days of synthetics, with most speeches written by ghosts, the output is lethal. After-dinner speeches are a cause for the increased consumption of anti-gas powders and other nostrums which are advertised even on television without the burp showing.

The failure of vaudeville ended the real jokesters. Radio and television are afraid of dialects because sponsors are afraid of boycotts. Nevertheless a dialect is wonderful fun and a dialect story, well told, sub rosa perhaps by Harry Hershfield, is always worth a laugh. There used to be humorous magazines and humorous columnists, as Corey Ford points out, but they are all gone unless one is willing to accept some of the extra-pontifical stuff as a form of humor. There used to be humorists like Mark Twain, for that matter, or Will Rogers. Today, there are none although a few mean to be. Why has not the 20th century — the middle of it — produced a Mark Twain? There is so much to laugh about. There is not a single satirist in the English language.

Writing, like everything else, supplies a want and if there is no demand, there is no supply. The would-be humorist is writing "who dun-its" and the satirist, such as Westbrook Pegler might have been, is telling the politicians how to be decent, a most futile task and utterly unappreciated. Pegler's Spelvin stories might have made great literature if they were not confined to the size of a column and probably at times cut to fit. They need room for development and the spread of a virginal humor. Harry Hershfield can regale his coterie of listeners with story after story but in a column they are too purified to be worth-while which is also true of Bennett Cerf who suffers from being an anthologist. Bennett Cerf has the makings of a humorist who will ultimately rebel against his tuxedo and do something that is remarkably good.

Man likes to laugh, just as a dog likes to bark. The sponsor in radio and television is really afraid that the customer might not like to be laughed at, which is undoubtedly true. As everybody is a customer, it is impossible to have any laughter, although Mollie Goldberg achieves both laughter and pathos in dialect and the dialect is authentic. There is no laughter in Westerns which are now popular or in Quiz shows which were all the rage last year. Attempts to introduce the funny in Quiz shows got them into trouble, because it could only be accomplished by exaggerating the improbable, namely, by arranging it so that an obvious ignoramus seemed to be a know-it-all. But nobody laughed at that, any more than one laughed at Barnum's White Elephant. The unusual may be startling, but it need not be funny. The clown could be funny, but the stripteaser can only be surprising. She is never funny and only exciting to the moronic. Clowns are fast disappearing as burlesque is disappearing and the circus has become genteel.

This is an excellent subject for a good argument, particularly among those who still prefer to laugh at the foibles of the human race. After all, we are very funny, aren't we?

Amebiasis May Go Unnoticed By Many Patients

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Amebiasis (amebic dysentery) is overlooked frequently because symptoms may be vague and unimpressive. Though the condition is called dysentery, less than half the victims have this symptom.

Many develop abdominal cramps, nausea, gas, and rectal itching. Others are bothered with irregular stools alternating between diarrhea and constipation. Fatigue or an unexplained fever may be present. Headache is traced to the disease occasionally, especially when the causative organisms have a toxic effect on the system.

Amebiasis is suspected also whenever intestinal symptoms develop in a person who has traveled abroad where sanitation is not up to par. Several years ago, a middle-aged woman consulted me because of fatigue and abdominal cramps. She had not recovered from an attack of dysentery acquired during a Latin American trip several months previously. Her ailment proved to be amebiasis, and within 10 days she was on the road to recovery.

It also is surprising how often other members of the family become infected. In some, the infection is acquired from the same source; in other it is passed from one to another through close contact.

Many remedies are available but none is wholly satisfactory. The list includes Milibis, Emetine, Carbarsone, Diodoquin, Fumagillin, and the tetracyclines. No one knows why these drugs eliminate the ameba from the intestine in some persons but not in others.

It is for this reason that physicians usually suggest stool tests at varying intervals after each round of treatment. This is the only way to determine whether the organisms have been eradicated. Otherwise there may be recurrences.

ANTIDIABETIC TABLETS

H. E. writes: How does Orinase work on a diabetic?

REPLY

It is believed that the product stimulates certain cells in the pancreas to manufacture more insulin.

FALLOUT AND TEETH

C. W. writes: With so much dental decay among children, I wonder if the radioactive fallout in the air could be responsible?

REPLY

No, but fallout is being blamed for a lot of things. Dental decay is as old as man and occurred long before the atomic age. Cavities were neglected 100 years ago and decay was allowed to progress until the teeth fell out.

EXERCISE AFTER CORONARY

D. R. writes: You advise that a person who has recovered from an attack of coronary thrombosis should remain physically active. Are there any special exercises he should do?

REPLY

Walking is best. There is no harm in golf, gardening, and swimming in a pool, provided exertion does not lead to shortness of breath, cough, palpitation, and chest pain.

INCOMPATIBLE BLOOD

J. H. writes: Can animal blood be given a human when a transfusion is needed?

REPLY

No. A fatal reaction is likely to occur because animal blood is not compatible with human blood. Sheep blood was used in transfusions in the 17th century but the treatment was prohibited because of adverse reactions. The reason for the incompatibility was not understood until 1900, when Landsteiner discovered blood groups.

TOMORROW: Consolation eating.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Frostburg Pool Operation Near Self-Supporting

Cost Community Only $10.92

FROSTBURG — The City of Frostburg provided swimming in the community pool the past summer for 9,252 persons at a total cost of $10.92, according to a report given at the town council meeting.

The report showed that total operating revenues from the pool amounted to $3,661.22, including admission charges and income from the concession stand.

Expenses included: $1,020.37 for the concession stand; $677.67 general pool expense for electric, supplies, maintenance, and painting; $290.31 for 150 wire checkout baskets and a new power mower, and salaries and wages $1,683.79.

The total operating revenue was $3,661.22 and the total operating expense $3,672.14, showing a net operating loss of $10.92.

City Clerk William Vogtman pointed out that the net loss in 1957 was $600 and in 1956, $1,200. The pool was open 76 days and closed 11 days due to bad weather.

Several residents of Welsh Hill asked council for permission to tap onto a water line in that area. They were advised that this line is managed by the Welsh Hill-Wrights Crossing Water Company as it is outside the city limits.

James Kenney, water and light commissioner, was empowered to investigate the possibility of installing a street light on Centennial Street extended and proceed at his own discretion. A donation of $10 was made to the Beall Boosters Fund.

A discussion was raised concerning the dumping of ashes in alleys by residents. Council pointed out that this practice causes extra expense to the city each year due to the ashes being washed into sewers. Council pointed out that money spent to clean sewers could be spent to a better advantage if this practice is discontinued.

Group Raises Fund For FSTC Scholarships

This is a group of leaders of the Frostburg-Georges Creek Fellowship which sponsored a benefit card party to raise funds for scholarships to Frostburg State Teachers College. Left to right are Miss Margaret Jones, Mrs. Gerry Drake, Mrs. Evelyn Read, Mrs. Reford Aldridge, Miss Louise Dillon, Mrs. Ruth Grahame, Dr. Hazel Ramsey and Mrs. Gerald Reeves. Mrs. Aldridge served as general chairman and 35 tables were in play.

Oakland Girl Cast In Play At Western Md.

WESTMINSTER — Terence Rattigan's "Separate Tables" will be the annual Thanksgiving Play November 21 at 8:15 in Alumni Hall, Western Maryland College.

Directed by Miss Esther Smith of the Dramatic Art department "Separate Tables" is two plays in one. Each drama concerns the guests at a British resort hotel and the whole play is tied together by the character of the hotel owner, Miss Cooper, who will be played by Marsha Reifsnyder, a senior from Westminster, Md.

Rattigan has called "Separate Tables" a comedy but it has an underlying feeling of pity. The play was a success in London and on Broadway. Sets for the Western Maryland production have been designed by William Tribby of the Dramatic Art department. Stage manager is Robert Harris, senior from Upper Darby, Pa.

The cast of the first drama "Table by the Window" includes: Sharon Board, Ridgewood, N. J.; Karen Helbig, North Haven, Conn.; Mina Kirby, Baltimore, Md.; Mary Harrison, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Jill Brown, Long Island, N. Y.; Stephen Callendar, Pearl River, N. Y.; Shirley Ream, Oakland, Md.; Clarence Kaylor, Butler, Pa.; Allen Wortz, Wilmington, Dela.; Patricia Garcia, Wynnewood, Pa.

The second play, "Table Number Seven" has the same cast with the addition of: Luther Martin, Arlington, Va.; Patricia Cooper, Linthicum Heights, Md.; Beatrix Gill, Towson, Md. and James Gibson, Trenton, N. J.

Frostburg Pool Operation Near Self-Supporting

Cost Community Only $10.92

FROSTBURG — The City of Frostburg provided swimming in the community pool the past summer for 9,252 persons at a total cost of $10.92, according to a report given at the town council meeting.

The report showed that total operating revenues from the pool amounted to $3,661.22, including admission charges and income from the concession stand.

Expenses included: $1,020.37 for the concession stand; $677.67 general pool expense for electric, supplies, maintenance, and painting; $290.31 for 150 wire checkout baskets and a new power mower, and salaries and wages $1,683.79.

The total operating revenue was $3,661.22 and the total operating expense $3,672.14, showing a net operating loss of $10.92.

City Clerk William Vogtman pointed out that the net loss in 1957 was $600 and in 1956, $1,200. The pool was open 76 days and closed 11 days due to bad weather.

Several residents of Welsh Hill asked council for permission to tap onto a water line in that area. They were advised that this line is managed by the Welsh Hill-Wrights Crossing Water Company as it is outside the city limits.

James Kenney, water and light commissioner, was empowered to investigate the possibility of installing a street light on Centennial Street extended and proceed at his own discretion. A donation of $10 was made to the Beall Boosters Fund.

A discussion was raised concerning the dumping of ashes in alleys by residents. Council pointed out that this practice causes extra expense to the city each year due to the ashes being washed into sewers. Council pointed out that money spent to clean sewers could be spent to a better advantage if this practice is discontinued.

W.Va. National Guard Is Given Highest Rating

Inspections Show Marked Progress

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The recently completed general inspections of West Virginia National Guard units were the most favorable since its reorganization in 1946, it was announced Tuesday.

The state adjutant general's office said eight of the state's 51 guard units were given superior ratings, 38 excellent, and five satisfactory. Five years ago, one unit received a superior rating, while last year, only three got superior ratings.

Each of the units was graded on its training capabilities, administrative procedures and actions, and qualification of personnel and efficiency.

Superior ratings were given to state headquarters detachment, Charleston; 249th Army Band, Fairmont; four Huntington batteries of the 468th Field Artillery Battalion, and the office of the U. S. property and fiscal officer and the state maintenance office both at Pt. Pleasant.

Unemployment Is Still High

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Initial claims from West Virginia's jobless showed a slight increase last week under the Department of Employment Security's regular program, while new claims under its temporary program declined 8.7 per cent, it was reported Tuesday.

However, Director Henry L. Ash emphasized that the figures referred to only insured unemployment and did not reflect total unemployment in West Virginia. He said his office reports did not purport to show total employment.

State Federation of Labor President Miles Stanley last week charged that reports by Ash's department misrepresented the employment picture.

To determine the total number of unemployed, Ash said there must be added the number of persons who have exhausted their claims eligibility, the number of unemployed who are not entitled to jobless benefits, unemployed railroad workers, plus covered employes who have been denied benefits in accordance with the law.

In its weekly report, the department noted that new claims under its regular program totaled 3,281, 1.4 per cent more than the 3,237 the week before. All claims, including 15,131 continued ones, amounted to 18,412, a 1.2 per cent decrease from the week before.

A hymn was sung by the Trinity Choir. Mrs. Eltin Gourley, president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, extended the welcome to Rev. and Mrs. Rexrode in behalf of her society.

After Mr. Warnick extended greetings to Rev. and Mrs. Rexrode they both responded. Mrs. Gourley and John E. Grindle introduced Rev. and Mrs. Rexrode to each one present.

A social period was held in the recreation hall and members of the Young Ladies Bible Class served refreshments.

Violations Noted At Coal Mine Near Lonaconing

MORGANTOWN — Removal of excessive water and other obstructions from the alternate escapeway at the three-man 15-ton-a-day Number 1 mine of the Castle Coal Company, Lonaconing, Md., was urged in a federal coal-mine inspection report by the U. S. Bureau of Mines. The report lists 12 violations of the Federal Mine Safety Code.

Federal Inspector Harry Jones also recommended better ventilation in the face areas and suitable preshift and weekly examinations for explosive gas and other hazards.

Other proposals included equipping the power circuit that leads underground with lightning arresters, provision of a mine map, and the use of goggles or shields by employes exposed to eye hazards.

Moorefield Girl Married In Washington

MOOREFIELD — Miss Ann Turley, daughter of Mrs. Herman Barb and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Loving Jr., was married to Theodore Bailey Ladd Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bailey Ladd, North Dighton, Mass. The double ring ceremony was performed August 27, by the Rev. Donald D. M. Jones in the Chapel at Sixth Presbyterian Church, Washington, D.C.

Jobless Claims Show Decline In W. Virginia

Unemployment Is Still High

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Initial claims from West Virginia's jobless showed a slight increase last week under the Department of Employment Security's regular program, while new claims under its temporary program declined 8.7 per cent, it was reported Tuesday.

However, Director Henry L. Ash emphasized that the figures referred to only insured unemployment and did not reflect total unemployment in West Virginia. He said his office reports did not purport to show total employment.

State Federation of Labor President Miles Stanley last week charged that reports by Ash's department misrepresented the employment picture.

To determine the total number of unemployed, Ash said there must be added the number of persons who have exhausted their claims eligibility, the number of unemployed who are not entitled to jobless benefits, unemployed railroad workers, plus covered employes who have been denied benefits in accordance with the law.

In its weekly report, the department noted that new claims under its regular program totaled 3,281, 1.4 per cent more than the 3,237 the week before. All claims, including 15,131 continued ones, amounted to 18,412, a 1.2 per cent decrease from the week before.

South Fork Watershed Flood Project Awaits Final Formal Approval

First Dam Begins In May Or June

MOOREFIELD — The South Fork Watershed Flood Prevention project is assured and construction of the first dam will start between May and July of next year. This announcement was made at the joint meeting of the committees Thursday night at the Moorefield town hall by Mayor P. W. Clarke and Al Millender with the Soil Conservation Service. Only the formal approval from the department in Washington is necessary and this should be made within the next two weeks, Mayor Clarke noted.

More than two years have been spent in planning and engineering on the project, securing easements, making surveys and arranging for finances. The 19-dam project is only a part of the 185,000 acres flood prevention program, and reforestation and proper soil practices are included in the plan.

The project will cost a projected $4,693,434 with two of the dams costing half a million dollars each. The first dam to be constructed will be at Hawse Run in Pendleton County and will have a permanent total of nearly 30 acres with a flood pool of 150 acres. The 120 acres of land not covered by water other than at flood times will be used for hay or pasture. Most of the Hawse Run project will be in George Washington National Forest. Complete easements have been secured for five of the proposed structures.

Annual benefits derived from flood water protection will be $303,940, according to the estimates of the engineers, showing a benefit to cost ratio of nearly two to one.

The 185,000 acre project is the largest flood prevention program attempted by the Soil Conservation Service in West Virginia. It is four times larger than the next largest watershed of 45,000 acres where a project is approved. Six projects are already approved in the state.

The South Fork Watershed legislation is under Public Law 534 which applies only to the Potomac River and its tributaries.

The legal sponsor of the project is the Potomac Valley Soil Conservation District with the Town of Moorefield as co-sponsor. The Hardy County Court, the Pendleton County Court and the West Virginia State Road Commission are also contributing financial assistance to the project.

When completed over a ten-year period a total of 211 acres of permanent pools will be available for fishing, boating and recreational use. Along with the actual retention of floodwaters in the pools behind the dams, reforestation and correct soil practices will also aid in the retention of the runoff of floodwaters. Downstream damage will be reduced by 62 per cent according to estimates of the engineers.

Mayor Clarke expressed thanks on behalf of the Moorefield town council to the Moorefield Lions Club and other civic groups who contributed funds, assisted in preliminary surveys and who worked on various committees during the past two years. Mayor Clarke also expressed the hope that Grant County would consider such a program for controlling floodwaters in the North Fork of the South Branch and on Lunice Creek and that the upper reaches of the South Branch in Pendleton County could be developed with a watershed project.

Under the recommendation made to the Legislature's two main interim committees, the money from the funds would be appropriated by the Legislature upon recommendation of two governing boards — one representing West Virginia University and the other the nine colleges under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Education.

The sub-committee report also recommended the appropriation of more money to hire additional teachers at colleges where enrollment has increased.

Enrollment in West Virginia colleges increased from 11,397 in 1952-53 to 18,599 this term, an increase of 63.2 per cent, the report said.

Extra Dividend Declared By B&O Directors

While wage increases total $32,000,000 a year, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was able to effect economies amounting to $54,000,000 and declare an extra dividend of 5 cents a common share of stock.

Howard E. Simpson, president, reported major developments on the railroad during the current year at a meeting of the board of directors in Baltimore.

Stockholders were informed that wage increases since 1956 have lifted B&O payroll costs to $32,000,000. Prices of materials have risen by $1,800,000 on an annual basis since last July.

During the year the B&O president said, employment was substantially reduced with a saving of $48,000,000 in payroll costs for the ten-month period.

Another annual saving of $6,000,000 will be effected through discontinuance of unprofitable passenger trains and consolidation of lightly patronized trains.

The extra payment of 5 cents a share will increase total disbursements for 1958 to $1.50 a share.

The board at the same time liberalized the 1959 dividend by voting $1.50 a share for payment in four quarterly installments of 37½ cents a share each. For 1958 the stock has been on a 25-cent quarterly basis.

Simpson said the company's gross revenues for the first ten months of this year was approximately $318,000,000, down 18.6 per cent from $319,600,000 in the similar 1957 period.

Net income for ten months was $14,800,000 or 30 per cent less than the year earlier figure of $21,076,000.

Despite these decreases, Simpson said, present levels of traffic would indicate that the recession has been arrested and recovery on a gradual basis seems to have begun.

The extra dividend on the common stock voted yesterday is payable December 19 to holders of record November 28.

The board also declared a dividend of $4 a share on the preferred stock, payable in quarterly installments next year.

Both the preferred and common dividends for 1959 are payable March 23, June 22, September 21 and December 21, 1959. Record dates are February 20, May 22, August 21 and November 27, 1959.

The Allegany Camper Club last night completed plans for a pep rally, according to John Yoder, president.

The rally, he explained, will be held Wednesday evening, November 26, prior to the traditional Thanksgiving Day football game between Allegany and Fort Hill High School.

Last night's meeting featured a talk by Nevlyn Boyer, superintendent of the Hazelwood Construction Company, who discussed in detail the new gymnasium being constructed at Allegany High. Boyer also showed blueprints of the structure.

A report was presented by Mrs. Paul Umberger, membership chairman, who explained that members who have not been contacted yet for renewals can mail their dues to Allegany High School.

Gephart PTA To Meet Today

This particular type of meeting gives the parents a better opportunity to discuss with teachers classroom procedures and other questions or problems which may be presented, PTA officers state.

This type of visit also has proved helpful in promoting better understanding between the teacher and the parent.

Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria following the meeting.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Accent On Elbows

Deterioration of muscles through disuse or misuse can cause ugly contours. When you permit this to happen, your muscular control is sure to decline in no time, and you will develop awkward, unnatural movements that inevitably throw your body out of line, such as knockknees or elbows that turn unnaturally inward toward the body. Both faults are generally attributed to faulty bone structure, but they often result from standing incorrectly and from misuse of the arms.

Today let's consider arm deviations. Take this test. Stand with your arms straight down at your sides. Then, raise both arms diagonally outward to shoulder height. Turn your palms slowly up toward the ceiling.

If your elbow joints tend to bulge inward toward each other, you will note that they appear enlarged along the inner borders and that the lower arms are out of alignment with the upper arms. This is the fault that makes so many women self-conscious about their arms in short sleeves or evening dress.

All it takes to bring your elbows back into a beautiful relationship with the rest of your arms is a little re-education of your arm muscles. Start by keeping the palms of your hands turned downward as much as possible. For example, in picking up a small object, such as a book, reach toward it with the palm down and life with the thumb under and the fingers on top.

The following corrective exercise will help, too; Standing with your arms at shoulder level, roll your arms inward as far as they will go. Relax and repeat five times daily.

When a fault can so easily be corrected, no woman should be willing to let it detract from her grace and beauty. Start exercising today, and watch your elbow contours improve.

Local Church Plans 50-Year Celebration

Emmanuel Methodist Church, Humbird Street, will celebrate its 50th anniversary with two services and a luncheon Sunday, according to Rev. Harold R. McClay Sr.

At 11 a. m., Dr. Earl N. Bergerstock of York, Pa., will deliver the sermon and the choirs will present a program adapted for the service.

A covered dish luncheon for members of the church will be held at 1 p. m. in the social room.

At 3 p. m. Dr. Paul F. Warner, superintendent of the Hagerstown District of the Methodist Church, will speak.

Rev. Edward Culp, pastor of First Methodist Church, and Mrs. Culp will play several selections and will also lead congregational singing.

The oldest members of the church, both in years and membership, will be honored guests and will receive recognition.

Fifty years ago the church had its beginning with the small Agur Chapel. Augur means "gatherer or assembler," Rev. Mr. McClay said but some members of the church suggested that the word could have meant "having withstood so many difficulties."

In August 1900, the little Agur Chapel was blown off its base and demolished when a cyclone hit it.

From the wreckage was gathered and assembled materials for a new building, Rev. Mr. McClay said. It was named Emmanuel, which means "God with us," he observed.

Then in 1937, the congregation had the church built in 1900 raised. A basement was constructed beneath it and an addition was placed on the rear.

City Has Top Building Gain In State

The value of building permits issued in Cumberland during the first ten months of this year was a larger gain over the same period of 1957 than was registered by any other city in Maryland outside of Baltimore.

The gain was close to a million dollars, statistics show, since the value of building permits through October was placed at $2,622,062, compared to $1,651,260 for the same period last year.

Building permits issued last month were valued at $54,800, also a gain over the $52,436 valuation made of permits issued in October of 1957. The permits were issued for 88 new construction units, 54 for additions and improvements and seven for moving structures.

All the larger cities in Maryland, with the exception of Hagerstown, registered gains in building permits during the 10-month period of this year.

Valuations of permits issued in Hagerstown for that period totaled $2,423,834 compared to $5,879,973 in the first ten months of last year.

Annapolis led all cities in the valuation of building permits with $3,386,369. This compared with $2,843,492 in 1958.

Other cities reported the following 1958, 1957 figures in that order: Frederick, $2,884,412 and $1,856,035; Salisbury, $1,468,706 and $1,189,626.

Extra Dividend Declared By B&O Directors

While wage increases total $32,000,000 a year, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was able to effect economies amounting to $54,000,000 and declare an extra dividend of 5 cents a common share of stock.

Howard E. Simpson, president, reported major developments on the railroad during the current year at a meeting of the board of directors in Baltimore.

Stockholders were informed that wage increases since 1956 have lifted B&O payroll costs to $32,000,000. Prices of materials have risen by $1,800,000 on an annual basis since last July.

During the year the B&O president said, employment was substantially reduced with a saving of $48,000,000 in payroll costs for the ten-month period.

Another annual saving of $6,000,000 will be effected through discontinuance of unprofitable passenger trains and consolidation of lightly patronized trains.

The extra payment of 5 cents a share will increase total disbursements for 1958 to $1.50 a share.

The board at the same time liberalized the 1959 dividend by voting $1.50 a share for payment in four quarterly installments of 37½ cents a share each. For 1958 the stock has been on a 25-cent quarterly basis.

Simpson said the company's gross revenues for the first ten months of this year was approximately $318,000,000, down 18.6 per cent from $319,600,000 in the similar 1957 period.

Net income for ten months was $14,800,000 or 30 per cent less than the year earlier figure of $21,076,000.

Despite these decreases, Simpson said, present levels of traffic would indicate that the recession has been arrested and recovery on a gradual basis seems to have begun.

The extra dividend on the common stock voted yesterday is payable December 19 to holders of record November 28.

The board also declared a dividend of $4 a share on the preferred stock, payable in quarterly installments next year.

Both the preferred and common dividends for 1959 are payable March 23, June 22, September 21 and December 21, 1959. Record dates are February 20, May 22, August 21 and November 27, 1959.

City Has Top Building Gain In State

The value of building permits issued in Cumberland during the first ten months of this year was a larger gain over the same period of 1957 than was registered by any other city in Maryland outside of Baltimore.

The gain was close to a million dollars, statistics show, since the value of building permits through October was placed at $2,622,062, compared to $1,651,260 for the same period last year.

Building permits issued last month were valued at $54,800, also a gain over the $52,436 valuation made of permits issued in October of 1957. The permits were issued for 88 new construction units, 54 for additions and improvements and seven for moving structures.

All the larger cities in Maryland, with the exception of Hagerstown, registered gains in building permits during the 10-month period of this year.

Valuations of permits issued in Hagerstown for that period totaled $2,423,834 compared to $5,879,973 in the first ten months of last year.

Annapolis led all cities in the valuation of building permits with $3,386,369. This compared with $2,843,492 in 1958.

Other cities reported the following 1958, 1957 figures in that order: Frederick, $2,884,412 and $1,856,035; Salisbury, $1,468,706 and $1,189,626.

Dishwasher Provides Plenty Of Free Time

The lucky lady who receives a dishwasher for Christmas may not realize right away just how fortunate she really is.

But during the year she'll have over 45,000 opportunities to thank her lucky stars that she'll never have to wash another dish. That's because the average family dirties about 3800 dishes per month — or more than 45,000 per year.

Actually, it won't take her that long to realize how thoughtful you have been. If she's entertaining on Christmas Day, for example, she'll find that Christmas dinner can be a thing of sheer delight when she doesn't have the stacks of dishes awaiting her in the kitchen. For with a dishwasher, a meal can end with dessert — instead of drudgery.

The real gift of a dishwasher is leisure time. Studies show that she spends between an hour and an hour and a half doing dishes each day. In the space of a year the woman has spent 21 days doing dishes.

While owners of dishwashers are particularly enthusiastic about the time and work the appliance saves them, they also have other kind words for the product. Many single out the fact that the extra-hot water used in a dishwasher virtually sterilizes the dishes, killing any bacteria or germs.

The dishwasher, moreover, is almost unique in the way it qualifies as a "family gift" at Christmas time. That's because in most households dishwashing is no reserved exclusively for the woman of the house. The children and the husband all come in eventually for their turn at the sink. The gift of an automatic dishwasher will pay bonuses for all of them all through the year.

Packaged Kitchen

More and more manufacturers are turning out pre-assembled packaged kitchens which combine several appliances within one framework. These units, customarily range between seven and nine feet in length and are easily adaptable to the use of the modern homemaker who has limited space.

IT'S A PROUD WIFE WHO CAN BOAST the neatest family, the tidiest closets, the crispest linens. That's why an automatic ironer is the Christmas gift to please the proudest wife.

Electrical Irons Give Perfection With Ease

What woman doesn't worry about what her neighbors think about her?

What woman, for example, ready to leave on a vacation, doesn't spend a final minute in tidying up the house so the neighbors who bring in the mail and the papers will be impressed by her neatness?

And what woman doesn't worry about how her children and her husband look? She knows, for example, that nicely ironed clothes are the best index of her ability as a wife and mother.

That's why so many women are using a modern electrical appliance which is designed specifically to make it possible for them to do a professional job of ironing with ease.

The product is, of course, an ironer. The smart woman would do well to think seriously about adding it to her list of "things I really want" for Christmas. And the smart husband will realize that here is a gift which will be appreciated for years and years to come.

Here's why. The ironer banishes almost all of the physical labor in ironing. There are no ironing boards to get out, set up and put away again (and the putting away inevitably comes after you've put in a long afternoon of ironing and are completely tired out).

Better yet, the automatic ironer takes the physical labor out of the ironing process itself. There's no more standing, no more lifting, no more exerting ironing pressure.

The ironer also cuts ironing time. Some experts say you spend only one-third as much time in ironing by machine as you would spend in doing the same laundry by hand. This additional leisure time is all yours —it's time saved out of your busy schedule.

Best of all, an ironer lets you do a thoroughly professional job on every item in your laundry—from dresses and shirts right through the flat work. Slacks and shorts can be ironed easily and men's trousers pressed in a jiffy. You'll finish your best linens in a hurry with never a wrinkle to mar them. And you'll find that you get generally smoother, more uniform ironing with an ironer.

Women Enjoy Cooking Best Of Household Jobs

Do you know which household job women like best?

Survey after survey indicates that women get the most enjoyment out of cooking. The reason is simple: cooking is creative work.

You'll never be able to settle the argument as to whether she is a better cook than grandmother was. But one thing is certain. With today's modern electric ranges the modern housewife can do things Grandma would never have thought of trying — and all with a minimum of work.

Many fancy dishes required hours of preparation and close attention over a long period of time. Grandma just couldn't take that much time to prepare a gourmet's delight.

Your wife, however, can have a fast-cooking electric range at her beck and call. And it will be complete with a variety of automatic cooking controls to insure that once a meal is underway it doesn't require constant attention.

That's even more true this Christmas than it was as recently as two or three years ago. Thermostatic controls have now been successfully applied to surface cooking units as well as the oven. The housewife who owns a modern electric range with these automatic controls can put the pan on the surface cooker, twist a dial and walk out of the kitchen.

A "sensing" element feels the temperature of the saucepan and relays this to an automatic control which keeps heat at full intensity, lowers it slightly, brings it back up, cuts it off almost completely — keeping the dish always at the temperature the housewife selected on the control dial.

Even the more familiar cooking operations have been simplified by today's range. Take broiling, for example. You've always been able to broil but often it was a messy job. That's no longer the case, thanks to modern spatter-proof broilers. And the rotisseries and "elevator" broilers in today's ranges make possible a variety of broiling techniques unheard of in Grandma's kitchen.

Best of all, there's little "hangover" to cooking with a modern electric range. The units have been designed for easy cleaning. Some ovens have doors which can be lifted off and others have "drop leaf" doors to facilitate cleaning.

Surface units swing up and away from the drip pans for easy cleaning. Actually, the automatic control features incorporated in a modern range do much to simplify clean-up afterward by eliminating many spills, boil-overs and burning dishes.

So, for the job she likes best, help your wife be her creative best by giving her the best tools available. In cooking, that means a modern electric range.

Always Sunny

It's always sunny clothes-drying weather, with the help of an automatic gas dryer to give clothes a better-than-outdoors freshness and fragrance.

NEW VERSATILE WATER HEATERS can even fit into your kitchen. Here, in addition to all the advantages of plenty of just right hot water for all your household needs, they save piping, reduce thermal loss and install more easily.

New Automatic Gas Ranges Combine Appliances

If you're one of those householders with a kitchen that's cluttered with an assortment of single-purpose cooking appliances and you couldn't add another without a shoe horn, then hear this:

The new automatic gas ranges have 'em all — built in, so that your shelves and cabinet space can be used for utensils and other essentials. Let's run down the list of "auxiliary" cooking functions so you can check:

Plug-in frying pan? Automatic deep fat fryer or broiler? With the top burner heat control that's standard equipment on new gas ranges, you're in a position to kiss the "special" appliances good-bye. In fact, this control makes any pot or pan in your closet into an automatic cooking appliance. A Dutch oven or chicken fryer takes a new lease on life when you can pre-set your gas cooking temperature and know positively that the heat won't vary more than two degrees through the whole cooking operation, unless you re-set it to automatic simmer or high heat.

All Work the Same

What's more, it makes no difference what size your utensil is or whether it's made of porcelain, stainless steel, iron, oven-proof glass or aluminum. They'll all work the same, because the dial for the top burner control can be set to compensate for any kind of utensil and the flexible gas flame will spread to contact the whole bottom of the pan without going to waste up the sides.

Does the new gas range give you the advantage of a combination broiler and rotisserie?

Naturally; and you can't beat the flavor your radiant-heat gas broiler imparts to steaks, while your rotating rotisserie makes delicious meals without heating your entire kitchen. Your range offers carefree cooking as a "plus," for you can leave the house while your roast is being barbecued to perfection, knowing that your oven control will take care of it, safely.

Automatic roaster?

Of course; and yours has a foolproof device for arriving at the exact degree of doneness you want—rare, medium, well-done or any shade between — simply by setting a dial on the probe that goes into your roast. And, as the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association points out, you can cook a complete meal, roast a turkey or bake puddings, cakes, pies and casserole dishes at the same time in your extra-wide oven.

King Size Model

Toaster?

Yes. Your broiler also serves as a king-size toaster that can supply everyone in the family with toast at one fell swoop and it takes all sizes and thicknesses of breads.

In short, according to GAMA, you have the latest automatic appliances built right into your new gas range.

How To Wrap It

Novel way to let the wife know she's getting a new range for Christmas is to wrap a box of cologne or powder to look like a range. It's easy. Use white gift wrap paper, black gummed reinforcements and signal dots, and black construction paper for door lines. The same principle can be used for other appliances.

New Desserts Seen Possible

A whole new world of desserts is possible with a home freezer. Here's a unique suggestion for "snowmen" by Jean Shaw of Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s home service department.

Buy one quart of vanilla ice cream. Scoop a large ball of ice cream for the bottom, a smaller one for the top. A marshmallow makes a fine head. Raisins, cloves or cinnamon candies produce features. For a top hat, use a maraschino cherry.

Now, parade currants down the front of the snowman for buttons and insert penny lollipops for arms. Harden snowmen in freezer, then wrap in a cellophane bag and return to freezer until ready to serve. Use within two weeks. Makes four snowmen.

Water Heater Is Best Friend Of Dishwasher

A dishwasher's best friend is a water heater.

It makes no difference whether the dishwasher is of the human variety or the automatic mechanical type. Both types take a beating during the holiday season, and both types are all but useless when the hot water supply runs out.

There's really no good reason for the "no-hot-water" lament in this day and age, says the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, since today's gas water heaters can keep any family supplied with enough hot water — automatically.

GAMA points out that more than two and a half million families solved the hot water problem with a new gas heater this year, and that just as many will do the same in 1959. There's no dip in water heater sales, GAMA says. The demand for more hot water continues to mount because of larger families, multiple-bathroom homes, automatic washers and dishwashers, not to mention increasing awareness of the importance of personal and household cleanliness in terms of social standing and health protection.

The householder currently suffering from hot water anemia can solve the problem rather easily. In many communities the gas company offers a deferred payment plan to finance a water heater — equal to the family's needs. In rural areas many LP-Gas dealers have similar plans. And of course, water heaters qualify for financing under FHA Title I loans and under other home modernization finance plans.

Your gas company or a qualified plumbing contractor can guide you in selecting a water heater of adequate capacity for your home and family, GAMA advises.

Soft Drinks In Cans Can Save Holiday Space

Space in your refrigerator is at a premium at Christmas time.

That's why smart homemakers do everything possible to conserve storage space. One valuable tip is to buy your soft drinks in cans.

They store much more easily—and if unexpected company arrives and depletes your stock of the canned drinks, you'll find that extra cans popped into the refrigerator will be ready for drinking in a remarkably short time. That's because the canned drinks chill much more quickly.

The fact that the cans won't break and that they don't have to be returned for redemption of a deposit are just two other reasons why women have found the canned drinks to be so convenient.

Her Leisure!

What will the woman do with her leisure time? There are as many answers to that as there are women. But it's a sure bet that sooner or later the family itself will benefit in one way or another. That's why, when you give your wife a modern appliance, you're giving the rest of the family a gift, too.

Ask An Expert

When planning kitchen improvements, consult an expert, especially when a built-in range is considered, suggests the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association.

Today's Kitchen Likely To Be Gleaming Showplace

Contrasts With Gloomy Drudgery Of Yesteryear

Hidden away in the back of the house, the old-fashioned kitchen was a gloomy place of drudgery for most women. By contrast, today's kitchen is likely to be a showplace. Batteries of gleaming appliances make it one of the most attractive and exciting rooms in the house, and have done almost as much to emancipate women as the right to vote.

Of course, the "good old days" boasted their appliances too. Powered by elbow grease, they were crude and heavy affairs, often hammered out by the local blacksmith. It was almost as much effort to use them as to get along without them.

Today's lightweight, high-speed appliances owe their existence both to the wonder of electricity and to a machine most people have never heard of, much less seen—the continuous sheet mill. Developed by the American steel industry during the 1920's, the continuous sheet mill spews out a ribbon of steel faster than a mile a minute. And much of this ribbon will end up in the kitchens of America in the form of appliances.

Triumph Of Economics

Before this mill was developed, sheet steel production was a slow, expensive process. Available only in limited lengths and widths, the sheets were hard to fabricate. Smooth curves and rounded corners were virtually impossible, as corners had to be riveted or welded. Substitute materials like wood were too bulky, and just not rugged enough to stand up to high speed manufacture and a lifetime of trouble-free operation. It's no exaggeration to say that modern appliances would be virtually impossible without the continuous sheet mill.

It that seems a little extreme, consider this: Modern appliances are as much a triumph of economics as of mechanics. Remember when they called the automobile "a rich man's toy?" It was the same situation.

Appliances (like automobiles) must be produced in high volume: costs go down as production goes up. And high-volume production means that appliances can be sold at a price you and I can afford. Without mass production, only a few of the very rich could afford the things we all take for granted.

And modern mass production would be impossible without the low-cost high-quality steel produced by the continuous sheet mill. These virtually endless ribbons of steel can be formed, stamped, assembled and painted with a speed that's hard to believe even after you've seen it done.

Sheet steel is by no means the only way in which the steel industry helps lighten the nation's housekeeping labors. A typical kitchen might contain virtually every steel mill product with the exception of railroad tracks. In weight, steel in a kitchen can easily run over 1,000 pounds. A standard refrigerator uses almost 180 pounds of various forms of steel. And much of it is pretty special stuff. Gleaming stainless steel—the "jewelry" of the industry—is a commonplace; electrical motors are virtual "time capsules" of electrical and metallurgical science. The special electrical sheets used in motors are very expensive, but worth every penny as far as the motor makers are concerned.

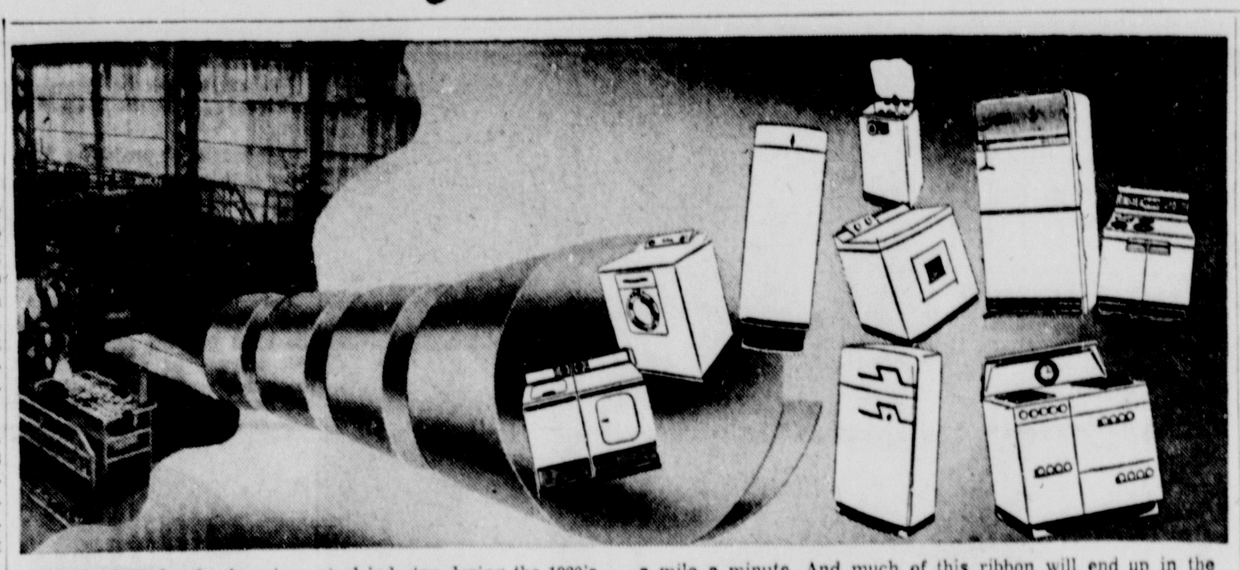
Remarkable Improvements

There's a whole story in the special cold-rolled sheets used for porcelain enameled surfaces. These sheets—"enamling iron" to the men who make them—are among the most carefully made of steel mill products. And improvements in them as well as in the enamels have been remarkable. Like so many steel advances, they may "look the same," but the locked-in improvements become apparent during their long life and high-quality performance.

In the parlor, it is considered impolite to talk about how much things cost. But in the nation's steel mills, cost is a vital topic of conversation. It is theoretically possible to build at least some appliances without using a pound of steel—but you wouldn't like the results. The substitute products would be impossibly bulky, for one thing, and the performance highly questionable. But the biggest drawback would be price. There are materials which can substitute for iron and steel in some jobs—but they usually cost many times as much.

But how can you compute the price of drudgery? How can you figure the dollars and cents value of a washing machine compared to hours over a scrubbing board? And the great value of today's appliances is the way they free the housewife to come a real homemaker and not a kitchen slave. In 1940, washing machines were just coming into their own, while dryers were a new innovation. Today, washer-dryer combinations are commonplace, and dishwashers are becoming equally usual.

All of these advances, and the new machines just around the corner, have been based on the assumption that enough steel, of the right kind, and at a suitable price, would be available. The steel industry has spent literally billions of dollars in the last decade to fulfill all three conditions. In addition millions have been spent to develop new steels, and unrelenting efforts exerted to hold down costs before that purring machine in the kitchen could even be considered.



DEVELOPED by the American steel industry during the 1920's, the continuous sheet mill spews out a ribbon of steel faster than a mile a minute. And much of this ribbon will end up in the kitchens of America in the form of appliances.

Food Waste Disposal One Of Best Ideas

Chances are you've overlooked one of the best white Christmas ideas of all — but its an idea that almost four million Americans have thought of already.

Installation of a modern food waste disposer does away with the entire subject of garbage. There's no doubt about the widespread appeal of disposers; they're being installed in one out of every three new homes being built this year.

Owners of disposers indicate that the appliance is truly a year-round gift, conferring benefits in the summer as distinct as in the winter.

There's no need to dwell on the advantages of eliminating food waste before it can become garbage in the summertime with heat and insects complicating the matter of garbage disposal.

Today's Appliances Save Housewives Time

How big a package does leisure time come in?

And where can you buy it?

There's not a husband alive who wouldn't like the answers to those questions—for leisure time is obviously the best gift he could possibly give his wife for Christmas.

Actually, the answers are surprisingly simple. That's because today's labor-saving appliances are also time-savers. Thus, the lucky lady who receives a major appliance from her family as a Christmas present is getting more than simply a machine which will make her work easier—she is, in effect, receiving a "package" of leisure time. These extra moments will come to her every day of the year and they are hers to do with just as she wants.

No husband will be surprised, of course, if his wife devotes most of those new found leisure moments to the family as well as herself. That's one beauty of an appliance as a Christmas present—the family reaps the indirect benefits even as mother herself gets the real use out of it.

The woman who owns a modern home freezer, for exampe, will find that precious moments just before meal time can now be spent with her family and guests. Delicacies prepared long in advance merely have to be removed from the freezer and popped in the oven. And if she owns a modern range with the latest in automatic controls she'll have just that much more time in which to relax before the meal is ready for the table.

Or, if the Christmas gift comes in the form of a dishwasher, the family will be able to relax together after the meal while the machine takes over the clean-up chore which once made mother an exile in the kitchen.

Meal times, however, are not the only hours of the day from which extra leisure moments can be extracted by modern appliances. A big, spacious refrigerator, for example, eliminates the need for repeated, time-consuming trips to the store. Shopping once a week is enough, for the wife with a modern refrigerator.

Women Enjoy Cooking Best Of Household Jobs

Do you know which household job women like best?

Survey after survey indicates that women get the most enjoyment out of cooking. The reason is simple: cooking is creative work.

You'll never be able to settle the argument as to whether she is a better cook than grandmother was. But one thing is certain. With today's modern electric ranges the modern housewife can do things Grandma would never have thought of trying — and all with a minimum of work.

Many fancy dishes required hours of preparation and close attention over a long period of time. Grandma just couldn't take that much time to prepare a gourmet's delight.

Your wife, however, can have a fast-cooking electric range at her beck and call. And it will be complete with a variety of automatic cooking controls to insure that once a meal is underway it doesn't require constant attention.

That's even more true this Christmas than it was as recently as two or three years ago. Thermostatic controls have now been successfully applied to surface cooking units as well as the oven. The housewife who owns a modern electric range with these automatic controls can put the pan on the surface cooker, twist a dial and walk out of the kitchen.

A "sensing" element feels the temperature of the saucepan and relays this to an automatic control which keeps heat at full intensity, lowers it slightly, brings it back up, cuts it off almost completely — keeping the dish always at the temperature the housewife selected on the control dial.

Even the more familiar cooking operations have been simplified by today's range. Take broiling, for example. You've always been able to broil but often it was a messy job. That's no longer the case, thanks to modern spatter-proof broilers. And the rotisseries and "elevator" broilers in today's ranges make possible a variety of broiling techniques unheard of in Grandma's kitchen.

Best of all, there's little "hangover" to cooking with a modern electric range. The units have been designed for easy cleaning. Some ovens have doors which can be lifted off and others have "drop leaf" doors to facilitate cleaning.

Surface units swing up and away from the drip pans for easy cleaning. Actually, the automatic control features incorporated in a modern range do much to simplify clean-up afterward by eliminating many spills, boil-overs and burning dishes.

So, for the job she likes best, help your wife be her creative best by giving her the best tools available. In cooking, that means a modern electric range.

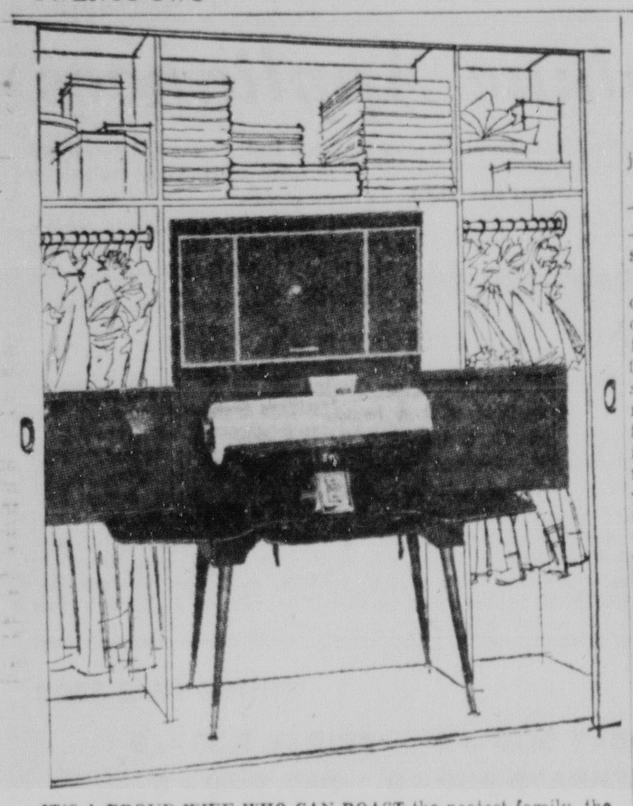
Best of all, an ironer lets you do a thoroughly professional job on every item in your laundry—from dresses and shirts right through the flat work. Slacks and shorts can be ironed easily and men's trousers pressed in a jiffy. You'll finish your best linens in a hurry with never a wrinkle to mar them. And you'll find that you get generally smoother, more uniform ironing with an ironer.



IT'S A PROUD WIFE WHO CAN BOAST the neatest family, the tidiest closets, the crispest linens. That's why an automatic ironer is the Christmas gift to please the proudest wife.

Always Sunny

Electrical Irons Give Perfection With Ease

What woman doesn't worry about what her neighbors think about her?

What woman, for example, ready to leave on a vacation, doesn't spend a final minute in tidying up the house so the neighbors who bring in the mail and the papers will be impressed by her neatness?

And what woman doesn't worry about how her children and her husband look? She knows, for example, that nicely ironed clothes are the best index of her ability as a wife and mother.

That's why so many women are using a modern electrical appliance which is designed specifically to make it possible for them to do a professional job of ironing with ease.

The product is, of course, an ironer. The smart woman would do well to think seriously about adding it to her list of "things I really want" for Christmas. And the smart husband will realize that here is a gift which will be appreciated for years and years to come.

Here's why. The ironer banishes almost all of the physical labor in ironing. There are no ironing boards to get out, set up and put away again (and the putting away inevitably comes after you've put in a long afternoon of ironing and are completely tired out).

Better yet, the automatic ironer takes the physical labor out of the ironing process itself. There's no more standing, no more lifting, no more exerting ironing pressure.

The ironer also cuts ironing time. Some experts say you spend only one-third as much time in ironing by machine as you would spend in doing the same laundry by hand. This additional leisure time is all yours

Modern-Day's Kitchen Sink Many Presents In One

Has Central, Varied Uses In Kitchen

Time was when people talked about "everything but the kitchen sink."

Nowadays, modern homemakers have learned that "everything" is likely to be in the kitchen sink—the modern cabinet sink, that is.

Modern materials and modern designs have made it possible to turn the once homely sink into an attractive, streamlined cabinet package which harmonizes with other appliances and performs a central role in efficient kitchen operation.

Gives Needed Space

There's almost always a shortage of storage space in the kitchen and the cabinet sink provides an eminently sensible solution to the problem of creating additional storage facilities. Its steel construction not only provides a strong, permanent storage area but also guarantees that maintenance and cleaning will take a minimum of time.

Metal construction does away with cracks or crevices which might collect dirt and the lasting exterior finish stands up well even after extreme usage.

For many women new sinks have a particular appeal because buying a new sink is the biggest single step one can take to update a kitchen. As a matter of fact, many kitchen remodelers recommend that any step by step remodeling plan should start with a new sink and surrounding cabinets.

From this foundation one can build on, adding additional special purpose cabinets and new appliances as time and budget permit. The standardized dimensions of steel sinks and cabinets make such a program particularly feasible.

Nor have designers stopped their development work by merely glamorizing the old-fashioned sink with an exterior of useful cabinet space.

New Functions Added

New designs are appearing on the market which add new functions to the sink. One firm has introduced a "servi-center" which includes automatically timed electric outlets for small appliance cookery, a dispenser to supply detergent and hand lotion, a light for the sink bowl, and a series of easy-to-clean tilt-out storage bins.

Well aware of the usefulness of cabinet sinks and that such new innovations are being made, it's little wonder that the modern housewife would be considerably more than pleased to see one of these automatic electric sinks in her kitchen on Christmas morning. For her, it truly would be a White Christmas.

They're Trouble-Free

Trouble-free operation is feature of modern gas refrigerators, which have no motors, compressor belts, valves or other moving parts to break down.

LOOK WHAT'S HAPPENED TO THE KITCHEN SINK! Happy is the homemaker who finds that her personal Santa Claus has presented her with a modern cabinet sink. One of the greatest conveniences of a cabinet sink is the automatic dishwasher that frees the wife (and very often the husband) from the drudgery of hand washing and drying an average of 3,795 dishes a month. It takes less than half the time to do dishes by machine, and the hotter water makes them more sanitary.

Changes Made

Meals are prepared in less than three hours a day, by today's homemakers in today's modern gas kitchen — compared to nine hours daily meal preparation time for yesteryear's homemakers.

Do Special Cooking

Twist Of A Dial

Adjustment of water temperature for personal use or for a variety of household chores is as simple as the twist of the dial on your automatic gas water heater.

Dream Washer May Clear Table

One dream kitchen of the future has a motorized dishwasher which runs right across the room to the dining room table for ease in loading dirty dishes.

Machines like this aren't available yet, but you may want to consider using a wheeled serving cart to bring dishes from the table to the dishwasher. The cart is useful in putting clean dishes away, too, as well as for dozens of other kitchen jobs.

Smooths Clothes

New Broiler Keeps Barbecue Flavor

This Christmas outdoor chefs and Sunday food specialists can turn out delicious flame-kissed steaks, chops and burgers right in the comfort of their own kitchen or family room.

The prototype of this new gas-fired broiler is found in many of the country's better steak houses and restaurants, the American Gas Association points out.

Restaurant chefs were the first to doubt the theory that charcoal imparted a distinctive taste to foods. They reasoned that if this were true, then all meat should taste the same.

Actually, flavor is obtained by using the intense heat to melt the fats of the meat quickly. This process creates flame that seals the meat. Flavor is enhanced as the flame subsides and the drop-lets of fat fall slowly into the coals, creating a smoke that imparts the delicious flavor of the meat cooking.

The new gas-barbecue-broiler is sturdily built and designed for clean effortless operation. The counter-type model is thoroughly insulated and has received the American Gas Association Laboratories Seal of Approval.

How Big?

Today's Kitchen Likely To Be Gleaming Showplace

Contrasts With Gloomy Drudgery Of Yesteryear

Hidden away in the back of the house, the old-fashioned kitchen was a gloomy place of drudgery for most women. By contrast, today's kitchen is likely to be a showplace. Batteries of gleaming appliances make it one of the most attractive and exciting rooms in the house, and have done almost as much to emancipate women as the right to vote.

Of course, the "good old days" boasted their appliances too. Powered by elbow grease, they were crude and heavy affairs, often hammered out by the local blacksmith. It was almost as much effort to use them as to get along without them.

Today's lightweight, high-speed appliances owe their existence both to the wonder of electricity and to a machine most people have never heard of, much less seen—the continuous sheet mill. Developed by the American steel industry during the 1920's, the continuous sheet mill spews out a ribbon of steel faster than a mile a minute. And much of this ribbon will end up in the kitchens of America in the form of appliances.

Triumph Of Economics

Before this mill was developed, sheet steel production was a slow, expensive process. Available only in limited lengths and widths, the sheets were hard to fabricate. Smooth curves and rounded corners were virtually impossible, as corners had to be riveted or welded. Substitute materials like wood were too bulky, and just not rugged enough to stand up to high speed manufacture and a lifetime of trouble-free operation. It's no exaggeration to say that modern appliances would be virtually impossible without the continuous sheet mill.

It that seems a little extreme, consider this: Modern appliances are as much a triumph of economics as of mechanics. Remember when they called the automobile "a rich man's toy?" It was the same situation.

To surprise her or not?

That's the question if you're planning on making it a White Christmas for your wife by giving her an electric home freezer.

There are good arguments on both sides of the question — and if you're one of those individuals who thinks that surprise is a vital ingredient of any gift, then don't read any further.

But if you're undecided about whether to surprise your wife on Christmas morning with an electric freezer, you might want to consider the following points.

First, while a freezer will give her pleasure 365 days in each year, it's likely to be of special value to her in the days just before Christmas. That's particularly true if she's going to be entertaining during the holiday season — and what woman isn't planning on having guests in during this festive season.

Freezer Frees Her

An electric freezer will allow her to prepare whole meals as well as party snacks well in advance. Then her time just before Christmas can be devoted to those really last-minute preparations—trimming the tree, decorating the house, and last-minute cleaning.

With the children home from school she's likely to find it extremely convenient to freeze their luncheon sandwiches and between-meal snacks in advance. Then she won't have to interrupt her other activities to prepare these meals for the youngsters.

And if your wife is planning on having the family in for Christmas dinner she couldn't ask for a better servant to lighten he work than a home freezer. A whole host of holiday dishes can be prepared in advance and then frozen, to be taken out of the freezer only minutes before the meal is to be put on the table. At a moment like this the lady of the house is particularly disposed to bless her new freezer and the man who gave it to her.

There's one other equally practical reason for eliminating the surprise lement in the gift of a freezer. You may never have thought of it in these terms but an electric freezer is a "personal" gift for a woman. Personal because the freezer is such a versatile product that each woman is likely to decide that it has a particular value for her.

Consult Your Wife

Here's an example. One obvious use of a freezer is to freeze fresh crops in season. If your wife is likely to want to do this you'll have to take it into consideration in selecting the proper size unit.

Or consider the matter of convenience. Today's glamorous electric freezers are a far cry from those first boxy, utilitarian units. Today your wife can pick between a chest type or an upright. She can choose the particular arrangement of shelves and baskets which best suits her requirements.

Then, too, your wife is very likely to have definite plans about her kitchen. She may have a new color scheme or a new arrangement of appliances in the back of her mind. If so, she'll obviously want to make her new electric freezer conform to her new plans and make it the first step in modernizing the kitchen.

So you see there are definite advantages to letting your wife in on the secret if you're planning a freezer for her White Christmas.

And even though she has helped pick out the unit she wants and has been using it for a whole week before Christmas you can make it something special on Christmas morning by having hidden a gift-wrapped delicacy for her in the new electric freezer. It might be a special seafood, or a frozen gourmet meal or something for her sweet tooth. Whatever it is, it's a good way of putting the surprise back in the freezer gift.

Supermarket In Home

Finally, remember that the initial surprise of receiving a freezer is only the first of many surprises a modern freezer will provide. Day after day the lucky lady is likely to find new delights and new advantages in having a supermarket in her own home. Each time she saves a step — or a penny — she's likely to be surprised and delighted anew with her freezer.

JUST LIKE A SUPERMARKET IN HER HOME: Modern electric freezers give today's homemaker undreamed of convenience and flexibility in meal preparation. Among the freezer's advantages are fewer shopping trips, and the opportunity to prepare dishes — and even whole meals—days or weeks in advance. In addition there are real savings opportunities when you buy seasonally-plentiful lower-cost foods and in large quantity purchases.

Good Supply Of Hot Water Essential In Home

How about giving your wife plenty of hot water for Christmas! Today's homemaker likes to be in hot water.

As a matter of fact, lack of an adequate supply of hot water spells nothing but trouble for the modern housewife.

That's because more and more appliances depend on a good supply of hot water to produce their full labor-saving potential. Consider the automatic diswasher which requires water of 160 to 180 degrees to deliver all the benefits it can provide.

Water that hot is needed not only to get food soil off the dishes but to kill any bacteria or germs which may be present on the dishes.

To provide an adequate and ever-ready supply of water as hot as this you can choose between a wide variety of modern electric water heaters.

Wives Are Experts In Kitchen Designing

Interested in meeting the best kitchen planning expert you can find? Then shake hands with your wife.

That's the truth. Chances are that she's not a designer, or an architect, or a remodeling expert. But she has one big advantage over all of these experts when it comes to designing her own kitchen—she lives in it.

This doesn't qualify her to overrule your architect when he tells you that a certain wall can't be moved. Nor does it endow her with more knowledge of the workings of today's appliances than the dealer.

But just being herself, enables her to plan in general terms the kind of kitchen she wants. If, for example, your family is always underfoot at meal time, be sure your kitchen specialist knows this so that he can design adjacent areas in which Dad and the children can be right at hand—but still out of the way — while she's cooking.

If you can't abide the thought of eating in the kitchen, its silly to let a designer draw a dining area in his remodeling plans.

All of this may be news to you but the kitchen remodeler is already well aware that you and your wife are the best single source of information he has when redesigning your kitchen.

And yet, you can become an even "better" expert on your kitchen if you'll try. All you and your wife have to do is to keep an informal record of what you personally like and dislike about various kitchens you see. Clip ideas from magazines, visit model homes and kitchen showrooms. And above all make a real effort to become aware of your habits and your eccentricities when you're working in your own kitchen.

Once you've done this the next step is to realize your own limitations—and to call on experts for help. That's where your local kitchen dealer enters the picture. His training will allow him to size up your home, study your preferences, and come up with a practical plan which incorporates as many of your wishes as possible.

Thanks to modern materials and modern appliances this plan is likely to correspond closely to your desires. Here's an example. Every woman wants additional storage space in her dream kitchen. Now, thanks to the versatile design of modern steel kitchens, milady's every desire for storage space can be satisfied.

Equally as important as the kitchen's appearance is its utility. The modern housewife wants a kitchen which can be kept clean with a minimum of effort. Here, too, modern steel cabinets have been especially designed to satisfy the most demanding of housekeepers.

Your dealer is the ultimate expert in recommending the cabinets and appliances which will best fill your requirements. But you're missing a big share of the fun in planning for a new kitchen if you and your wife don't keep posted on the equipment which is available.

EVEN THE MOST GLAMOUROUS KITCHEN requires a woman's touch, and the touch that your White Christmas kitchen must have, is the touch of your wife herself. She has one big advantage over all the professional experts. She knows her own family's needs. Obviously she can't replace the architect or the kitchen specialist, but only she can tell them of her basic requirements. They can then proceed from her plan, to provide glamor, convenience and efficiency in just the proportion she wants.

Magic Flame Produces Refrigeration

The magic of producing frost from a flame is something millions of homeowners take for granted. These are the families who enjoy, modern, fully automatic gas refrigerators.

The dependability, economy and efficiency of gas makes it the ideal fuel for safe, convenient storage of food. Because there are no moving parts, no on-off cycling, gas refrigerators are constantly silent and interior temperatures remain the same 24-hours a day.

One of the features homemakers like best, says the American Gas Association, is the automatic ice maker which makes semi-circular disks of ice automatically, deposits them in a handy storage bin, then fills itself with water and freezes a new supply. This process is repeated until an automatic control indicates that the ice bin is filled.

Best of all there are never any trays to fill or spill. You have all the ice crescents you need—automatically.

Major Players Plan 'Action' If TV Demand Not Met

Baseballers Seek Part Of Video Money

"Drastic" Move Seen If Owners Refuse; Meeting Next Month

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The major league baseball players are considering the possibility of taking "drastic action" should the owners reject their demand to be cut in on the regular season television and radio money of the 16 clubs.

League representatives Robin Roberts and Eddie Yost have been authorized by the other 14 team representatives to ask the owners at their Washington, D.C. meeting next month for a quick reply to their demand of 25 per cent of the TV and radio money.

"We feel we are entitled to a portion of the money the clubs have been getting from the telecasting of our regular league games," a player representative told The Associated Press Wednesday. "We thrashed the matter over thoroughly at our last meeting and we even discussed the possibility of taking drastic action should the owners turn us down."

Declines To Tell Plan

The player, who asked not to be identified, declined to say what these "drastic actions" would be. He insisted, however, the players meant business and declared the represenatives would meet Dec. 1 in Washington to decide on a course of action should they be rebuffed by the owners.

"We don't want to draw any conclusions until we know the owners' reaction," he said. "But it wouldn't be any sense in asking for something if we didn't plan to do anything about it. We'd look ridiculous then."

The players in October requested a cut of the TV and radio receipts of regular season games but because of the excitement of the World Series little publicity was given to it.

Roberts, contacted by telephone, said he anticipated no difficulty with the owners and was confident something would be worked out. He added, however, that no decision has been reached as to what steps will be taken in case of rejection.

"The clubowners' gross income, because of television, has gone up tremendously during the past several years," said the Philadelphia Phillies' star pitcher. "Baseball salaries have gone up, too, during this time, but not nearly in ratio with the clubs' earnings. Baseball salaries have fared poorly in proportion to salary increases in other professions, too.

Should Be Distributed

"If there is that much money available as we have reason to believe, then certainly some of it should be distributed among the players. Television is becoming more and more important. Who knows how big it will get. I don't believe the players have benefitted as much as they should have from it. It's time we were."

The players' attorney, J. Norman Lewis, had a firm of accountants set up a revealing list of the incomes of each major league club and the salaries paid out to the players in the years from 1950 through 1956. This report was distributed to every major leaguer.

It shows that the 16 major league clubs had a gross income of $32,035,481 in 1950 and $42,836,327 six years later. Salaries paid to the players came to $5,291,850 in 1950 and $5,521,515 in 1956.

The report says the owners received $10,800,846 more in '56 than in '50 but the players gained only $229,665 of that increase in improved pay.

Colts Retain OffenseLead

Los Angeles Rams Second In Yardage

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Western Division - leading Baltimore Colts continue to top all National Football League teams in total offense, according to NFL statistics released Wednesday.

The Colts have amassed 1,492 yards through rushing and 1,615 on passing for a total of 3,107. The Los Angeles Rams are second with 3,045, having gained 199 yards more than the Colts did in their games last weekend.

The Cleveland Browns, Eastern Division leaders, have gained the most rushing, 1,861 yards, with Baltimore second.

The Philadelphia Eagles, who share last place in the Eastern Division with the Chicago Cardinals, lead the NFL in passing yardage, 1,880.

Baltimore and Los Angeles are running one-two in scoring with 272 and 253 points respectively.

Washington has the best punting average, 45.1 yards for each of 31 kicks. The New York Giants are second at 44.3.

Baltimore has permitted its opponents to complete only 41.3 per cent of their passes. Los Angeles has allowed 46.2.

Syracuse's Best Record At Stake

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — The best record in Syracuse football history will be at stake for the powerful Orangemen when they take on West Virginia in Morgantown this Saturday.

Possessors of a 7-1 record blemished only by a one-point loss to Holy Cross, the Orange can match their greatest won-lost record, 8-1, posted in 1923. That team's lone defeat came by nine points to Colgate.

Although every meeting has been decided by a touchdown since the series was resumed in 1955, this game "on paper" may not be so close. Syracuse has tromped such opponents as Nebraska (conqueror of Pitt and Penn State), 38-0; Boston U. (winner over West Virginia), 42-0, Cornell, 55-0, and Colgate 47-0.

The Mountaineers bounced back from two straight lickings by Syracuse with a 7-0 victory last season in the Stadium and are hoping for a repeat of history.

Maryland Has Final Hard Grid Scrimmage

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland's football team, prepping for Saturday's Atlantic Coast Conference game with Virginia, held its last hard practice of the week—and the season—Wednesday.

One hour of the scrimmage was spent on pass defense and 30 minutes on offense. Bob Rusevlyan and Bob Scarbath did the throwing and sophomore end Ed Becker made some sensational catches.

"We're in top physical condition and hope we can stop the great Virginia team," said Coach Tommy Mont. He called the Cavaliers "a very dangerous football team."

The High School and Men's Rec League will organize tonight for the coming basketball season, C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, said last night.

The High School circuit will meet at 7 p.m. at City Hall while the Men's League representatives will gather at 8 o'clock, also at City Hall.

Mason announced it is important that all team representatives attend these meetings as the number of teams in each circuit will be limited this year.

Last season Hafer's won the Men's title in a league composed of 14 teams. Centre Street was the High School victor in a 15-team loop.

Rose Threatens To Expose Other Aussie Netmen

Southpaw Is Advised Suspension To Stand

MELBOURNE (UPI)—Southpaw Mervyn Rose exploded Wednesday when advised his tennis suspension won't be lifted until Jan. 31, and threatened to wreck Australia's Davis Cup team by doing some "straight talking" about the expenses of other players.

"I have plenty of dope on our Davis Cup players," said Rose, who was suspended three months ago in a dispute over his expenses on a foreign tour this year. "I hate making threats, but I've probably been soft too long".

Rose hit the ceiling when he received a letter from the Lawn Tennis Assn. of Australia that he must stay sidelined at least until Jan.1, thus missing not only the Davis Cup matches in late December but many major Australian tournaments.

"I don't see why I should be made the bunny," said the star left-hander who has been a frequent resident of the official tennis doghouse here.

"There were 28 Australian players overseas this year, and if I'm guilty some others are, too", Rose said.

Rose warned that if he starts talking "there will be a few blushing faces among the amateurs in the new South Wales championships next week".

The lanky Rose, who is rated as one of the best doubles players in the world, insisted that the LTAA "has nothing on me." He said he received 1,300 pounds ($2,912) in expenses during his 23-week foreign tour and that all of it had been spent on air fares.

"The LTAA reckons I am cheating about some European tournaments," he said. "But all I got was my 1,300 pounds back. I have been told they will let me go away next year, provided I do not visit South America, Italy, or Germany. That would ruin the tour."

Rose is scheduled to meet Thursday with Donald Ferguson, president of the LTAA and hopes to "thrash it all out" then.

City Cage Loop Plans For Season

Four teams were represented at the first organizational meeting of the City Basketball League last night at City Hall, but C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, stated that three other teams have expressed interest in joining the loop for the coming cage season.

Team representatives last night discussed the organizational setup of the circuit, went over some changes in rules and the league program, and considered increasing the entry fees of all teams to help pay officials of the games.

Attending the meeting last night with Mason were Dave Ritter of the 40&8 Club, Colin and Keith Detrick of Chaney's Transportation, Herman Lewis of the Loyal Order of Moose Club, and Galen McGregor and Ronnie Twigg for Carolan's Tavern.

Other teams interested in berths in the league are Old Germans, Old Exports and Knights of Columbus.

Another meeting will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

Dawkins Takes Scoring Lead

Army Back Tallies 74 Points For Cadets

NEW YORK (AP) — Army's Pete Dawkins has regained the top-scoring role in major college football circles but it may not be for very long.

The versatile Army halfback racked up three touchdowns against Villanova last Saturday to boost his point-scoring total to 74, according to figures compiled Wednesday by the NCAA Service Bureau. Dawkins has scored 12 touchdowns and made two extra points.

The bureau, however, notes that Dawkins will be idle this week while the next six highest scorers, all within 10 points of the Army captain, will be active Saturday.

Dawkins moved past Bill Austin of Rutgers who had been sidelined with a hand injury. Austin has 72 points. Bob White of Ohio State advanced to third place with 66 points on his three-touchdown burst against Iowa. Cal Bird of Kentucky is fourth with 65 followed by Dick Bass, College of Pacific and Ron Burton, Northwestern, and Bob Simms, Rutgers, 64 each; and Bob Jarus, Purdue, Howard Cook, Colorado, and Frank Finney, Brown, 60 each.

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Mary Ann Slazinik, a slender, blue-eyed blonde from Pine Bush, N. Y., was crowned National Roller Skate Queen Wednesday.

The 18-year-old Miss Slazinik, a student at Orange County Community College, said she would use the first prize—a $2,500 scholarship—to enroll at Cornell Medical College. Her skating style, personality and 34-22-34 measurements caught the eye of the judges selecting the queen from among some 35 contestants.

Second prize went to Miss Texas, Linda Strawn, 18, a freshman at the University of Houston. Miss Delaware, Audrey Marie Payton, 20-year-old legal secretary from Newcastle, Del., placed third.

Snead And Hogan Favored To Capture Canada Cup

32 Nations To Vie In Golf Tourney

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, teaming up in an effort to restore United States international golf prestige, were watching each other as well as rivals from 32 nations Wednesday night on the eve of the International Trophy and Canada Cup championships.

Snead and Hogan tee off at noon Thursday in the first of four daily 18-hole rounds which will decide this "world series" of golf in which the Canada Cup goes to the team with the low two-man total for 72 holes.

But, while they were favored at 4 to 1, each also had his eye on the International Trophy, which goes to the low individual. And these old rivals were unusually tense and tight as they prepared for a head-and-head battle in this department.

Snead was terse and uncommunicative, a distinct change in his personality, and Hogan, too, had that old-time look in his eye. Because, in addition to their personal battle, they shouldered a heavy load in attempting to win back the cup which Japan took last year from Snead and Jimmy Demaret.

Both Playing Well

"We are both playing well," Hogan said, although - as were the majority of the players—was suffering from dysentary, a chronic early condition among visitors to Mexico.

"We won it before in England in 1956," Hogan said, "but golf around the world seems to be improving all the time."

Hogan won individual honors at Wentworth, England, in 1956 when he and Snead paired to take the team championship. But America's fairway fortunes have fallen to an all-time low during the last year with the Japanese winning this tournament, the British taking the professional Ryder Cup, and Australia winning the brand new Eisenhower World Amateur title.

Pete Nakamura, the defending individual champion, and his winning team mate, Koichi Ono, were on hand but Nakamura, repeating his lines of last year, held modestly that "Snead and Hogan hit the ball too far for us."

U. S. Team Favored

Yet, while the U. S. team was favored, there was much support for the British Ryder Cuppers, who last year bested the Americans for the first time in 24 years. Virtually the entire team is represented on the British delegation which play as separate units from England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. The South African team of Gary Player and Harold Henning also ranked among favorites over the 7,612-yard, par-72 Club de Golf course.

Almost daily rains have made the course soft. Cloudy weather was forecast for Thursday. Al Balding, who teams with Henry Martell, the Canadian PGA champion, said that this would raise the scores, even though due to the lighter atmosphere in this mile and one-half high city, the pros are able to hit the ball anywhere from 30 to 60 yards longer than usual.

Spider Webb Upsets Giardello With TKO In 7th

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Underdog Spider Webb slashed deep cuts under and over Joey Giardello's left eye Wednesday night to win by a seventh-round technical knockout in the nationally televised battle between the two ranking middleweights.

Webb, 158¾, from Chicago, took command almost at the start jabbing Giardello's back and moving in to score with short, sharp rights.

Giardello, 159, of Rosedale, N.Y., had blood pouring down his face when Referee Vern Bybee called a halt after one minute and 30 seconds of the seventh round in their Cow Palace fight scheduled for 10.

Webb, the No. 4 ranking challenger for Sugar Ray Robinson's title, opened a cut under the left eye of the third-ranked Giardello in the fourth round and slashed a deep gash over the same eye in the sixth.

With Giardello's face and body virtually covered with blood, Bybee called a halt for Dr. Don Lastretto to examine the cut.

The physician allowed the fight to continue and Giardello's seconds worked feverishly between rounds but could not close the wound.

Scoring Duel Between Irish And Iowa Seen

Teams Rank Fourth, Fifth On Offense

CHICAGO (UPI)—College football's TV fans probably will see one of the greatest offensive games of the season Saturday when Iowa tangles with Notre Dame.

And they'll see most of the action if they follow Iowa's No. 25, quarterback Randy Duncan, and Notre Dame's No. 3, George Izo, also the quarterback.

Duncan, the nation's second best passer with 1,163 yards gained through the air, and also second in total offense with total gains of 1,182 yards, was the major factor in making Iowa the national leader in total offense.

The Hawkeyes have averaged 399.6 yards per game, and rank fifth in both rushing, with 240.9 yards per game, and in passing with 158.8 yards per game.

But to counter - balance this, Notre Dame has a crackerjack record of its own on offense and ranks fourth in total offense with 370.5 yards per game and sixth in passing offense with 157 yards per game.

The Irish might rank higher in both categories, and Izo might have been one of the leaders personally too, except that he became a regular only after the fourth game of the season.

Mass Production And Credit Make White Christmas

Borrowing To Buy Now Pleasant, Practical

By OTTO LORENZ
Associate Editor,
The American Banker

A recent national survey of 100 leading bankers undertaken by the AMERICAN BANKER revealed the faith these responsible men of business have in their borrowers. One hundred per cent of them said they are ready and willing to help good customers during periods of uncertainty such as reduced income, temporary layoff and unemployment.

Here are some typical comments gathered from bankers around the United States:

From Detroit, where layoffs and unemployment were probably more frequent than anywhere else, one of the nation's leading bankers says: "We naturally are sympathetic to cooperative borrowers, particularly if delinquency is caused by unemployment. We have been through prolonged periods of unemployment in the past, and while delinquency has risen sharply during those periods, losses were kept to a minimum as we nursed our good borrowers over the bad spots."

Borrowers Considered

A well-known banker in Kalamazoo, Michigan states: "We will extend every consideration to those borrowers who have had a reasonably good record. We'll refinance the loan, extend it or, if necessary, even charge it off and allow the customer to pay as he can . . ."

The same consideration extends to Texas where the consensus of opinions from bankers was that they weathered recessions, strikes, and even a depression and had always met their customers as individuals and handled each loan with patience and understanding. Throughout the Southwest and over to the Pacific coast, the same thought prevailed. The bankers would continue their long-standing policy of fair consideration to borrowers.

From Nashua, New Hampshire, came this welcome comment: "This bank is very much aware of the fact that if a man has trouble, he is still the same man of whom we thought of pretty highly when we made him the loan."

Down in Florida, bankers believe that a liberal extension and renewal policy, properly applied, will reduce losses and create good-will among deserving customers. "Tough tactics," says an Orlando financier, "are a poor substitute for intelligent collection policies . . ."

Yule Loans Feasible

And similar, heartening voices were heard clear through the farming areas of the country and across the northwestern states as well.

There is no reason to let lack of cash and fear of the future stop or delay you from buying that appliance you have in mind. Go see your banker. It will be worth it.

Learning To Use Freezer To Full Advantage, Easy

Learning how to use your new freezer is no problem. The basic "textbook" is the instruction book which was packed with the freezer. It contains hints on use and care as well as instructions for packaging food, data on storage life, and an assortment of tested recipes.

Most modern cookbooks also contain sections on home freezing. The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture and your own state college of agriculture have bulletins available on the subject.

Finally, the home service staff of your local utility will be glad to make suggestions and answer questions.

THE WHOLE FAMILY makes itself at home in today's attractive, well organized gas kitchens. With versatile utility the keynote, the kitchen is part of the family living area, as well as the center of Mom's homemaking projects. And efficient gas appliances, from ranges to water heaters, are handsomely designed to make themselves at home with any kitchen decor.

Stays Beautiful

She'll find it easy to keep her gift of an automatic gas range as beautiful as the day you gave it to her. A quick onceover with plain soap and water removes most stains. Racks, burners and broilers may be removed and washed with ease.

Plays Santa

Liquefied petroleum (LP) gas in bottle, cylinder or tank plays Santa Claus to farm and suburban homes all over the country, by bringing the advantages of gas to those living beyond city gas mains.

Look For AGA Seal

When Christmas shopping for gas appliances, make sure your choices are marked by a blue star in a white circle, the approval seal of the American Gas Association. It shows the appliance has been tested and approved for safety, durability and performance.

Tiny Blue Flame--Gas--Spells Comfort

A tiny blue flame, as old as the earth itself, will impart a warm glow this Christmas in millions of homes across the nation.

The turkey roasting in your oven with its tantalizing aroma, will be cooked to perfection — golden brown, tender and juicy. Your home will be comfortably warm, your food safely preserved, your laundry quickly done thanks to this tiny blue flame.

All you did was turn on the gas and your silent servant sprang into action. But you were also setting in motion a cycle of events that rang a bell 'way back in Texas—or deep in the swamps, high in the mountains, under the sea and across the plains, where thousands of rugged men maintain a steady search for natural gas.

Pipeline Network

Thousands more of these modern-day pioneers are extending the pipelines that carry natural gas into 28 million American homes, using over 100 million gas appliances. Natural gas is whisked across the country by its own multi-million dollar pipeline transportation system covering some 548,820 miles. This is enough to circle the earth 22 times.

At various points along the pipeline, carefully trained men operate stations that wash undesirable ingredients, like sulphur, from the gas. Still others scour the pipe to clear it of clogging residues. Many technicians are employed at pipeline laboratories sampling the gas for heat values and chemical content.

And that isn't all. According to the American Gas Association, there are 200 underground storage facilities in the U. S. where gas can be kept in summer to take care of winter needs. Because these facilities once were gas wells, they provide ideal geological conditions for the storage of gas under pressure.

Round the Clock Job

Another big round-the-clock job in providing nationwide natural gas service is the task of the numerous compressor stations which are so spaced across the country that they can push the gas along through thousands of miles of pipe at the proper pressure.

At the city gates, your local gas company takes over. A so-called "town border station" reduces the pipeline pressure of the gas to the much lower degree you'll require in your home.

And finally, the utility mains empty into building-by-building feed-lines, which run the fuel straight through your meter and into your gas range, water heater, clothes dryer, refrigerator, incinerator, or central heating-cooling system.

Vanishing Americans

According to figures compiled by the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, the household servant is the vanishing American. In 1930 there were well over 400,000 domestics employed. Twenty years later there were fewer than 150,000. Fortunately American women have wonderful new appliances to replace the ever dwindling supply of household help.

Grimsley Picks Iowa, Tulane In Big Games

Sees LSU Tigers Losing First Tilt

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Culprits guilty of crimes sometimes find sanctuary below the border. Our only crime—murdering the weekly football selections—but we're taking no chances of a necktie party thrown by chagrined alumni.

So from a sheltered hacienda—

Iowa 27, Notre Dame 14: Willie Fleming and Randy Duncan outscore bullet-passer George Izo.

Tulane 18, Louisiana State 15: This is a grudge fight and Tulane is primed for the year's major surprise.

Princeton 21, Dartmouth 14: The Ivy League blue plate special, with the Tigers stronger at home.

Rice 24, Texas Christian 14: Rice looks like a good Mexican dish this week, seasoned with hot peppers.

Southern California 19, UCLA 7: An old rivalry on the coast. The Trojans have come very fast.

Duke 20, North Carolina 14: We fear the Tar Heels left too much on the field against Notre Dame.

Syracuse 27, West Virginia 20: Chuck Zimmerman leads the Orangemen to another victory, but the Mountaineers are tough.

Auburn 14, Wake Forest 7: It's No. 23 without defeat for the rugged Plainsmen.

Miss Romack Will Turn Pro

To Play In Tourney Golf Next January

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Barbara Romack, blonde venus of the nation's women amateur golfers, announced Wednesday that she is turning professional and will go on the tournament circuit next January.

"I no longer can afford to participate in golfing events as an amateur," Miss Romack told a press conference.

She added that she has flown to most of her tournaments and devoted so much time to perfecting her game that she might as well play for money.

Miss Romack won the Womens National Amateur title in 1954 and the Canadian Amateur a year earlier. She also has captured such golf tournaments as the Womens North and South title in 1952 and was runnerup in the National Amateur this year and in the British Amateur in 1955.

The 26-year-old Sacramento star also has been a member of the U.S. Curtis Cup team three different times and won the California State Amateur on four occasions.

JAMAICA, N.Y., Nov. 19 (AP)—Roy R. Hunt's Hoosier Honey, a forward factor most of the way, proved best in the stretch drive to win the $28,650 Firenze Handicap for fillies and mares at Jamaica race track today.

The 4-year-old daughter of High Bandit - Kentmere Miss won a three horse photo from Foxcatcher Farms' Lopar and Harold H. Polk's Mlle. Dianne, who finished a neck and a neck back of the winner. The time for the mile and a sixteenth was a lacklustre 1:45 2/5.

Holy Cross Drops Pitt From Grid Schedule In 1959

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Villanova and Columbia replace Pittsburgh in the expanded 1959 Holy Cross football schedule announced Wednesday.

The Crusaders will play 10 games for the first time in four seasons by adding the independent and Ivy League elevens to next fall's slate. The added games mark the first meetings with both since 1947.

The 1959 schedule also juggles several opponents, moving Dartmouth into the opening game spot held by Pittsburgh.

The schedule:

Sept. 26, at Dartmouth; Oct. 3, Villanova; Oct. 10, Dayton; Oct. 17, at Syracuse; Oct. 24, at Columbia; Oct. 31, Colgate; Nov. 7, at Boston University; Nov. 14, at Penn State; Nov. 21, at Marquette; Nov. 28, Boston College.

Horse Trainer Barred For Use Of Bad Language

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trainer George W. Bishop has been barred from racing any horses owned by himself or his wife in Maryland for at least 24 days for using "abusive language" to two officials of Pimlico.

Joseph F. Flanagan, steward representing the Maryland Racing Commission, said he had suspended Bishop for the remainder of Pimlico's meeting which ends Dec. 13.

Flanagan said he had recommended the commission extend the suspension to Jan. 1. Such suspensions by one state are recognized by all others belonging to the Thoroughbred Racing Assn.

Flanagan said Bishop had abused Louis Pondfield, executive director and general manager, and Charles McLennan, secretary, of Pimlico.

Bishop tried to enter a horse named Stiletto in this afternoon's seventh race with Claude Feltner listed as the trainer. The stewards ordered him scratched because he is owned by Mrs. Bishop.

Army-Navy Tilt Is Again Sellout

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Army-Navy football game is once again a sellout.

Capt. Slade Cutter, director of athletics for the Naval Academy, said Wednesday that the 98,593 tickets available were oversubscribed and some applications had to be cut.

Navy is host team this year for the game to be played Nov. 29 in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

Toque Victor At Pimlico

Snaps String Of Winning Favorites

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP) — After the first six races had gone to favorites, Nick Shuk, aboard Toque, coasted to victory in the seventh at Pimlico today to give Shuk his third winner of the afternoon.

Toque, which paid $8.40, $4.20 and $2.60, breezed in a length and a half ahead of Agah Alibhai in the mile run on the turf. Agha Alibhai returned $4.80 and $3.00. The favorite, Countermand, paid $2.40.

Countermand went off a 2-to-1 favorite off his defeat of Toque at seven furlongs last week.

Toque, son of Ardan and Bonnet Ann, was not as alert as usual leaving the gate and Shuk reserved the six-year-old's burst of speed for the final three furlongs. He took the lead on the last turn and was still full of run after rushing out the mile in 1:40 2/5.

A return of bright weather and a fast track found 10,598 fans enjoying formful racing until Toque snapped the string of winning favorites.

Bears Claim Rudy Bukich

Redskins May Try To Deal Quarterback

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Chicago Bears claimed quarterback Rudy Bukich Wednesday a few hours after the passer was put on waivers by the Washington Redskins, but the Bears may never get him.

Coach Joe Kuharich said he would talk to the Bears "in hopes of working out a deal." If none can be consummated, Kuharich said the waivers would be recalled.

Bukich, who has been the Redskins' number three quarterback behind Eddie LeBaron and Ralph Guglielmi, was openly miffed about Kuharich's decision to release him.

"It's the money, not my ability," he declared.

Bukich said he was earning a fairly high salary and the Redskins apparently did not want to carry him on the payroll with the Tribe just about out of title contention.

Redskins' President George Preston Marshall was in New York and not available for comment. But Kuharich flatly denied the club merely wanted to save on Bukich's salary for the rest of the season.

"This isn't any special case," Joe declared. "It's routine to ask for waivers on players who may be of great value to other clubs, but who may not fit into your own immediate or future plans. The boy has a perfect right to say whatever he thinks, and I'm just sorry he feels the way he does."

Al Abrams Heads Baseball Writers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, was elected chairman of the Pittsburgh chapter of the baseball writers Tuesday night at an annual dinner meeting.

Joe Bradis of the Associated Press was named vice chairman and will succeed Abrams in 1960.

Fred Landucci of the Pittsburgh Press and Rudy Cernkovic of the United Press International were retained as treasurer and secretary respectively.

Wheeling and Davis & Elkins will clash in the second game of the night doubleheader at the Magnolia High School gym on November 28. The winners will meet in the finals the following night following a consolation battle between the losers.

Starting time for the first game each evening will be 7 o'clock.

Thanksgiving Turkey Bones Bad For Dog

While it is the custom for Americans to enjoy the traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner with turkey and all the trimmings, the dog should not be used as an animated garbage can for the leftovers, advises the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York.

It is especially important not to give the dog any bones that will splinter and cause him a great deal of trouble. Chief offenders of this type are turkey and other poultry bones. However, sharp bones from chops, ribs and steaks can cause just as much misery to the dog, and should equally be avoided.

If you want the dog to have a special holiday treat, feed him his regular diet with table scraps such as turkey meat, giblets or gravy mixed in. Spicy foods, sweets and uncooked starchy foods are taboo.

White Named Back Of Week

Buckeyes Fullback Praises Teammates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Praise makes Ohio State's bruising fullback Bob White a little tongue-tied.

So the big, red-haired terror of the gridiron was downright speechless Wednesday when he learned he has been named Associated Press back of the week.

He finally blurted: "I can think of a couple of guys right on our own team who deserve it more than I do: Don Clark had his finest day of the season against Iowa and Jerry Fields took over at quarterback in a tough situation and did an amazing job."

Warming up to his subject as he recalled the Buckeyes' 38-28 upset victory over Big Ten champion Iowa last Saturday, White almost giggled as he went on:

"And that line! One time when I was going through on that last drive I almost stopped dead and wanted to laugh. I couldn't believe it. Every Iowa player had been knocked flat on his back!

White was talking about the touchdown drive which put Ohio ahead 35-28. He personally carried on 11 of 14 plays in the 61-yard march. It was almost a repeat of his 1957 feat against Iowa when he carried seven of eight times in the climactic drive when OSU trimmed the Hawks 17-13.

Modern-Day's Kitchen Sink Many Presents In One

Has Central, Varied Uses In Kitchen

Time was when people talked about "everything but the kitchen sink."

Nowadays, modern homemakers have learned that "everything" is likely to be in the kitchen sink—the modern cabinet sink, that is.

Modern materials and modern designs have made it possible to turn the once homely sink into an attractive, streamlined cabinet package which harmonizes with other appliances and performs a central role in efficient kitchen operation.

Gives Needed Space

There's almost always a shortage of storage space in the kitchen and the cabinet sink provides an eminently sensible solution to the problem of creating additional storage facilities. Its steel construction not only provides a strong, permanent storage area but also guarantees that maintenance and cleaning will take a minimum of time.

Metal construction does away with cracks or crevices which might collect dirt and the lasting exterior finish stands up well even after extreme usage.

For many women new sinks have a particular appeal because buying a new sink is the biggest single step one can take to update a kitchen. As a matter of fact, many kitchen remodelers recommend that any step by step remodeling plan should start with a new sink and surrounding cabinets.

From this foundation one can build on, adding additional special purpose cabinets and new appliances as time and budget permit. The standardized dimensions of steel sinks and cabinets make such a program particularly feasible.

Nor have designers stopped their development work by merely glamorizing the old-fashioned sink with an exterior of useful cabinet space.

New Functions Added

New designs are appearing on the market which add new functions to the sink. One firm has introduced a "servi-center" which includes automatically timed electric outlets for small appliance cookery, a dispenser to supply detergent and hand lotion, a light for the sink bowl, and a series of easy-to-clean tilt-out storage bins.

Well aware of the usefulness of cabinet sinks and that such new innovations are being made, it's little wonder that the modern housewife would be considerably more than pleased to see one of these automatic electric sinks in her kitchen on Christmas morning. For her, it truly would be a White Christmas.

They're Trouble-Free

Trouble-free operation is feature of modern gas refrigerators, which have no motors, compressor belts, valves or other moving parts to break down.

LOOK WHAT'S HAPPENED TO THE KITCHEN SINK! Happy is the homemaker who finds that her personal Santa Claus has presented her with a modern cabinet sink. One of the greatest conveniences of a cabinet sink is the automatic dishwasher that frees the wife (and very often the husband) from the drudgery of hand washing and drying an average of 3,795 dishes a month. It takes less than half the time to do dishes by machine, and the hotter water makes them more sanitary.

Changes Made

Meals are prepared in less than three hours a day, by today's homemakers in today's modern gas kitchen — compared to nine hours daily meal preparation time for yesteryear's homemakers.

Do Special Cooking

Twist Of A Dial

Adjustment of water temperature for personal use or for a variety of household chores is as simple as the twist of the dial on your automatic gas water heater.

Dream Washer May Clear Table

One dream kitchen of the future has a motorized dishwasher which runs right across the room to the dining room table for ease in loading dirty dishes.

Machines like this aren't available yet, but you may want to consider using a wheeled serving cart to bring dishes from the table to the dishwasher. The cart is useful in putting clean dishes away, too, as well as for dozens of other kitchen jobs.

Smooths Clothes

New Broiler Keeps Barbecue Flavor

This Christmas outdoor chefs and Sunday food specialists can turn out delicious flame-kissed steaks, chops and burgers right in the comfort of their own kitchen or family room.

The man of the house will be overjoyed with this new gas appliance for modern living—a gas-fired barbecue broiler. While eliminating the mess and bother of charcoal the new broiler retains the genuine barbecue flavor by heating ceramic "coals" with the blue flame of natural gas.

A special tilt-back grill controls flare-ups. The unit can easily be built into kitchen counters, located in the family room or built into a chimney as a companion piece to a built-in gas oven.

The prototype of this new gas-fired broiler is found in many of the country's better steak houses and restaurants, the American Gas Association points out.

Restaurant chefs were the first to doubt the theory that charcoal imparted a distinctive taste to foods. They reasoned that if this were true, then all meat should taste the same.

Actually, flavor is obtained by using the intense heat to melt the fats of the meat quickly. This process creates flame that seals the meat. Flavor is enhanced as the flame subsides and the drop-lets of fat fall slowly into the coals, creating a smoke that imparts the delicious flavor of the meat cooking.

The new gas-barbecue-broiler is sturdily built and designed for clean effortless operation. The counter-type model is thoroughly insulated and has received the American Gas Association Laboratories Seal of Approval.

How Big?

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Of the 56 million dollars already earned by "The Ten Commandments", C. B. De Mille tells me he doesn't get a penny. It goes into the De Mille trust fund for education and charity. "I get my wealth out of the way it's been welcomed," C.B. told me.

He had just that day received a cable from Vienna saying that the "Ten Commandments" premiere was attended by the chancellor of Austria, Julius Raab, and other dignitaries, and that it was sold out for weeks.

C. B. continues to amaze me. At 77 he is working on two motion picture ventures. "I call one 'Project X,' and this particular idea is being developed by John Garris," he said, "and the other is 'Project Y' which will come first. It's not based on any novel or play, but on a subject."

That's all I could wheedle out of him because he said he had to clear some rights, but he promised to tell me at a later date. I would be willing to bet at least a part of my salary that one of these is a religious subject.

Frank Sinatra's flu turned out to be the 48-hour virus instead of the 24-hour, and his doctor wouldn't let him go to work. However, the "Hole in the Head" company is ahead of schedule. Keenan Wynn, who had a 10-day guarantee, finished in two-and-a-half days. Carolyn Jones and her husband, Aaron Spelling, are also on the sick list, but Carolyn had ptomaine poisoning and was able to return to work.

They tell me that the teenagers flocked to meet Eddie Hodges, the little boy in "Music Man," who has a part with Frankie in "Hole in the Head." Another bit of news from this Florida location is that Eddie Robinson is again interested in art. He sent his wife, Jane, to New York to bid on some paintings, or at least to take a look at them. Jane, too, has become art conscious since she married Eddie.

Once a year Bveerly Hills permits some specific charity to raise funds. This year it was the California Old People's Home with Chief of Police Anderson and Lawrence McHugh, head of the Social Service, determining that this was worthy, and it certainly is.

I went to their dinner and met some of the fine doctors in charge of this home. The old people are taken in absolutely free. They range in age from 65 to 95. They get good food, good care, medical attention and companionship. What a wonderful thing for these people who have no relatives to look after them.

Dr. Earl Rivkin and Dick Lane were in charge of the entertainment and it was really a great night.

To lose two friends within 24 hours of each other is very sad. I have been thinking about John Hearst, his happy laugh, his gentleness, and the way he always telephoned me when he came to California. Once he brought his daughter, Debbie, to see me. He was so proud of her and said she was more beautiful than any girl on the screen.

Tyrone Power also was gentle and kind, and another man who would never hurt anyone. Both boys, so young, had much to live for.

Ex-Banker Charged With Embezzlement

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The government said Tuesday a former vice president of a Winchester bank has been charged with embezzling $21,046.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Clyde Pearson said 51-year-old Charles Edwin Rupp allegedly began embezzling from the Commercial and Savings Bank of Winchester about 1952. Pearson said the shortage developed in the note department. Rupp he said was collecting on notes and not remitting to the bank.

Rupp resigned in October as vice president.

It was recommended that his bond be set at $5,000. It is returnable at the March term of U.S. District Court in Harrisonburg.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	3♠	Double	Pass
3 NT.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: ♥ 8.

Carelessness in playing to the first trick frequently arises from a failure on the part of declarer to count his tricks. South of today's hand is now firmly convinced that time marches on, for the split second which he lost at trick one could not be regained, and resulted in the loss of a crucial hand.

The bidding will pass muster. South passed, and West had a reasonable vulnerable pre-empt.

Tho he held only mild support for the other major, North's takeout double is proper because the hand is too good to abandon the fight in spite of his partner's previous pass. South had ample values for his three no trump bid.

The 8of hearts was opened and South, with the idea of building up a second heart trick in a hurry, played low from dummy.

This was his undoing. East won with the king and returned the 7 of spades. Declarer covered with the jack; West won with the queen and cleared the suit by playing the ace and another spade, conceding one trick to declarer.

In the forlorn hope that East held the king of clubs, declarer later in the play took the club finesse for his ninth trick, but failed.

It should have been clear to South that he could not afford to lose a trick early in the play, that is, before the club suit was established.

The second heart trick was of little consequence, for declarer had nine tricks as soon as the club king was dislodged.

He should have lost no time going up with the ace of hearts. Then comes the club finesse. Tho it loses to West the defense can do no better than take four tricks.

OFFERS HOME TO FRENCH

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —Dame Mabel Brookes, Australian socialite, said Wednesday she will present to the French government the house in which Napoleon lived while in exile on the Island of St. Helena. She said she bought the house, known as "The Pavilion," and the adjacent house, "The Briars," where her grandfather lived when she learned they were to be demolished.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Grisly, But Good

"Conquest," that splendid CBS-TV science program, has fortunately survived its first year, which in all programs of this kind is the risky inverval, and is safely embarked now on its second year. The first of these programs last Sunday grappled with new discoveries in the human brain and was the most interesting and sophisticated of any "Conquest" program I have seen.

I use the word "sophisticated" gingerly. I mean simply that the techniques of discussing and explaining difficult scientific advances is being handled easily and colloquially without any loss of precision. That is a very great feat. There seemed to me to be bolder, sharper direction, too. The preparations for a brain operation on an epileptic, for example, shifted from the operating taule where the brain lay exposed in the conscious and talking patient to Eric Sevareid and a guide watching from overhead—back and forth in a thoroughly professional manner.

In this age of monster pictures, this was a real scary one because it was actual. A doctor with a low voltage needle "stimulated" certain parts of the conscious patient's brain to discover what parts of the body they controlled. "Why," asked Sevareid, "do you have to re-map, re-chart, every individual brain? Aren't they all alike?" His guide, Dr. Robert Livingston, explained: "One brain is not exactly like another any more than our faces are exactly alike."

Just then the needle activated an old memory of music in the patient's brain which I found truly alarming. If the doctors can monkey with our memories . . . Actually, it got worse. The demonstrations moved into the brains of cats and rats that had electrodes planted deeply into them.

First, a cat was awakened by stimulating the proper part of the brain. "Sleep, wakefulness, alertness, attention—these functions were the business primarily of the psychologist previously," explained Dr. Livingston. "Now we know that certain brain mechanisms are linked to these and we can work together with the psychologist to explore them."

After that, things got much more complicated and, to me, progressively more alarming. A rat was shown running from one end of a maze to another, getting more and more adept at finding his way, simply to give himself the thrill of stimulating his brain. Said the researcher: "We wanted to find just how much punishment we could make a rat take in order to stimulate his brain." A grid was electrified. Rats, explained the researcher, Jim Olds, would starve to death rather than take such an electrical shock to get to food—but this rat, after recoiling just once, crossed the grid several times to stimulate his brain. What sort of thrill do you suppose brain stimulation is in order to drive the rat to do that? It's all a little like something out of Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World."

The second part of the hour-long show was an examination of the power of waves and how to adjus' both ships and shoreline to live with it and to fight back. This didn't have quite the ghoulish impact of the bit about monkeying with our minds but it was, I thought, an absolutely first-rate job of photographing, cutting, and editing a difficult scientific subject. Waves, incidently, are very photogenic when the sea kicks up and there were some wonderful shots showing the tremendous power of an angry sea.

Your perfect educational show should mix show business with genuine information. It should be important enough information to warrant the attention of a network (to say nothing of your and my attention); it should be clear without stooping to first grade terminology to make it so. I can't pretend that "Conquest" has always done this. Come to think of it, I'm not sure it ever has before this program.

There's a narrow line between education and sensation for its own sake and it's sometimes hard to know which side you're on. Not long ago the Westinghouse Station in San Francisco, KPIX, televised a live heart operation on "little Tommy" Hunter and got deluged with 50,000 letters, most of them approving. Electrodes in cats' brains I find grisly but educational; heart operations on "little Tommy" I find just plain grisly without any compensating reason for being in my living room.

Early Delivery of Gift Appliances Doubly Appreciated

Surprise Nice, But Try This

To surprise her or not?

That's the question if you're planning on making it a White Christmas for your wife by giving her an electric home freezer.

There are good arguments on both sides of the question — and if you're one of those individuals who thinks that surprise is a vital ingredient of any gift, then don't read any further.

But if you're undecided about whether to surprise your wife on Christmas morning with an electric freezer, you might want to consider the following points.

First, while a freezer will give her pleasure 365 days in each year, it's likely to be of special value to her in the days just before Christmas. That's particularly true if she's going to be entertaining during the holiday season — and what woman isn't planning on having guests in during this festive season.

Freezer Frees Her

An electric freezer will allow her to prepare whole meals as well as party snacks well in advance. Then her time just before Christmas can be devoted to those really last-minute preparations—trimming the tree, decorating the house, and last-minute cleaning.

With the children home from school she's likely to find it extremely convenient to freeze their luncheon sandwiches and between-meal snacks in advance. Then she won't have to interrupt her other activities to prepare these meals for the youngsters.

And if your wife is planning on having the family in for Christmas dinner she couldn't ask for a better servant to lighten he work than a home freezer. A whole host of holiday dishes can be prepared in advance and then frozen, to be taken out of the freezer only minutes before the meal is to be put on the table. At a moment like this the lady of the house is particularly disposed to bless her new freezer and the man who gave it to her.

There's one other equally practical reason for eliminating the surprise lement in the gift of a freezer. You may never have thought of it in these terms but an electric freezer is a "personal" gift for a woman. Personal because the freezer is such a versatile product that each woman is likely to decide that it has a particular value for her.

Consult Your Wife

Here's an example. One obvious use of a freezer is to freeze fresh crops in season. If your wife is likely to want to do this you'll have to take it into consideration in selecting the proper size unit.

Or consider the matter of convenience. Today's glamorous electric freezers are a far cry from those first boxy, utilitarian units. Today your wife can pick between a chest type or an upright. She can choose the particular arrangement of shelves and baskets which best suits her requirements.

Then, too, your wife is very likely to have definite plans about her kitchen. She may have a new color scheme or a new arrangement of appliances in the back of her mind. If so, she'll obviously want to make her new electric freezer conform to her new plans and make it the first step in modernizing the kitchen.

So you see there are definite advantages to letting your wife in on the secret if you're planning a freezer for her White Christmas.

And even though she has helped pick out the unit she wants and has been using it for a whole week before Christmas you can make it something special on Christmas morning by having hidden a gift-wrapped delicacy for her in the new electric freezer. It might be a special seafood, or a frozen gourmet meal or something for her sweet tooth. Whatever it is, it's a good way of putting the surprise back in the freezer gift.

Supermarket in Home

Finally, remember that the initial surprise of receiving a freezer is only the first of many surprises a modern freezer will provide. Day after day the lucky lady is likely to find new delights and new advantages in having a supermarket in her own home. Each time she saves a step — or a penny — she's likely to be surprised and delighted anew with her freezer.

JUST LIKE A SUPERMARKET IN HER HOME: Modern electric freezers give today's homemaker undreamed of convenience and flexibility in meal preparation. Among the freezer's advantages are fewer shopping trips, and the opportunity to prepare dishes — and even whole meals—days or weeks in advance. In addition there are real savings opportunities when you buy seasonally-plentiful lower-cost foods and in large quantity purchases.

Good Supply Of Hot Water Essential In Home

How about giving your wife plenty of hot water for Christmas! Today's homemaker likes to be in hot water.

As a matter of fact, lack of an adequate supply of hot water spells nothing but trouble for the modern housewife.

That's because more and more, appliances depend on a good supply of hot water to produce their full labor-saving potential. Consider the automatic diswasher which requires water of 160 to 180 degrees to deliver all the benefits it can provide.

Water that hot is needed not only to get food soil off the dishes but to kill any bacteria or germs which may be present on the dishes.

To provide an adequate and ever-ready supply of water as hot as this you can choose between a wide variety of modern electric water heaters.

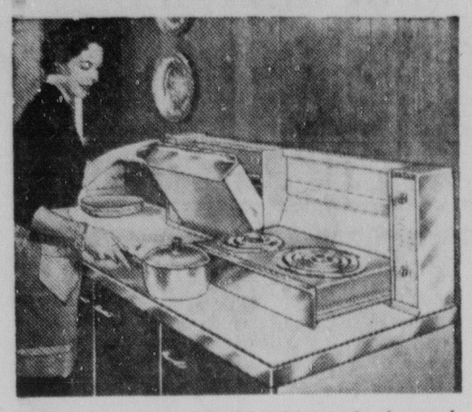
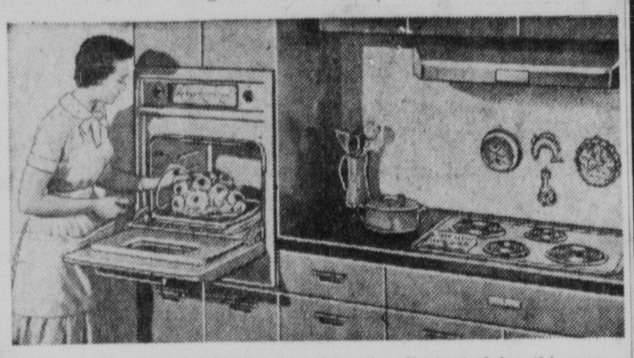
Cooking Can Be Fun On These Ranges

Cooking should be fun—and it always will be, thanks to new conveniences incorporated as part of the modern electric range. From beginning to end—from planning a meal to cleaning up afterwards — these new ranges are designed to ease the housewife's work and provide her with more time to enjoy the creative side of cookery. Pictured below are some of the many new features provided by electric range manufacturers — features that add more ease, convenience and enjoyment to cooking.



NEW SURFACE UNITS fold into back panel to provide extra counter space. Automatic heat controls watch over food. For easier cleaning, units have removable crumb trays, reflector bowls.

STRIKING NEW RANGE looks like a built-in, has convenience of a free-standing unit. It's designed for wall or counter top, so the oven and surface units can be placed at any desired height.



ALL THE GUESSWORK in cooking is eliminated by this new built-in oven (above), with an electric meat thermometer which registers on the convenient control panel above the oven. Also included is a rotisserie. There's a see-through glass window on the oven door.

HOUSEWIFE'S DREAM is built-in oven (left) with "drop-leaf" door for easy cleaning. In regular use, door snaps in place to serve as shelf for loading, unloading. Other features include "spatter-free" broiling unit, automatic meat tending devices and cooking controls.

Kitchens Today Big, Roomy; Have Space For Entire Family

Remember when the kitchen planning experts gave us "efficiency kitchens"? These provided just enough room for Mom and she was expected to get in and out as fast as possible.

It may be that Mom got lonesome and rebelled. In any case, today's kitchens are big and roomy, allowing plenty of space for the whole family.

The new, larger kitchens are just as efficient, too. In fact, far beyond anything the compact cubicle offered. Everything is conveniently located. Appliances are bright, and handsome and easy to clean. Whether free-standing or built-in, they blend perfectly with the over-all decor of the home. Mom is never lonely now, because these modern kitchens blend imperceptibly with family rooms and recreation areas.

The American Gas Association recently conducted a survey of trends in kitchen planning and found that the emphasis today is on versatile utility. The desk, telephone, and other items have moved kitchenward in recent years because today's homemaker usually has several projects going on at once.

How does she do it? She sets automatic controls on her gas appliances and goes on to something else. While she is busy planning next week's menus, her automatic gas washer-dryer combination washes and dries a full load of clothes.

Electric Devices Have New Look

There's a "new look" in appliances, too.

While dress designers have been using the new look in women's fashions to conceal milady's lines in voluminous sacks, chemises and balloons, appliance designers have moved in just the opposite direction.

They've slimmed down the lines of today's labor-saving electric appliances, squaring off corners to come up with a built-in look. The result: you can give your kitchen a modern, functional appearance without having to replace free-standing appliances with built-ins.

Nor is the shape the only thing which has been changed. Whole concepts of design and application have come in for a long second look by engineers and today's electric appliances have a versatility unknown in previous years.

Freezer As Example

Take the home freezer for example. Once it was a boxy chest-type unit. Today we still have chest-type freezers but their lines have been streamlined and new racks and baskets added to the interior to make their use even easier.

In addition to the chest freezer we now have upright models which save valuable floor space if that's a factor in your planning. There are also under-counter models and wall-hung and built-in types.

Thus, where once there was a single type of freezer, today there's a whole family of models available. You can give her her choice.

Much the same thing has happened to that most familiar of all appliances, the electric refrigerator. The conventional, free-standing model has had its corners squared off so that you can achieve a built-in look if you desire. Or you can buy refrigeration in built-in or wall-hung models.

No matter what type you choose you can combine refrigerated space with a freezer.

Indeed, the continually growing popularity of refrigerator-freezer combinations is one of the most significant design trends in modern kitchen planning. From a variety of models available you can pick the unit best suited to your needs, with the bulk of the space devoted to either freezer or refrigerator space ,whichever you prefer.

Even Free Standing

Everyone is familiar with the built-in range which several years ago provided range designers with a "new look." Now, even the free-standing range has been redesigned and it's hardly surprising that these conventional units too have a built-in "look."

Still another way of achieving this style is with the new "stack-on" ranges which can be hung on the wall or mounted on a kitchen cabinet.

That's why giving a modern appliance is such a pleasure. Not only can you select the type of features you want but you can also get them in just the "package" which will fit your own needs best.

Cleaning Up

Modern electric refrigerators are easy to keep clean but here's a tip. Be sure to wipe up spills at once before they've had a chance to harden and require scrubbing.

More Than Names Have Changed In Refrigerators

'58 Models Feature All Automatic

Forty years ago you might have given her a Penguin to symbolize a White Christmas. Or it may have been a Vosse, a Zicer, or a Germanic.

Those are brand names of electric refrigerators which have long since disappeared. But back in 1916 they were the pioneers in the field. The Germanic, in fact, is said to have been the first nationally advertised refrigerator.

More than mere names have changed in household refrigeratio, however. Those 1916 models, of course, bear only a faint resemblance to current beauties. As a matter of fact, today's electric refrigerator differs radically from what was being sold as recently as five or ten years ago.

The primary change has been in the direction of convenience and automation. While you hear considerable talk about dramatic new inventions like the electronic refrigerator, such things are a good few years away. What really distinguishes today's refrigerators, however, are the extra convenience features and reliability built into their performance.

Eliminating the chore of manual defrosting is but one of these conveniences which means a great deal to the housewife. Just as automatic defrosting represented a major improvement in refrigerator design a few years ago, now emphasis is being placed on designing units in which frost never accumulates. Several brands incorporating this advantage are on the market today. No woman who has ever tottered across the kitchen floor with a tray filled with defrost water is likely to underestimate the importance of this development.

Less dramatic perhaps, but every bit as important to the housewife are trays which roll out and trays which revolve. There are egg racks and cheese keepers and butter conditioners.

Years ago you had to hold ice cube trays under a running faucet to get the ice out. Now there are a whole variety of trays with easy release features. And there are electric refrigerators which automatically maintain a constant supply of ice cubes so that matter how many you use, more always will be on hand.

Most important of all, designers have taken heed of the housewife's desire to have a ready supply of frozen food on hand. The original refrigerator-freezer combination have given birth to a whole family of new types, some with the freezer on the bottom, others with it on top and each with enough space to satisfy the requirements of any family, large or small.

Aware of the growing popularity of the home freezer, one manufacturer is marketing a unique pair of matching electric refrigerator and freezer. The refrigerator has no frozen food storage space at all since the matching twin freezer provides the space.

While this approach appeals to some families, others have found that limited floor space forces them to choose a single unit in which both refrigerator and freezer have been combined. This can be conveniently restocked from a freezer located in the basement, she no longer has to stagger back and forth with dripping trays, the housewife can more closely integrate her kitchen with living areas.

AUTOMATIC DEFROSTING AND NON-FROST REFRIGERATORS make possible a whole new concept in kitchen planning. When

Range Makers Offer Less Meat Shrinkage

Many a homemaker will get more food value for her money this Christmas and enjoy better eating, too, thanks to the work of gas range manufacturers.

The range makers offer a variety of automatic controls for top burners, rotisseries and ovens—all aimed at insuring the housewife against excessive meat shrinkage and over-cooking. The controls take the guesswork out of cooking—maintaining the exact temperatures and indicating when the roast has reached the desired degree of "doneness."

Many of the new model ranges are designed with the new square breezeway or garage.

These practical improvements have resulted in today's refrigerator whic his almost as different from yesterday's as today's brand names are different from the long lost Vosse, Zicer Germanic and Penguin.

look and give a built-in appearance, and they offer such features as top-of-the-range rotisseries, vertical broilers, themostatically controlled griddles, push-button controls and even remote controls that permit milady to turn the range on or off from the backyard, bedroom or anywhere around the house.

Paint It Yourself

You can make your kitchen look like new with a simple application of one coat of paint on steel cabinets. Colors are available to match or to contrast with your appliances.

What They Say

Here's what automatic dishwasher users say: Fewer dishes and glasses broken, fewer tea towels needed, hot water saved because dishes are done fewer times a day.

Modern Gas Range Ideal Yule Gift For Mother

Put a little magic in your Christmas giving this year. Give mother a modern gas range equipped with magical top burner heat control.

According to the American Gas Association, the "burner with a brain" lets you cook delicate custards on top of your gas range without a double boiler, mashed potatoes that stay moist and warm for an hour or more without sticking to the bottom of the pan, cocoa that never forms a scum, batch after batch of golden griddle cakes, each one perfect, pressure cooker foods without constantly adjusting the temperature, deep fat frying without smoking, perfect hollandaise sauce as easy as boiling water.

And you needn't even be in the kitchen!

How It Works

If you haven't seen one, here's how it works:

The control consists of a small sensing element in the center of the burner, which literally "takes the temperature" of the cooking utensil and signals this temperature to the thermostat controlling the burner. When the food in the pan drops below the pre-selected temperature, the sensing element automatically signals the control and the flame increases again.

When the food is cooked, the "burner with a brain," cuts the flame low to keep the food warm until ready to serve. Even fried eggs will stay warm and tender for an hour.

Any ordinary flat-bottomed utensil becomes an automatic appliance with foods cooked to perfection every time. Best of all, burning, scorching, boiling over, under cooking and over cooking, become a thing of the past. Since this is an automatic control on your gas range, you needn't even be in the kitchen. Just set it and forget it!

Many Want Several

Many families will probably want it on several burners, because the control makes it possible to use the top of the gas range for such foods as delicate custards, upside down cake, puddings, and so on, which ordinarily have to be cooked in the oven because they require even, constant temperatures. Too, custards, puddings and difficult sauces, such as hollandaise can be cooked without a double boiler.

Vacuum type coffee can be made without removal from the burner or change of adjustment, since the "burner with a brain" automatically reduces the gas flame when the coffee is done.

Yes, indeed, kitchen magic is no trick at all these days.

If you want to check the capacity of a casserole, fill it with water; now pour the water into a standard liquid measure.

Market Strength Shown By Rails, Oils And Steels

NEW YORK (UPI)—After milling around most of the session stocks developed strength toward the close with rails, oils and steels the main leaders.

The rise, accompanied by increased volume, sent rails to their highest level in nearly two years but was insufficient to make up Tuesday's loss in the industrials.

Volume rose to 4,090,000 shares from 3,820,000 Tuesday.

Norfolk & Western Railway closed up 5 points on street reports it is studying the possibilities of a merger with another road. This and other rail gains, including a point or more in New York Central and Kansas City Southern, carried the rail average to a new high since Dec. 7, 1956.

Movements in several stocks, including AT&T and Lorillard, reflected dividend action. AT&T fell 1¾ when its directors declared the usual dividend of $2.25. Reports have been circulating for some time that the stock might be split or the dividend raised.

Other wide gainers with advances running to around 5 points included Sunbeam, Texas & Pacific Railway and Polaroid.

Oils came to life late in the day with a gain of about 3 in Wilcox and more than a point in Kern County. In the internationals Standard California and Texas Co. were up major fractions.

U. S. Steel and Continental Steel perked up their group with a rise of 1⅜ in the former and 2⅜ in the latter.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—A generally higher trend pushed grain futures into steady to firm prices at the close on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ¾ to ¾ cent; corn (old) up ¾ to 1¼ cents, (new) up ½ to 1¼ cents; oats unchanged to up ¼ cent; rye up ⅞ to off ⅝ cent; soybeans up ⅝ to ¾ cent.

December wheat rallied and led the way to firm ground. Deferred contracts shared somewhat in the advance. Local and commercial buying were featured. Locals bought December and sold March wheat.

December and March corn contracts were favorites in the session. There was a scattered commission house buying. Cash interests took old December and offset selling of new March by Northwest brokers. Locals had great demand for December corn.

Further liquidation of December oats featured the crop. Cash houses were steady buyers.

Commercial buying of January soybeans, offsetting an elevator and commission house selling movement, gave the only feature to a slow trade.

Major Players Plan 'Action' If TV Demand Not Met

Baseballers Seek Part Of Video Money

"Drastic" Move Seen If Owners Refuse; Meeting Next Month

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The major league baseball players are considering the possibility of taking "drastic action" should the owners reject their demand to be cut in on the regular season television and radio money of the 16 clubs.

League representatives Robin Roberts and Eddie Yost have been authorized by the other 14 team representatives to ask the owners at their Washington, D.C. meeting next month for a quick reply to their demand of 25 per cent of the TV and radio money.

"We feel we are entitled to a portion of the money the clubs have been getting from the telecasting of our regular league games," a player representative told The Associated Press Wednesday. "We thrashed the matter over thoroughly at our last meeting and we even discussed the possibility of taking drastic action should the owners turn us down."

Declines To Tell Plan

The player, who asked not to be identified, declined to say what these "drastic actions" would be. He insisted, however, the players meant business and declared the represenatives would meet Dec. 1 in Washington to decide on a course of action should they be rebuffed by the owners.

"We don't want to draw any conclusions until we know the owners' reaction," he said. "But it wouldn't be any sense in asking for something if we didn't plan to do anything about it. We'd look ridiculous then."

The players in October requested a cut of the TV and radio receipts of regular season games but because of the excitement of the World Series little publicity was given to it.

Roberts, contacted by telephone, said he anticipated no difficulty with the owners and was confident something would be worked out. He added, however, that no decision has been reached as to what steps will be taken in case of rejection.

"The clubowners' gross income, because of television, has gone up tremendously during the past several years," said the Philadelphia Phillies' star pitcher. "Baseball salaries have gone up, too, during this time, but not nearly in ratio with the clubs' earnings. Baseball salaries have fared poorly in proportion to salary increases in other professions, too.

Should Be Distributed

"If there is that much money available as we have reason to believe, then certainly some of it should be distributed among the players. Television is becoming more and more important. Who knows how big it will get. I don't believe the players have benefitted as much as they should have from it. It's time we were."

The players' attorney, J. Norman Lewis, had a firm of accountants set up a revealing list of the incomes of each major league club and the salaries paid out to the players in the years from 1950 through 1956. This report was distributed to every major leaguer.

It shows that the 16 major league clubs had a gross income of $32,035,481 in 1950 and $42,836,327 six years later. Salaries paid to the players came to $5,291,850 in 1950 and $5,521,515 in 1956.

The report says the owners received $10,800,846 more in '56 than in '50 but the players gained only $229,665 of that increase in improved pay.

Colts Retain OffenseLead

Los Angeles Rams Second In Yardage

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Western Division - leading Baltimore Colts continue to top all National Football League teams in total offense, according to NFL statistics released Wednesday.

The Colts have amassed 1,492 yards through rushing and 1,615 on passing for a total of 3,107. The Los Angeles Rams are second with 3,045, having gained 199 yards more than the Colts did in their games last weekend.

The Cleveland Browns, Eastern Division leaders, have gained the most rushing, 1,861 yards, with Baltimore second.

The Philadelphia Eagles, who share last place in the Eastern Division with the Chicago Cardinals, lead the NFL in passing yardage, 1,880.

Baltimore and Los Angeles are running one-two in scoring with 272 and 253 points respectively.

Washington has the best punting average, 45.1 yards for each of 31 kicks. The New York Giants are second at 44.3.

Baltimore has permitted its opponents to complete only 41.3 per cent of their passes. Los Angeles has allowed 46.2.

Syracuse's Best Record At Stake

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — The best record in Syracuse football history will be at stake for the powerful Orangemen when they take on West Virginia in Morgantown this Saturday.

Possessors of a 7-1 record blemished only by a one-point loss to Holy Cross, the Orange can match their greatest won-lost record, 8-1, posted in 1923. That team's lone defeat came by nine points to Colgate.

Although every meeting has been decided by a touchdown since the series was resumed in 1955, this game "on paper" may not be so close. Syracuse has tromped such opponents as Nebraska (conqueror of Pitt and Penn State), 38-0; Boston U. (winner over West Virginia), 42-0, Cornell, 55-0, and Colgate 47-0.

The Mountaineers bounced back from two straight lickings by Syracuse with a 7-0 victory last season in the Stadium and are hoping for a repeat of history.

Maryland Has Final Hard Grid Scrimmage

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland's football team, prepping for Saturday's Atlantic Coast Conference game with Virginia, held its last hard practice of the week—and the season—Wednesday.

One hour of the scrimmage was spent on pass defense and 30 minutes on offense. Bob Ruseylyan and Bob Scarbath did the throwing and sophomore end Ed Becker made some sensational catches.

"We're in top physical condition and hope we can stop the great Virginia team," said Coach Tommy Mont. He called the Cavaliers "a very dangerous football team."

Rose Threatens To Expose Other Aussie Netmen

Southpaw Is Advised Suspension To Stand

MELBOURNE (UPI)—Southpaw Mervyn Rose exploded Wednesday when advised his tennis suspension won't be lifted until Jan. 31, and threatened to wreck Australia's Davis Cup team by doing some "straight talking" about the expenses of other players.

"I have plenty of dope on our Davis Cup players," said Rose, who was suspended three months ago in a dispute over his expenses on a foreign tour this year. "I hate making threats, but I've probably been soft too long".

Rose hit the ceiling when he received a letter from the Lawn Tennis Assn. of Australia that he must stay sidelined at least until Jan.1, thus missing not only the Davis Cup matches in late December but many major Australian tournaments.

"I don't see why I should be made the bunny," said the star left-hander who has been a frequent resident of the official tennis doghouse here.

"There were 28 Australian players overseas this year, and if I'm guilty some others are, too", Rose said.

Rose warned that if he starts talking "there will be a few blushing faces among the amateurs in the new South Wales championships next week".

The lanky Rose, who is rated as one of the best doubles players in the world, insisted that the LTAA "has nothing on me." He said he received 1,300 pounds ($2,912) in expenses during his 23-week foreign tour and that all of it had been spent on air fares.

"The LTAA reckons I am cheating about some European tournaments," he said. "But all I got was my 1,300 pounds back. I have been told they will let me go away next year, provided I do not visit South America, Italy, or Germany. That would ruin the tour."

Rose is scheduled to meet Thursday with Donald Ferguson, president of the LTAA and hopes to "thrash it all out" then.

City Cage Loop Plans For Season

Four teams were represented at the first organizational meeting of the City Basketball League last night at City Hall, but C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, stated that three other teams have expressed interest in joining the loop for the coming cage season.

Team representatives last night discussed the organizational setup of the circuit, went over some changes in rules and the league program, and considered increasing the entry fees of all teams to help pay officials of the games.

Attending the meeting last night with Mason were Dave Ritter of the 40&8 Club, Colin and Keith Detrick of Chaney's Transportation, Herman Lewis of the Loyal Order of Moose Club, and Galen McGregor and Ronnie Twigg for Carolan's Tavern.

Other teams interested in berths in the league are Old Germans, Old Exports and Knights of Columbus.

Another meeting will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

Dawkins Takes Scoring Lead

Army Back Tallies 74 Points For Cadets

NEW YORK (AP) — Army's Pete Dawkins has regained the top-scoring role in major college football circles but it may not be for very long.

The versatile Army halfback racked up three touchdowns against Villanova last Saturday to boost his point-scoring total to 74, according to figures compiled Wednesday by the NCAA Service Bureau. Dawkins has scored 12 touchdowns and made two extra points.

The bureau, however, notes that Dawkins will be idle this week while the next six highest scorers, all within 10 points of the Army captain, will be active Saturday.

Dawkins moved past Bill Austin of Rutgers who had been sidelined with a hand injury. Austin has 72 points. Bob White of Ohio State advanced to third place with 66 points on his three-touchdown burst against Iowa. Cal Bird of Kentucky is fourth with 65 followed by Dick Bass, College of Pacific and Ron Burton, Northwestern, and Bob Simms, Rutgers, 64 each; and Bob Jarus, Purdue, Howard Cook, Colorado, and Frank Finney, Brown, 60 each.

N.Y. Girl Gets Roller Skate Title

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Mary Ann Slazinik, a slender, blue-eyed blonde from Pine Bush, N. Y., was crowned National Roller Skate Queen Wednesday.

The 18-year-old Miss Slazinik, a student at Orange County Community College, said she would use the first prize—a $2,500 scholarship—to enroll at Cornell Medical College. Her skating style, personality and 34-22-34 measurements caught the eye of the judges selecting the queen from among some 35 contestants.

Second prize went to Miss Texas, Linda Strawn, 18, a freshman at the University of Houston. Miss Delaware, Audrey Marie Payton, 20-year-old legal secretary from Newcastle, Del., placed third.

Snead And Hogan Favored To Capture Canada Cup

32 Nations To Vie In Golf Tourney

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, teaming up in an effort to restore United States international golf prestige, were watching each other as well as rivals from 32 nations Wednesday night on the eve of the International Trophy and Canada Cup championships.

Snead and Hogan tee off at noon Thursday in the first of four daily 18-hole rounds which will decide this "world series" of golf in which the Canada Cup goes to the team with the low two-man total for 72 holes.

But, while they were favored at 4 to 1, each also had his eye on the International Trophy, which goes to the low individual. And these old rivals were unusually tense and tight as they prepared for a head-and-head battle in this department.

Snead was terse and uncommunicative, a distinct change in his personality, and Hogan, too, had that old-time look in his eye. Because, in addition to their personal battle, they shouldered a heavy load in attempting to win back the cup which Japan took last year from Snead and Jimmy Demaret.

Both Playing Well

"We are both playing well," Hogan said, although - as were the majority of the players—was suffering from dysentary, a chronic early condition among visitors to Mexico.

"We won it before in England in 1956," Hogan said, "but golf around the world seems to be improving all the time."

Hogan won individual honors at Wentworth, England, in 1956 when he and Snead paired to take the team championship. But America's fairway fortunes have fallen to an all-time low during the last year with the Japanese winning this tournament, the British taking the professional Ryder Cup, and Australia winning the brand new Eisenhower World Amateur title.

U. S. Team Favored

Yet, while the U. S. team was favored, there was much support for the British Ryder Cuppers, who last year bested the Americans for the first time in 24 years. Virtually the entire team is represented on the British delegation which play as separate units from England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. The South African team of Gary Player and Harold Henning also ranked among favorites over the 7,612-yard, par-72 Club de Golf course.

Almost daily rains have made the course soft. Cloudy weather was forecast for Thursday. Al Balding, who teams with Henry Martell, the Canadian PGA champion, said that this would raise the scores, even though due to the lighter atmosphere in this mile and one-half high city, the pros are able to hit the ball anywhere from 30 to 60 yards longer than usual.

Spider Webb Upsets Giardello With TKO In 7th

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Underdog Spider Webb slashed deep cuts under and over Joey Giardello's left eye Wednesday night to win by a seventh-round technical knockout in the nationally televised battle between the two ranking middleweights.

Giardello, 159, of Rosedale, N.Y., had blood pouring down his face when Referee Vern Bybee called a halt after one minute and 30 seconds of the seventh round in their Cow Palace fight scheduled for 10.

Webb, the No. 4 ranking challenger for Sugar Ray Robinson's title, opened a cut under the left eye of the third-ranked Giardello in the fourth round and slashed a deep gash over the same eye in the sixth.

Scoring Duel Between Irish And Iowa Seen

Teams Rank Fourth, Fifth On Offense

CHICAGO (UPI)—College football's TV fans probably will see one of the greatest offensive games of the season Saturday when Iowa tangles with Notre Dame.

And they'll see most of the action if they follow Iowa's No. 25, quarterback Randy Duncan, and Notre Dame's No. 3, George Izo, also the quarterback.

Duncan, the nation's second best passer with 1,163 yards gained through the air, and also second in total offense with total gains of 1,182 yards, was the major factor in making Iowa the national leader in total offense.

The Hawkeyes have averaged 399.6 yards per game, and rank fifth in both rushing, with 240.9 yards per game, and in passing with 158.8 yards per game.

But to counter - balance this, Notre Dame has a crackerjack record of its own on offense and ranks fourth in total offense with 370.5 yards per game and sixth in passing offense with 157 yards per game.

The Irish might rank higher in both categories, and Izo might have been one of the leaders personally too, except that he became a regular only after the fourth game of the season.

City Will Get Flood Project About May 1

Cut In Maintenance Costs Is Sought

The Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project will be turned over to the City of Cumberland for operation about next May 1.

That is the tentative date for the formal transfer as set yesterday afternoon when officials of the City of Cumberland and the Corps of Engineers met here to discuss the operation of the $18,000,000 project.

Col. George B. Sumner, R. L. Wadsworth, Worth D. Phillips, Washington District, and Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer, represented the Corps of Engineers.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Street Commissioner John J. Long, Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder, City Attorney William R. Carscaden and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum represented the City of Cumberland.

During the lengthy conference, there was agreement on a number of points, dealing chiefly with the maintenance of the project. They included:

May Cut Costs

The Corps of Engineers will review the Operation and Maintenance Manual for the flood control project, to see if it is possible to reduce maintenance costs. This is based on the premise that if the number of required inspections could be reduced without adversely affecting the machinery and the project as a whole, maintenance costs could be reduced.

The Operation and Maintenance Manual has been approved by the city with the understanding that, should desired changes be necessary, such changes will be discussed by the parties in interest.

The Corps of Engineers will cooperate with the city in seeking means of reducing the cost of operation and maintenance without adversely affecting the efficiency of the project.

The Corps will advise the city as to what procedures will be taken if the city is to perform any maintenance work which is the responsibility of the Corps of Engineers. It is understood that the contract will, in all probability, be on a fiscal basis and the work to be done and amount to be paid to the city would be agreed upon in advance if the city is to perform the work.

Cite Responsibility

So far as the Corps of Engineers is concerned, the operation and maintenance of the project is the responsibility of the City of Cumberland, and any cost to be borne by the Town of Ridgeley is entirely a matter between the City of Cumberland and the Town of Ridgeley.

The City of Cumberland will notify the Corps of Engineers as to the appointment of a superintendent and assistant to the superintendent, as required in the maintenance manual.

The Corp's real estate department will compile a list of outstanding real estate transactions by and between the government and the city in connection with property acquisitions and other legal matters.

Work Progressing

Mr. Dexter reported that Sections 2 and 3 of the Wills Creek phase should be completed by the E. J. Albrecht Company by December 15.

He said the contract could be accepted by the Corps and turned over to the city for operation at that date even though seeding and some clean-up work would have to be delayed until next spring.

Work on the Western Maryland Railway Bridge, Mr. Dexter reported, should be completed very soon, perhaps by December 1.

In reply to a query of Mr. Long, he said the temporary hump at the Western Maryland crossing will be removed and the approach returned to its former condition as soon as the bridge is in and the temporary railway trestle is removed.

Mr. Dexter reported the Hazelwood Construction Company, contractor for Section 4, should be finished in the creek by about January 15.

May Cut Costs

At present, the city has a flood control maintenance crew composed of a foreman and five men.

If maintenance tasks are reduced, it might be possible, as the city wishes, to reduce maintenance costs by reducing the size of the crew.

Officials of the Corps of Engineers stressed that the maintenance superintendent should be qualified to make technical decisions and should be an engineer.

This superintendent would supervise the work of the assistant to the superintendent, who need not have professional training.

There was considerable discussion on Ridgeley's responsibility toward operating the system.

One city official said he thought a fair contribution for Ridgeley would be eight cents on the tax rate — the cost of the project for residents of Cumberland.

Hold Discussion

Easy Does It

Hampered by brisk winds, workmen of the George F. Hazelwood Company yesterday hoisted a four-ton prefabricated iron steeple 70 feet onto the new St. Paul's Lutheran Church now under construction on the old Roman property on Washington Street. Some time ago treated wood had been applied to the 48-foot section which was hoisted yesterday and was bolted in place on the steel superstructure. In the near future scaffolding will be built around the steeple and white porcelain enamel material will be applied. From the floor of the church building to the tip of the steeple it will be 118 feet. Extensions had to be placed on the boom of the crane in order that the steeple could be hoisted high enough. Guy wires were used in controlling the movement of the steeple during the operation.

Six To Attend Conference On Education

At least six representatives of Allegany County are expected to attend a two-day State Conference on Education at the Southern Hotel in Baltimore starting tomorrow.

Those expected to attend from Allegany County include Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Joseph M. Miller, a member of the County Board of Education; A. Trago Brust Jr., representing the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company; John G. Thomas, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union; J. Kenneth Morgan, representing the Celanese Corporation of America, and Dr. William T. Fridinger, local dentist.

Last February, the State Board of Education recommended that a state-wide conference on education be held this fall, looking toward the betterment and continued progress in the educational system of Maryland.

Following this decision, an advisory committee, representative of various educational and civic organizations in Maryland, was appointed. This committee agreed that a state meeting of about 400 participants of diversified interests would be profitable, would inform the public of what is going on in the schools of the state and enable the public to recognize and understand the real goals of education.

A number of prominent persons will speak during sessions of the conference which has its first session from 10 a.m. until noon Friday. Wendell D. Allen, president of the State Board of Education, will discuss "Purposes of the Conference."

During the morning session, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, will speak on "Accepted Purposes of Public Education." Dr. Paul R. Mort, professor of education at Columbia University's Teachers College, will discuss "The Need For Increased Financial Support For Public Education."

Governor Thedore R. McKeldin will extend greetings at the luncheon meeting and Judge Charles E. Moylan of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City will speak on "What's Right With Youth."

"Humanity's Stake In Education" will be the subject of the remarks of Dr. Reuben G. Gustavson, president and executive director, Resources For The Future, Inc., at the Friday dinner meeting.

The conference will close with a Saturday luncheon at which Neil H. Swanson, editorial writer for the Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American, will summarize the highlights.

Craftsmen To Meet

The Universal Craftsmen Council of Engineers will meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Junior Order Hall, Polk Street.

Boys Are Caught Letting Air Out Of Car Tires

They are being held for action of Juvenile Court in the detention quarters at the County Infirmary. They told police they let air out of tires parked throughout the city during the past couple of nights.

Several complaints were received last night and City Police Detective Kenneth Morrissey caught the two boys.

Tuesday night police got calls from residents who said air had been let out of their tires on cars parked on Greenway Avenue, Fort Hill High School parking lot and Memorial Avenue Extended.

Suspect Released By State Police

A man who was picked up Tuesday by State Police at a Flintstone roadblock after he allegedly attempted to force a 14-year-old girl into a car in Hancock has been released.

Authorities at the LaVale Barracks said the unidentified man had been arrested by Trooper Harry J. Garcia and turned over to State Police in Hancock.

However, the girl was unable to identify the man who had been nabbed at the roadblock in Flintstone. State Police at Hancock alerted other units in the state after the girl informed her school principal a man attempted to force her into his automobile.

Police said the girl was walking home to get her eye glasses when a man stopped his car on U.S. Route 40 in Hancock and attempted to force her into the car.

War Orphans Eligible For Education Aid

It's not too early for young men and young women of this area to begin plans if they intend to enroll in January classes under the war orphans program, according to Sam Weston, local Veterans Administration contact representative observed yesterday.

Mr. Weston noted that R. T. Brown, manager of the VA regional office in Maryland has called attention to the fact that there are now 50 war orphans attending schools in Maryland under this program which provides educational allowances up to $110 per month.

The program provides educational assistance in colleges and universities, as well as below-college-level schools for the sons and daughters of war veterans who died of injuries or disease resulting from their wartime military service.

The usual age span for orphan students is between 18 and 23; however a recent law allows children with handicaps to begin special types of training when they reach age 14. Types of training they may acquire at this earlier age are special restorative training designed to overcome handicaps, or special vocational training so they can become self-sufficient and productive citizens.

For the others, Mr. Weston notes, education may be taken in colleges and universities as well as below - college - level schools. Regular high school training is not included.

Early action now on the part of students will give the VA ample time to process all necessary applications and details. The child's parent or guardian must file an application with the nearest VA office, and information on this education aid plan can be obtained from Mr. Weston at the Post Office Building.

Tawes Praises Support Of Garrett Demos

Party Pledges 'Best We Have'

"The greatest mandate in Maryland's political history has been handed to the Democrats by the public," Governor-elect J. Millard Tawes told those in attendance at a victory dinner held last night in Oakland by the Democratic Party members of Garrett County.

"We have a grave responsibility to serve well, to plan well, and to give the best we have to all the people of the state," he said.

"We want to close our four-year administration with a report to the people that will reflect progress and honor and strategy and a record of administration which will reflect favorably on Maryland in the eyes of the entire nation and the whole world."

Lauds Workers

He paid special tribute to the State Central Committee of the county and also lauded the workers and women who got out the vote. The governor-elect reminded those at the dinner that many Republicans had voted Democratic since they believed the general welfare of the state rests best in the hands of the Democrats.

He pointed out the sweeping victory of the Democrats not only on the county level but across the state and mentioned that many were elected to office for the first time in decades.

The governor-elect mentioned that Thomas D'Alesandro, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for U.S. Senator, sent his greetings and wanted to thank the voters for their support, and was sorry he could not stem the Republican tide for Sen. J. Glenn Beall, who won re-election.

Sybert, Goldstein Speak

Also speaking at the dinner, attended by about 200 persons, were C. Ferdinand Sybert, elected attorney general, Louis L. Goldstein, comptroller-elect and John R. Foley, Congressman-elect from the Sixth District.

Congressman-elect Foley called the Democratic victory a "genuinely historic occasion." He and the other candidates expressed their appreciation to the county committee, workers and citizens for their support.

They also paid respect to Bernard I. Gonder who was elected state senator from Garrett County. It was pointed out that not only was the election a Democratic victory but the party gained confidence of some members of the GOP.

Toastmaster of the dinner held at the William James Hotel was Stuart F. Hamill Jr., the party's candidate for state's attorney of Garrett County.

The dinner meeting was opened by Lewis H. Hudson, chairman of the county State Central Committee. He gave a report on the recent campaign.

Mr. Hudson outlined three major factors in the campaign strategy. First, he said, a rift had been started in the Republican Party and this was capitalized upon by the Democrats.

Secondly, a Federated Democratic Women's Club was formed in the county, Mrs. Helen Baumgartner, only woman member of the State Central Committee, deserves a lot of credit, said Mr. Hudson.

A complete county-wide organization of precincts also paid off for the Democrats in the election.

Dance Is Held

Among those attending from Allegany County were former Judge William C. Walsh and his son, William Walsh, who was elected to the House of Delegates, and F. Allan Weatherholt, member of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee.

Also invited were Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the committee; Edward V. Welsh, manager of the Cumberland office of the state comptroller; F. Patrick Allender, representing organized labor; and Francis A. Kenney and William Owen of the Maryland Employment Service.

Williamsburg Local Defers Pact Action

Luke Local 676, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, reported yesterday it had been advised that Williamsburg, Pa., Local 677 voted Tuesday to defer action on a contract until an agreement is reached at West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's Mechanicville, N. Y., mill.

It was the same action as was taken by the Luke and Covington locals, the union spokesman said.

Del. Robinson Will Seek Post Of Speaker Of House

BALTIMORE (AP) — Del. Jerome Robinson (D - Balto 4th) launched a campaign Wednesday night for election as speaker of Maryland's House of Delegates.

The Baltimore delegate released a letter which he said he had sent to every elected delegate, 116 of whom are Democrats, asking for speakership of the House, "pending further developments and until I have had an opportunity to see you personally."

Robinson specifically mentioned that Gov.-Elect J. Millard Tawes "naturally will be entitled to express his views on the leadership of the assembly."

Robinson, in his letter, noted he has been in the House of Delegates for 20 continuous years — "the longest period of service of any Democrat in the General Assembly."

His mentioned opponent were A. Gordon Boone (D-Baltimore County) and Perry Wilkinson (D - Prince Georges).

Man Seeks $20,000 For His Injuries

Clothing Caught In Car Door

A Mt. Savage man yesterday filed a $20,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court for injuries allegedly sustained last March in a freak accident involving an automobile.

George Nuse, through Attorney Estel C. Kelley, filed the $20,000 action against Harold Waingold, 1208 Bedford Street; Louis Waingold, Braddock Road, partners, trading as Harold's Used Cars, McMullen Highway, and Charles Waingold, LaVale, jointly and severally.

The five-page declaration charges that Mr. Nuse sustained permanent and severe injuries on or about March 12 when he was dragged and pulled along North Centre Street after his clothing caught in the door of the car which was being driven by Charles Waingold.

It was contended that Charles Waingold, acting as agent for Harold's Used Cars and driving an automobile owned by the partners, offered Mr. Nuse a ride in the car.

Charles Waingold, the declaration alleges, started the car suddenly after stopping to leave Mr. Nuse out on North Centre Street. He contends that the door closed on his clothing because of the sudden start. The injured man said that both his left leg and left foot were injured, he received permanent scars, was hospitalized at Sacred Heart Hospital for some time and sustained severe shock.

The declaration was divided into two counts, the first being against the partners, and the second against Charles Waingold.

Architect's Plan For Library Gains Approval

Architect's plans for the new library at Allegany High School have won the endorsement with only minor changes of Miss Mae Graham, supervisor of school and children's libraries for the Division of Library Extension of the State Department of Education.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster yesterday received a letter from Miss Graham explaining that two representatives of the Silver Spring architectural firm of Johannes and Murray had met with her in Baltimore to show her their plans for the new Allegany library, which will be developed in what is now the gymnasium.

Mr. Webster discussed the library plans yesterday afternoon with Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer.

The old gymnasium will be converted for library use after the new gymnasium in the $870,000 addition to the school is completed, probably by spring. Brick walls for the addition are nearing completion and representatives of the George F. Hazelwood Company are hopeful of getting the roof completed before winter arrives.

Conversion of the old gymnasium will be done under a separate contract. Bids probably will be requested in the late winter or early spring. It may be that most of the work will have to be done next summer so as not to inconvenience classes in the school. At any rate, Mr. Webster hopes to have the job done before classes resume next September.

Mathews Is Chairman Of '39 Class Reunion

Members of the class of 1939 of Allegany High School met this week and elected Robert A. Mathews, 609 Piedmont Avenue, chairman of a committee to formulate plans for a reunion marking the 20th anniversary of their graduation.

Other committee members are Edward Shuck, vice president; Geneva Lewis Nave, secretary; John Snyder, treasurer.

Mr. Mathews said the reunion will be held in the early summer of 1959. During the meeting at Central YMCA the class members went over the roster of graduates and an effort will be made to contact as many as possible.

He urges graduates of 1939 to telephone PA 2-1526 or PA 4-3669. Another meeting will be held at 8 p. m. December 2. The meeting place will be announced later.

The four men who have been going along with older troopers in investigating accidents and other cases are Harry E. Yaukey, Edward C. Stamm, Stephen P. Riland and James H. Plunkert. After graduation they will be given regular assignments.

GARLAND R. FEASTER

Services Set For Man Killed By Falling Tree

G. R. Feaster Struck While Cutting Timber

A funeral service for Garland Ray Feaster, 36, of Beryl, W. Va., who was crushed to death yesterday when he was struck by a falling tree on Backbone Mountain about two miles west of Bloomington, will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Beryl Presbyterian Chapel.

Interment will be in Philos Cemetery, Westernport. The body is at the residence. The victim was working on a timber-cutting operation with a son, James R. Feaster, who is 17.

The son told authorities that he and his father had sawed almost through a 45-foot hickory tree, and his father had mounted a tractor to pull the tree down.

The tree glanced off another standing tree and fell onto the tractor, killing Mr. Feaster instantly. The son managed to get his father off the vehicle and then drove to Savage River Inn to place a call for authorities. Time of the fatal accident was approximately 9 a. m.

Born in Maysville, W. Va., a son of Dayton and Pearl (Berg) Feaster, he had resided at Beryl 18 years. Mr. Feaster had been employed at the Luke Mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company three years and ran a timber cutting operation as a sideline.

A veteran of World War II, he held membership in Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, American Legion of Piedmont, and Maysville Church of the Brethren.

Surviving, besides his son and parents, are his widow, Mrs. Dorothy M. (Tranum) Feaster; another son, Dennis K. Feaster; a daughter, Carolyn Sue Feaster, at home; three brothers, Staff Sgt. Lorraine Feaster, Fort George G. Meade; Charles Feaster, RD 4, Swanton, and Donald Feaster, Maysville, and a sister, Mrs. Hazel Goldizan, Maysville.

Robert M. McKee, 19, of Mill Road, yesterday was questioned in the state's attorney's office in connection with several thefts.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, said McKee will be charged today or tomorrow on three counts of larceny.

McKee, in a statement last week to City Police Lieutenant James E. Van, admitted he stole an old U.S. Army .38 calibre pistol from the home of Frank Foster, 460 Walnut Street.

The complaint was received by City Police from Mr. Foster on November 4. McKee was arrested last week by Tfc. Milton Hart and is being held in Allegany County Jail.

Tulane 18, Louisiana State 15: This is a grudge fight and Tulane is primed for the year's major surprise.

Miss Romack Will Turn Pro

To Play In Tourney Golf Next January

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Barbara Romack, blonde venus of the nation's women amateur golfers, announced Wednesday that she is turning professional and will go on the tournament circuit next January.

"I no longer can afford to participate in golfing events as an amateur," Miss Romack told a press conference.

She added that she has flown to most of her tournaments and devoted so much time to perfecting her game that she might as well play for money.

Miss Romack won the Womens National Amateur title in 1954 and the Canadian Amateur a year earlier. She also has captured such golf tournaments as the Womens North and South title in 1952 and was runnerup in the National Amateur this year and in the British Amateur in 1955.

The 26-year-old Sacramento star also has been a member of the U.S. Curtis Cup team three different times and won the California State Amateur on four occasions.

Toque Victor At Pimlico

Snaps String Of Winning Favorites

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP) — After the first six races had gone to favorites, Nick Shuk, aboard Toque, coasted to victory in the seventh at Pimlico today to give Shuk his third winner of the afternoon.

Toque, which paid $8.40, $4.20 and $2.60, breezed in a length and a half ahead of Agah Alibhai in the mile run on the turf. Agha Alibhai returned $4.80 and $3.00. The favorite, Countermand, paid $2.40.

Countermand went off a 2-to-1 favorite off his defeat of Toque at seven furlongs last week.

Toque, son of Ardan and Bonnet Ann, was not as alert as usual leaving the gate and Shuk reserved the six-year-old's burst of speed for the final three furlongs. He took the lead on the last turn and was still full of run after rushing out the mile in 1:40 2/5.

Beck To Ride At Wheeling

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Jockey Clinton Beck, Pensacola, Fla., one of the country's leading riders, will race during the remainder of the fall meeting at Wheeling Downs, it was announced Wednesday.

Gratuity Takes Feature Event At Narragansett

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 19 (AP) —Held in reserve by Jorge Contreras as five others in the field of nine sprinted away early, Mrs. Rose Choolfain's Gratuity today drove to a 10-length victory in today's featured event at Narragansett Park, the longest race of the meeting.

Favored by the 8,829 crowd, the six-year-old Black Gang mare won the mile and five-eighths Overnight Handicap in 2.50 4/5.

She paid $4.60 and $3.40 both to place and show. Mrs. Tom Perillo's War Ace Boy, which also came from behind, was second, a length in Front of Frank Oacoi's Land Lover. The second horse paid $7.20 and $5.40 with Land Lover returning $5.40 to show.

The double paid $41 after the favorite won the first race and the fourth choice took the second. There were 67 ten-dollar tickets and 944 two-dollar tickets sold combining J. H. Carr's White Glory with Parlow Farm's Safe Date.

JAMAICA, N.Y., Nov. 19 (AP) — Roy R. Hunt's Hoosier Honey, a forward factor most of the way, proved best in the stretch drive to win the $28,650 Firenze Handicap for fillies and mares at Jamaica race track today.

The 4-year-old daughter of High Bandit - Kentmere Miss won a three horse photo from Foxcatcher Farms' Lopar and Harold H. Polk's Mlle. Dianne, who finished a neck and a neck back of the winner. The time for the mile and a sixteenth was a lacklustre 1:45 2/5.

Horse Trainer Barred For Use Of Bad Language

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trainer George W. Bishop has been barred from racing any horses owned by himself or his wife in Maryland for at least 24 days for using "abusive language" to two officials of Pimlico.

Joseph F. Flanagan, steward representing the Maryland Racing Commission, said he had suspended Bishop for the remainder of Pimlico's meeting which ends Dec. 13.

Flanagan said he had recommended the commission extend the suspension to Jan. 1. Such suspensions by one state are recognized by all others belonging to the Thoroughbred Racing Assn.

Flanagan said Bishop had abused Louis Pondfield, executive director and general manager, and Charles McLennan, secretary, of Pimlico.

Bishop tried to enter a horse named Stiletto in this afternoon's seventh race with Claude Feltner listed as the trainer. The stewards ordered him scratched because he is owned by Mrs. Bishop.

Army-Navy Tilt Is Again Sellout

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Army-Navy football game is once again a sellout.

Capt. Slade Cutter, director of athletics for the Naval Academy, said Wednesday that the 98,593 tickets available were oversubscribed and some applications had to be cut.

Navy is host team this year for the game to be played Nov. 29 in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

Holy Cross Drops Pitt From Grid Schedule In 1959

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Villanova and Columbia replace Pittsburgh in the expanded 1959 Holy Cross football schedule announced Wednesday.

The Crusaders will play 10 games for the first time in four seasons by adding the independent and Ivy League elevens to next fall's slate. The added games mark the first meetings with both since 1947.

The 1959 schedule also juggles several opponents, moving Dartmouth into the opening game spot held by Pittsburgh.

The schedule:

Sept. 26, at Dartmouth; Oct. 3, Villanova; Oct. 10, Dayton; Oct. 17, at Syracuse; Oct. 24, at Columbia; Oct. 31, Colgate; Nov. 7, at Boston University; Nov. 14, at Penn State; Nov. 21, at Marquette; Nov. 28, Boston College.

Bears Claim Rudy Bukich

Redskins May Try To Deal Quarterback

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Chicago Bears claimed quarterback Rudy Bukich Wednesday a few hours after the passer was put on waivers by the Washington Redskins, but the Bears may never get him.

Coach Joe Kuharich said he would talk to the Bears "in hopes of working out a deal." If none can be consummated, Kuharich said the waivers would be recalled.

Bukich, who has been the Redskins' number three quarterback behind Eddie LeBaron and Ralph Guglielmi, was openly miffed about Kuharich's decision to release him.

"It's the money, not my ability," he declared.

Bukich said he was earning a fairly high salary and the Redskins apparently did not want to carry him on the payroll with the Tribe just about out of title contention.

Redskins' President George Preston Marshall was in New York and not available for comment. But Kuharich flatly denied the club merely wanted to save on Bukich's salary for the rest of the season.

"This isn't any special case," Joe declared. "It's routine to ask for waivers on players who may be of great value to other clubs, but who may not fit into your own immediate or future plans. The boy has a perfect right to say whatever he thinks, and I'm just sorry he feels the way he does."

Al Abrams Heads Baseball Writers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, was elected chairman of the Pittsburgh chapter of the baseball writers Tuesday night at an annual dinner meeting.

Joe Bradis of the Associated Press was named vice chairman and will succeed Abrams in 1960.

Fred Landucci of the Pittsburgh Press and Rudy Cernkovic of the United Press International were retained as treasurer and secretary respectively.

Potomac State Plays West Liberty In Cage Tourney

KEYSER, W. Va. — The Potomac State College basketball team will meet West Liberty College in the first game of the round-robin tourney being sponsored by the New Martinsville Junior Chamber of Commerce on November 28 and 29.

Wheeling and Davis & Elkins will clash in the second game of the night doubleheader at the Magnolia High School gym on November 28. The winners will meet in the finals the following night following a consolation battle between the losers.

Starting time for the first game each evening will be 7 o'clock.

Thanksgiving Turkey Bones Bad For Dog

While it is the custom for Americans to enjoy the traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner with turkey and all the trimmings, the dog should not be used as an animated garbage can for the leftovers, advises the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York.

It is especially important not to give the dog any bones that will splinter and cause him a great deal of trouble. Chief offenders of this type are turkey and other poultry bones. However, sharp bones from chops, ribs and steaks can cause just as much misery to the dog, and should equally be avoided.

If you want the dog to have a special holiday treat, feed him his regular diet with table scraps such as turkey meat, giblets or gravy mixed

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Of the 56 million dollars already earned by "The Ten Commandments", C. B. De Mille tells me he doesn't get a penny. It goes into the De Mille trust fund for education and charity. "I get my wealth out of the way it's been welcomed," C.B. told me.

He had just that day received a cable from Vienna saying that the "Ten Commandments" premiere was attended by the chancellor of Austria, Julius Raab, and other dignitaries, and that it was sold out for weeks.

C. B. continues to amaze me. At 77 he is working on two motion picture ventures. "I call one 'Project X,' and this particular idea is being developed by John Garris," he said, "and the other is 'Project Y' which will come first. It's not based on any novel or play, but on a subject."

That's all I could wheedle out of him because he said he had to clear some rights, but he promised to tell me at a later date. I would be willing to bet at least a part of my salary that one of these is a religious subject.

Frank Sinatra's flu turned out to be the 48-hour virus instead of the 24-hour, and his doctor wouldn't let him go to work. However, the "Hole in the Head" company is ahead of schedule. Keenan Wynn, who had a 10-day guarantee, finished in two-and-a-half days. Carolyn Jones and her husband, Aaron Spelling, are also on the sick list, but Carolyn had ptomaine poisoning and was able to return to work.

They tell me that the teenagers flocked to meet Eddie Hodges, the little boy in "Music Man," who has a part with Frankie in "Hole in the Head." Another bit of news from this Florida location is that Eddie Robinson is again interested in art. He sent his wife, Jane, to New York to bid on some paintings, or at least to take a look at them. Jane, too, has become art conscious since she married Eddie.

Once a year Beverly Hills permits some specific charity to raise funds. This year it was the California Old People's Home with Chief of Police Anderson and Lawrence McHugh, head of the Social Service, determining that this was worthy, and it certainly is.

I went to their dinner and met some of the fine doctors in charge of this home. The old people are taken in absolutely free. They range in age from 65 to 95. They get good food, good care, medical attention and companionship. What a wonderful thing for these people who have no relatives to look after them.

Dr. Earl Rivkin and Dick Lane were in charge of the entertainment and it was really a great night.

To lose two friends within 24 hours of each other is very sad. I have been thinking about John Hearst, his happy laugh, his gentleness, and the way he always telephoned me when he came to California. Once he brought his daughter, Debbie, to see me. He was so proud of her and said she was more beautiful than any girl on the screen.

Tyrone Power also was gentle and kind, and another man who would never hurt anyone. Both boys, so young, had much to live for.

Ex-Banker Charged With Embezzlement

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The government said Tuesday a former vice president of a Winchester bank has been charged with embezzling $21,046.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Clyde Pearson said 51-year-old Charles Edwin Rupp allegedly began embezzling from the Commercial and Savings Bank of Winchester about 1952. Pearson said the shortage developed in the note department. Rupp he said was collecting on notes and not remitting to the bank.

Rupp resigned in October as vice president.

It was recommended that his bond be set at $5,000. It is returnable at the March term of U.S. District Court in Harrisonburg.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	3 ♠	Double	Pass
3 NT.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: ♥ 8.

Carelessness in playing to the first trick frequently arises from a failure on the part of declarer to count his tricks. South of today's hand is now firmly convinced that time marches on, for the split second which he lost at trick one could not be regained, and resulted in the loss of a crucial hand.

The bidding will pass muster. South passed, and West had a reasonable vulnerable pre-empt.

Tho he held only mild support for the other major, North's take-out double is proper because the hand is too good to abandon the fight in spite of his partner's previous pass. South had ample values for his three no trump bid.

The 8of hearts was opened and South, with the idea of building up a second heart trick in a hurry, played low from dummy.

This was his undoing. East won with the king and returned the 7 of spades. Declarer covered with the jack; West won with the queen and cleared the suit by playing the ace and another spade, conceding one trick to declarer.

In the forlorn hope that East held the king of clubs, declarer later in the play took the club finesse for his ninth trick, but failed.

It should have been clear to South that he could not afford to lose a trick early in the play, that is, before the club suit was established.

The second heart trick was of little consequence, for declarer had nine tricks as soon as the club king was dislodged.

He should have lost no time going up with the ace of hearts. Then comes the club finesse. Tho it loses to West the defense can do no better than take four tricks.

OFFERS HOME TO FRENCH

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —Dame Mabel Brookes, Australian socialite, said Wednesday she will present to the French government the house in which Napoleon lived while in exile on the Island of St. Helena. She said she bought the house, known as "The Pavilion," and the adjacent house, "The Briars," where her grandfather lived when she learned they were to be demolished.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Grisly, But Good

"Conquest," that splendid CBS-TV science program, has fortunately survived its first year, which in all programs of this kind is the risky inverval, and is safely embarked now on its second year. The first of these programs last Sunday grappled with new discoveries in the human brain and was the most interesting and sophisticated of any "Conquest" program I have seen.

I use the word "sophisticated" gingerly. I mean simply that the techniques of discussing and explaining difficult scientific advances is being handled easily and colloquially without any loss of precision. That is a very great feat. There seemed to me to be bolder, sharper direction, too. The preparations for a brain operation on an epileptic, for example, shifted from the operating taule where the brain lay exposed in the conscious and talking patient to Eric Sevareid and a guide watching from overhead—back and forth in a thoroughly professional manner.

In this age of monster pictures, this was a real scary one because it was actual. A doctor with a low voltage needle "stimulated" certain parts of the conscious patient's brain to discover what parts of the body they controlled. "Why," asked Sevareid, "do you have to re-map, re-chart, every individual brain? Aren't they all alike?" His guide, Dr. Robert Livingston, explained: "One brain is not exactly like another any more than our faces are exactly alike."

Just then the needle activated an old memory of music in the patient's brain which I found truly alarming. If the doctors can monkey with our memories . . . Actually, it got worse. The demonstrations moved into the brains of cats and rats that had electrodes planted deeply into them.

First, a cat was awakened by stimulating the proper part of the brain. "Sleep, wakefulness, alertness, attention—these functions were the business primarily of the psychologist previously," explained Dr. Livingston. "Now we know that certain brain mechanisms are linked to these and we can work together with the psychologist to explore them."

After that, things got much more complicated and, to me, progressively more alarming. A rat was shown running from one end of a maze to another, getting more and more adept at finding his way, simply to give himself the thrill of stimulating his brain. Said the researcher: "We wanted to find just how much punishment we could make a rat take in order to stimulate his brain." A grid was electrified. Rats, explained the researcher, Jim Olds, would starve to death rather than take such an electrical shock to get to food—but this rat, after recoiling just once, crossed the grid several times to stimulate his brain. What sort of thrill do you suppose brain stimulation is in order to drive the rat to do that? It's all a little like something out of Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World."

The second part of the hour-long show was an examination of the power of waves and how to adjus' both ships and shoreline to live with it and to fight back. This didn't have quite the ghoulish impact of the bit about monkeying with our minds but it was, I thought, an absolutely first-rate job of photographing, cutting, and editing a difficult scientific subject. Waves, incidently, are very photogenic when the sea kicks up and there were some wonderful shots showing the tremendous power of an angry sea.

Your perfect educational show should mix show business with genuine information. It should be important enough information to warrant the attention of a network (to say nothing of your and my attention); it should be clear without stooping to first grade terminology to make it so. I can't pretend that "Conquest" has always done this. Come to think of it, I'm not sure it ever has before this program.

There's a narrow line between education and sensation for its own sake and it's sometimes hard to know which side you're on. Not long ago the Westinghouse Station in San Francisco, KPIX, televised a live heart operation on "little Tommy" Hunter and got deluged with 50,000 letters, most of them approving. Electrodes in cats' brains I find grisly but educational; heart operations on "little Tommy" I find just plain grisly without any compensating reason for being in my living room.

Moorefield Adds 17 Parking Meters

MOOREFIELD — The town of Moorefield is installing 17 additional parking meters along Main Street. Nine of the new parking meters are being placed from the office of the Moorefield Examiner south on Main Street to Miley's Grill and three in front of Arno Friddle's residence. The street in front of the Gamble residence will no longer be a parking area. The town council decided the curve in Main Street at that point is dangerous when cars are parked and parking will be permitted on the west side of the street only.

Market Strength Shown By Rails, Oils And Steels

NEW YORK (UPI)—After milling around most of the session stocks developed strength toward the close with rails, oils and steels the main leaders.

The rise, accompanied by increased volume, sent rails to their highest level in nearly two years but was insufficient to make up Tuesday's loss in the industrials.

Volume rose to 4,090,000 shares from 3,820,000 Tuesday.

Norfolk & Western Railway closed up 5 points on street reports it is studying the possibilities of a merger with another road. This and other rail gains, including a point or more in New York Central and Kansas City Southern, carried the rail average to a new high since Dec. 7, 1956.

Movements in several stocks, including AT&T and Lorillard, reflected dividend action. AT&T fell 1¾ when its directors declared the usual dividend of $2.25. Reports have been circulating for some time that the stock might be split or the dividend raised.

Other wide gainers with advances running to around 5 points included Sunbeam, Texas & Pacific Railway and Polaroid.

Oils came to life late in the day with a gain of about 3 in Wilcox and more than a point in Kern County. In the internationals Standard California and Texas Co. were up major fractions.

U. S. Steel and Continental Steel perked up their group with a rise of 1⅜ in the former and 2⅝ in the latter.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—A generally higher trend pushed grain futures into steady to firm prices at the close on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ⅜ to ¾ cent; corn (old) up ¾ to 1¼ cents, (new) up ½ to 1¼ cents; oats unchanged to up ¼ cent; rye up ⅞ to off ⅜ cent; soybeans up ⅜ to ¾ cent.

December wheat rallied and led the way to firm ground. Deferred contracts shared somewhat in the advance. Local and commercial buying were featured. Locals bought December and sold March wheat.

December and March corn contracts were favorites in the session. There was a scattered commission house buying. Cash interests took old December and offset selling of new March by Northwest brokers. Locals had great demand for December corn.

Further liquidation of December oats featured the crop. Cash houses were steady buyers.

Commercial buying of January soybeans, offsetting an elevator and commission house selling movement, gave the only feature to a slow trade.

City Will Get Flood Project About May 1

Cut In Maintenance Costs Is Sought

The Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project will be turned over to the City of Cumberland for operation about next May 1.

That is the tentative date for the formal transfer as set yesterday afternoon when officials of the City of Cumberland and the Corps of Engineers met here to discuss the operation of the $18,000,000 project.

Col. George B. Sumner, R. L. Wadsworth, Worth D. Phillips, Washington District, and Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer, represented the Corps of Engineers.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Street Commissioner John J. Long, Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder, City Attorney William R. Carscaden and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum represented the City of Cumberland.

During the lengthy conference, there was agreement on a number of points, dealing chiefly with the maintenance of the project. They included:

May Cut Costs

The Corps of Engineers will review the Operation and Maintenance Manual for the flood control project, to see if it is possible to reduce maintenance costs. This is based on the premise that if the number of required inspections could be reduced without adversely affecting the machinery and the project as a whole, maintenance costs could be reduced.

The Operation and Maintenance Manual has been approved by the city with the understanding that, should desired changes be necessary, such changes will be discussed by the parties in interest.

The Corps of Engineers will cooperate with the city in seeking means of reducing the cost of operation and maintenance without adversely affecting the efficiency of the project.

The Corps will advise the city as to what procedures will be taken if the city is to perform any maintenance work which is the responsibility of the Corps of Engineers. It is understood that the contract will, in all probability, be on a fiscal basis and the work to be done and amount to be paid to the city would be agreed upon in advance if the city is to perform the work.

Cite Responsibility

So far as the Corps of Engineers is concerned, the operation and maintenance of the project is the responsibility of the City of Cumberland, and any cost to be borne by the Town of Ridgeley is entirely a matter between the City of Cumberland and the Town of Ridgeley.

The City of Cumberland will notify the Corps of Engineers as to the appointment of a superintendent and assistant to the superintendent, as required in the maintenance manual.

The Corp's real estate department will compile a list of outstanding real estate transactions by and between the government and the city in connection with property acquisitions and other legal matters.

Work Progressing

Mr. Dexter reported that Sections 2 and 3 of the Wills Creek phase should be completed by the E. J. Albrecht Company by December 15.

He said the contract could be accepted by the Corps and turned over to the city for operation at that date even though seeding and some clean-up work would have to be delayed until next spring.

Work on the Western Maryland Railway Bridge, Mr. Dexter reported, should be completed very soon, perhaps by December 1.

In reply to a query of Mr. Long, he said the temporary hump at the Western Maryland crossing will be removed and the approach returned to its former condition as soon as the bridge is in and the temporary railway trestle is removed.

Mr. Dexter reported the Hazelwood Construction Company, contractor for Section 4, should be finished in the creek by about January 15.

May Cut Costs

At present, the city has a flood control maintenance crew composed of a foreman and five men.

If maintenance tasks are reduced, it might be possible, as the city wishes, to reduce maintenance costs by reducing the size of the crew.

Officials of the Corps of Engineers stressed that the maintenance superintendent should be qualified to make technical decisions and should be an engineer.

This superintendent would supervise the work of the assistant to the superintendent, who need not have professional training.

There was considerable discussion on Ridgeley's responsibility toward operating the system.

One city official said he thought a fair contribution for Ridgeley would be eight cents on the tax rate — the cost of the project for residents of Cumberland.

Hold Discussion

Easy Does It

Hampered by brisk winds, workmen of the George F. Hazelwood Company yesterday hoisted a four-ton prefabricated iron steeple 70 feet onto the new St. Paul's Lutheran Church now under construction on the old Roman property on Washington Street. Some time ago treated wood had been applied to the 48-foot section which was hoisted yesterday and was bolted in place on the steel superstructure. In the near future scaffolding will be built around the steeple and white porcelain enamel material will be applied. From the floor of the church building to the tip of the steeple it will be 118 feet. Extensions had to be placed on the boom of the crane in order that the steeple could be hoisted high enough. Guy wires were used in controlling the movement of the steeple during the operation.

Six To Attend Conference On Education

At least six representatives of Allegany County are expected to attend a two-day State Conference on Education at the Southern Hotel in Baltimore starting tomorrow.

Those expected to attend from Allegany County include Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Joseph M. Miller, a member of the County Board of Education; A. Trago Brust Jr., representing the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company; John G. Thomas, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union; J. Kenneth Morgan, representing the Celanese Corporation of America, and Dr. William T. Fridinger, local dentist.

Last February, the State Board of Education recommended that a state-wide conference on education be held this fall, looking toward the betterment and continued progress in the educational system of Maryland.

Following this decision, an advisory committee, representative of various educational and civic organizations in Maryland, was appointed. This committee agreed that a state meeting of about 400 participants of diversified interests would be profitable, would inform the public of what is going on in the schools of the state and enable the public to recognize and understand the real goals of education.

A number of prominent persons will speak during sessions of the conference which has its first session from 10 a.m. until noon Friday. Wendell D. Allen, president of the State Board of Education, will discuss "Purposes of the Conference."

During the morning session, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, will speak on "Accepted Purposes of Public Education." Dr. Paul R. Mort, professor of education at Columbia University's Teachers College, will discuss "The Need For Increased Financial Support For Public Education."

Governor Thedore R. McKeldin will extend greetings at the luncheon meeting and Judge Charles E. Moylan of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City will speak on "What's Right With Youth."

"Humanity's Stake In Education" will be the subject of the remarks of Dr. Reuben G. Gustavson, president and executive director, Resources For The Future, Inc., at the Friday dinner meeting.

The conference will close with a Saturday luncheon at which Neil H. Swanson, editorial writer for the Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American, will summarize the highlights.

Boys Are Caught Letting Air Out Of Car Tires

City police last night caught two 15-year-old local boys "redhanded" as they were letting air out of automobile tires on Wineow Street.

They are being held for action of Juvenile Court in the detention quarters at the County Infirmary. They told police they let air out of tires parked throughout the city during the past couple of nights.

Several complaints were received last night and City Police Detective Kenneth Morrissey caught the two boys.

Tuesday night police got calls from residents who said air had been let out of their tires on cars parked on Greenway Avenue, Fort Hill High School parking let and Memorial Avenue Extended.

Suspect Released By State Police

A man who was picked up Tuesday by State Police at a Flintstone roadblock after he allegedly attempted to force a 14-year-old girl into a car in Hancock has been released.

Authorities at the LaVale Barracks said the unidentified man had been arrested by Trooper Harry J. Garcia and turned over to State Police in Hancock.

However, the girl was unable to identify the man who had been nabbed at the roadblock in Flintstone. State Police at Hancock alerted other units in the state after the girl informed her school principal a man attempted to force her into his automobile.

Police said the girl was walking home to get her eye glasses when a man stopped his car on U.S. Route 40 in Hancock and attempted to force her into the car.

War Orphans Eligible For Education Aid

It's not too early for young men and young women of this area to begin plans if they intend to enroll in January classes under the war orphans program, according to Sam Weston, local Veterans Administration contact representative observed yesterday.

Mr. Weston noted that R. T. Brown, manager of the VA regional office in Maryland has called attention to the fact that there are now 50 war orphans attending schools in Maryland under this program which provides educational allowances up to $110 per month.

The program provides educational assistance in colleges and universities, as well as below-college-level schools for the sons and daughters of war veterans who died of injuries or disease resulting from their wartime military service.

The usual age span for orphan students is between 18 and 23; however a recent law allows children with handicaps to begin special types of training when they reach age 14. Types of training they may acquire at this earlier age are special restorative training designed to overcome handicaps, or special vocational training so they can become self-sufficient and productive citizens.

For the others, Mr. Weston notes, education may be taken in colleges and universities as well as below - college - level schools. Regular high school training is not included.

Early action now on the part of students will give the VA ample time to process all necessary applications and details. The child's parent or guardian must file an application with the nearest VA office, and information on this education aid plan can be obtained from Mr. Weston at the Post Office Building.

Tawes Praises Support Of Garrett Demos

Party Pledges 'Best We Have'

"The greatest mandate in Maryland's political history has been handed to the Democrats by the public," Governor-elect J. Millard Tawes told those in attendance at a victory dinner held last night in Oakland by the Democratic Party members of Garrett County.

"We have a grave responsibility to serve well, to plan well, and to give the best we have to all the people of the state," he said.

"We want to close our four-year administration with a report to the people that will reflect progress and honor and strategy and a record of administration which will reflect favorably on Maryland in the eyes of the entire nation and the whole world."

Lauds Workers

He paid special tribute to the State Central Committee of the county and also lauded the workers and women who got out the vote. The governor-elect reminded those at the dinner that many Republicans had voted Democratic since they believed the general welfare of the state rests best in the hands of the Democrats.

He pointed out the sweeping victory of the Democrats not only on the county level but across the state and mentioned that many were elected to office for the first time in decades.

The governor-elect mentioned that Thomas D'Alesandro, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for U.S. Senator, sent his greetings and wanted to thank the voters for their support, and was sorry he could not stem the Republican tide for Sen. J. Glenn Beall, who won re-election.

Sybert, Goldstein Speak

Also speaking at the dinner, attended by about 200 persons, were C. Ferdinand Sybert, elected attorney general, Louis L. Goldstein, comptroller-elect and John R. Foley, Congressman-elect from the Sixth District.

Congressman-elect Foley called the Democratic victory a "genuinely historic occasion." He and the other candidates expressed their appreciation to the county committee, workers and citizens for their support.

They also paid respect to Bernard I. Gonder who was elected state senator from Garrett County. It was pointed out that not only was the election a Democratic victory but the party gained confidence of some members of the GOP.

Toastmaster of the dinner held at the William James Hotel was Stuart F. Hamill Jr., the party's candidate for state's attorney of Garrett County.

The dinner meeting was opened by Lewis H. Hudson, chairman of the county State Central Committee. He gave a report on the recent campaign.

Mr. Hudson outlined three major factors in the campaign strategy. First, he said, a rift had been started in the Republican Party and this was capitalized upon by the Democrats.

Secondly, a Federated Democratic Women's Club was formed in the county. Mrs. Helen Baumgartner, only woman member of the State Central Committee, deserves a lot of credit, said Mr. Hudson.

A complete county-wide organization of precincts also paid off for the Democrats in the election.

Dance Is Held

Following the dinner a public dance was held at the Moose Home, where the various candidates greeted the residents.

Among those attending from Allegany County were former Judge William C. Walsh and his son, William Walsh, who was elected to the House of Delegates, and F. Allan Weatherholt, member of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee.

Also invited were Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the committee; Edward V. Welsh, manager of the Cumberland office of the state comptroller; F. Patrick Allender, representing organized labor; and Francis A. Kenney and William Owen of the Maryland Employment Service.

Williamsburg Local Defers Pact Action

Luke Local 676, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, reported yesterday it had been advised that Williamsburg, Pa., Local 677 voted Tuesday to defer action on a contract until an agreement is reached at West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's Mechanicville, N. Y., mill.

It was the same action as was taken by the Luke and Covington locals, the union spokesman said.

Del. Robinson Will Seek Post Of Speaker Of House

BALTIMORE (AP) — Del. Jerome Robinson (D - Balto 4th) launched a campaign Wednesday night for election as speaker of Maryland's House of Delegates.

The Baltimore delegate released a letter which he said he had sent to every elected delegate, 116 of whom are Democrats, asking for speakership of the House, "pending further developments and until I have had an opportunity to see you personally."

Robinson specifically mentioned that Gov.-Elect J. Millard Tawes "naturally will be entitled to express his views on the leadership of the assembly."

Robinson, in his letter, noted he has been in the House of Delegates for 20 continuous years — "the longest period of service of any Democrat in the General Assembly."

His mentioned opponent were A. Gordon Boone (D-Baltimore County) and Perry Wilkinson (D - Prince Georges).

Man Seeks $20,000 For His Injuries

Clothing Caught In Car Door

A Mt. Savage man yesterday filed a $20,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court for injuries allegedly sustained last March in a freak accident involving an automobile.

George Nuse, through Attorney Estel C. Kelley, filed the $20,000 action against Harold Waingold, 1208 Bedford Street; Louis Waingold, Braddock Road, partners, trading as Harold's Used Cars, McMullen Highway, and Charles Waingold, LaVale, jointly and severally.

The five-page declaration charges that Mr. Nuse sustained permanent and severe injuries on or about March 12 when he was dragged and pulled along North Centre Street after his clothing caught in the door of the car which was being driven by Charles Waingold.

It was contended that Charles Waingold, acting as agent for Harold's Used Cars and driving an automobile owned by the partners, offered Mr. Nuse a ride in the car.

Charles Waingold, the declaration alleges, started the car suddenly after stopping to leave Mr. Nuse out on North Centre Street. He contends that the door closed on his clothing because of the sudden start. The injured man said that both his left leg and left foot were injured, he received permanent scars, was hospitalized at Sacred Heart Hospital for some time and sustained severe shock.

The declaration was divided into two counts, the first being against the partners, and the second against Charles Waingold.

Architect's Plan For Library Gains Approval

Architect's plans for the new library at Allegany High School have won the endorsement with only minor changes of Miss Mae Graham, supervisor of school and children's libraries for the Division of Library Extension of the State Department of Education.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster yesterday received a letter from Miss Graham explaining that two representatives of the Silver Spring architectural firm of Johannes and Murray had met with her in Baltimore to show her their plans for the new Allegany library, which will be developed in what is now the gymnasium.

Mr. Webster discussed the library plans yesterday afternoon with Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer.

The old gymnasium will be converted for library use after the new gymnasium in the $870,000 addition to the school is completed, probably by spring. Brick walls for the addition are nearing completion and representatives of the George F. Hazelwood Company are hopeful of getting the roof completed before winter arrives.

Conversion of the old gymnasium will be done under a separate contract. Bids probably will be requested in the late winter or early spring. It may be that most of the work will have to be done next summer so as not to inconvenience classes in the school. At any rate, Mr. Webster hopes to have the job done before classes resume next September.

Mathews Is Chairman Of '39 Class Reunion

Members of the class of 1939 of Allegany High School met this week and elected Robert A. Mathews, 609 Piedmont Avenue, chairman of a committee to formulate plans for a reunion marking the 20th anniversary of their graduation.

Other committee members are Edward Shuck, vice president; Geneva Lewis Nave, secretary; John Snyder, treasurer.

Mr. Mathews said the reunion will be held in the early summer of 1959. During the meeting at Central YMCA the class members went over the roster of graduates and an effort will be made to contact as many as possible.

He urges graduates of 1939 to telephone PA 2-1526 or PA 4-3669. Another meeting will be held at 8 p. m. December 2. The meeting place will be announced later.

State Police Trainees Get Field Experience

Four trainees of the Maryland State Police Academy at Pikesville are getting a month's field training in Allegany County.

Lt. William E. O'Hara, commander of the LaVale Barracks, said last night all four men are from Baltimore and are expected to return to the Academy the latter part of this month and graduate next month.

The four men who have been going along with older troopers in investigating accidents and other cases are Harry E. Yaukey, Edward C. Stamm, Stephen P. Riland and James H. Plunkert. After graduation they will be given regular assignments.

GARLAND R. FEASTER

Services Set For Man Killed By Falling Tree

G. R. Feaster Struck While Cutting Timber

A funeral service for Garland Ray Feaster, 36, of Beryl, W. Va., who was crushed to death yesterday when he was struck by a falling tree on Backbone Mountain about two miles west of Bloomington, will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Beryl Presbyterian Chapel.

Interment will be in Philos Cemetery, Westernport. The body is at the residence. The victim was working on a timber-cutting operation with a son, James R. Feaster, who is 17.

The son told authorities that he and his father had sawed almost through a 45-foot hickory tree, and his father had mounted a tractor to pull the tree down.

The tree glanced off another standing tree and fell onto the tractor, killing Mr. Feaster instantly. The son managed to get his father off the vehicle and then drove to Savage River Inn to place a call for authorities. Time of the fatal accident was approximately 9 a. m.

Born in Maysville, W. Va., a son of Dayton and Pearl (Berg) Feaster, he had resided at Beryl 18 years. Mr. Feaster had been employed at the Luke Mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company three years and ran a timber cutting operation as a sideline.

A veteran of World War II, he held membership in Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, American Legion of Piedmont, and Maysville Church of the Brethren.

Surviving, besides his son and parents, are his widow, Mrs. Dorothy M. (Tranum) Feaster; another son, Dennis K. Feaster; a daughter, Carolyn Sue Feaster, at home; three brothers, Staff Sgt.
